There were 63 in attendance and numerous letters and telegrams were read, expressing sympathy and concord with the object of the meeting. This was carried unanimously. Mr. Crawford again moved, and Mr. Spence seconded, that the high constable, Mr. B. B. Allen and Mr. J. B. McKillop, assistant crown attorney, be a committee to draft a petition from this resolution and submit the same to the Government as soon as possible. This was also carried. A vote of thanks was then passed to the chairman and secretary and the meeting adjourned.

Local Legal News.

In the High Court of Justice Friday:

Butler vs. City of London—Stands till Tuesday, April 4. Injunction continued meanwhile.

Atkinson vs. Innes—G. W. Marsh (London), for the plaintiff, moved to continue an injunction restraining an investigation by a commission of inquiry into differences between the Rev. George W. Wye, rector of an Anglican church at Amherstburg, and his parishioners. The inquiry was directed by the Very Rev. Dean Innes, commissary of the Bishop of Huron, and the plaintiff claimed that the commissary had exceeded his powers. S. H. Blake, Q. C., for the defendants, contra, contended that the injunction was unnecessary, the defendants having undertaken not to proceed with the investigation; and that at all events the court should not interfere with the domestic concerns of the church, as an investigation only was proposed, and no interference with the property or rights of the plaintiff was threatened. Motion dismissed and injunction dissolved with costs to the defendants in the cause.

In Court of Appeal: Re Thompson vs. Hay—Shepley, Q C., for the plaintiff, appealed from the judgment of the Queen's Bench Divisional Court, reported 22 O. R., 583, allowing the defendants' appeal from the order of a judge in chambers refusing prohibition to the first division court in the county of Middlesex. The plaintiff contended, inter alia, that there had been no refusal; that in fact the judge had found that he had jurisdiction and that his decision was not subject to review. G. W. Marsh (London), for the defendant, contra. Reserved.

Independent Order of Foresters.

Dr. Oronhyatekha, the supreme chief ranger, has been busily engaged for some time past preparing a work on the history of the order, which will be shortly published. The work in England and Scotland is making wonderful headway, the doctor having received a cablegram informing him that two more courts have been instituted, one at Dingwall, Scotland, and another at Glasgow. The work gives such promise that the supreme chief ranger will take three experienced organizers with him when he sails for Europe on the 22nd of April next. The doctor has also received letters asking permission to institute courts in South Africa, Belgium and Denmark, but the supreme chief ranger has decided not to do anything on the continent of Europe until the last vestige of cholera has entirely disappeared. Bro. H. Gibbons, of this city, late organizer for the High Court of Ontario, leaves on Monday for England to take up the organizing work in the old country. The following new courts have been organized during the past few days: Court Manlius, No. 740, at Fayettville, N. Y.; Erimus, 2,012, at London, Eng.; Falls City, 765, at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Chateaugay, 772, at Chateaugay, N. Y., and Bossevain, Man.

"Jane" To-Night.

Chas. Frohman's company of players will be at the Grand to-night, and appear in the famous comedy success, "Jane," the hit of two hemispheres. The company were at the Grand in Toronto all last week, and the Toronto Mail has the following to say of the performance: "The idea on which the plot of 'Jane' is constructed is not at all a new one, but as it affords to a skillful playwright almost endless opportunities for very ludicrous but highly amusing contretemps it is none the worse for being familiar to many of us. To tell the story is unnecessary to all who are familiar with it, while to those who are not the narration might spoil some of the fun to be gained by going to see an extremely funny and farcical piece well played by a well balanced and strong company. Miss Lena Merville, as Jane, and Mrs. John Findlay, as Mrs. Chadwick, both contributed much to the marked success of the piece and the enjoyment of the evening. Mr. Arthur Boylan's Claude was a part cleverly filled. Messrs. Fisher, Harris and Fortier also did excellent work. All the time the curtain was up there was no cessation to the loud laughter and applause which the spectators evidently liked to revel in. The performance was a marked success, and anyone who wishes for two and a half hours of wholesome and unadulterated merriment should not fail to visit the Grand Opera House this week."

NORTH GALVESTON, Tex., March 26.—The work of dredging the North Galveston harbor has begun. The project is the removal of 35,000 yards, making a deep water channel from the factory docks out through the harbor entrance. This channel is to be 60 feet in width, extending a distance of two miles, and a depth of eight feet of earth will be removed from the bottom at a cost of from $90,000 to $100,000.
