

MEIGHEN CLAIMS FIELDING ACTED TRAITOR ON TARIFF

Opposition Leader Berates Minister of Finance in Final Speech in Support of Col. Robinson's Candidature in North Essex By-Election.

Special to The Advertiser.
by a Staff Reporter.
Windsor, Feb. 27.—In an address pregnant with innuendo and ridicule, the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen at the Armories last night made his final appeal to the electorate of North Essex for support of the Conservative candidate, Col. Sidney Robinson, in the election of March 1.

Interest aroused by the visit of the opposition leader was reflected in the great crowd that turned out to hear his condemnation of everything Liberal. Mr. Meighen threw every verbal spoke imaginable into the wheels of the enemy's legislative chariot, marshalling all the arsenal of his rhetorical faculties to convince the audience that Liberalism under Premier King had become a thing of unenviable repute.

Alleged Duplicity.
He confined himself chiefly to uncompromising observations regarding the alleged duplicity of the premier. So far as Liberal legislation was concerned, however, he offered no substitute. He assailed the sales tax, but did not say what he would have done to procure the revenue had he been the head of the government. He deprecated the King regime for failing to amend the income tax provisions formulated by himself, and in the same breath insisted that any amendment to those provisions would have repeated disaster.

In a word, the Conservative leader indicted Premier King for misleading the public by not implementing his 1921 platform, and at the same time declared that the premier had lived up to that platform, he would have plunged Canada into industrial stagnation.

THE VALUE OF CHARCOAL

Few People Know How Useful It Is in Preserving Health and Beauty.

Nearly everybody knows that charcoal is the most efficient disinfectant and purifier in nature, but few realize its value when properly prepared and taken into the human system for the same cleansing purpose.

Charcoal is a remedy that the more you take of it, the better it will do for you at all, but simply absorbs the poisons and impurities always present in the stomach and intestines, and carries them out of the system.

Charcoal sweetens the breath after smoking, and after eating onions and other odorous vegetables. Charcoal effectively clears and improves the complexion, whitens the teeth and further acts as a natural and eminently safe cathartic.

It absorbs the injurious gases which collect in the stomach and bowels; it disinfects the mouth and throat from the poison of caries.

All druggists sell charcoal in one form or another, but the human system soon tell in a much improved condition of the general health, better complexion, sweeter breath and better quality of blood, but on the contrary, strictly beneficial.

Many physicians advise Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges to patients suffering from gas in stomach and bowels, and to clear the complexion and purify the breath, mouth and throat. They are also believed to greatly benefit the liver. These lozenges cost but thirty cents a box at drug stores, and you get more and better charcoal in Stuart's Absorbent Lozenges than in any of the ordinary charcoal tablets.—Advt.

A HOME-MADE GRAY HAIR REMEDY

You Can Make a Better Gray Hair Remedy Than You Can Buy.

Gray, streaked or faded hair is not only unbecoming, but unnecessary. Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. To half a pint of water add one ounce of bay water, a small box of Orisk Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

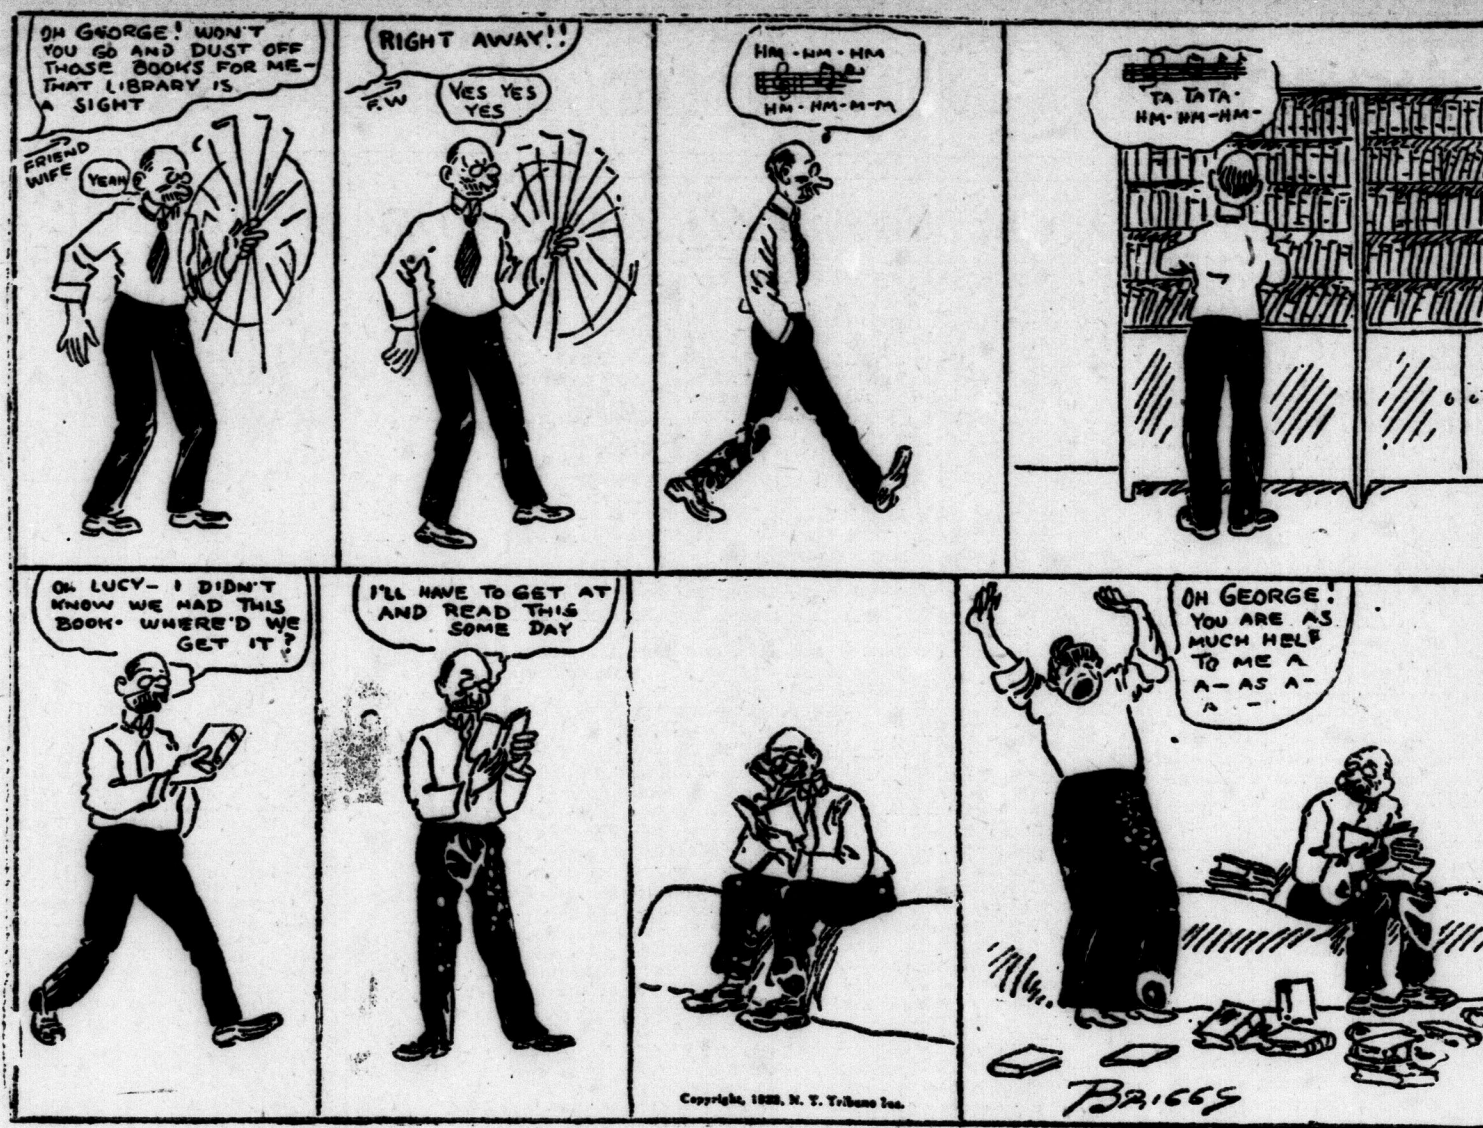

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost, or the druggist will put it up for you. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It is easy to use, does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.—Advt.

TO RELIEVE PAIN AND BACKACHE

Women May Depend upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I had heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that when I realized I needed it to take something to relieve my pains and backache, and to help build me up, I began to take it. I had been sick off and on for years and barely weighed a hundred pounds. Now I have gained such good results that I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to every one."—Mrs. J. J. Bieker, 3839 18th Ave. South, Minneapolis, Minn.

Finds a True Friend
"Every woman who values her health should be proud to have a true friend like the Vegetable Compound," says Mrs. W. E. Shaw, 3227 Walnut Street, Chicago, Illinois. "I had female weakness so badly that I could not stand on my feet. Half of my time was spent in bed and I had pains in my back which were unbearable. I tried everything I could think of to help myself, and when a friend advised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began taking it at once. I recommend it without hesitation."

Lily Wants To Go On Stage Though 71 Years Is Her Age

Special Cable to The Advertiser.
London, Feb. 27.—Lily Langtry, the "Jersey Lily," the most famous stage beauty of her time, would like to return to the stage at the age of 71, but cannot find a non-flapper role. At her home in Monte Carlo, Mrs. Langtry told a representative of the London Daily Express that she would return to her career immediately she were offered a part in a good play.

"But I shall remain in Monte Carlo until the opportunity offers to go back to the stage," she said in no very optimistic voice.

"I'm afraid it would be difficult to find an act suitable for me. They're all flapper plays now."

Retirement of phrases of his major part of Mr. Meighen's speaking time. He went into the railway more thoroughly, however, and the soldiers' pension problem was exhaustively dealt with. It was little short of relentless political effort for Mr. King to fire D. B. Hanna, former chief of the railway board, and Mr. Meighen belittled Thornton and his directors would not be as successful in putting the C. N. R. on its feet as their predecessors.

Mr. Meighen's part and present, was well covered, with the inevitable conclusion, that the Liberal government was responsible for every unfavorable thing connected with it.

Premier King's promise to returned men of cash grants, in addition to gratuity already supplied by Mr. Meighen's cabinet, was described as one of the most iniquitous examples of boomerang and deliberate disavowal of a promise.

When Mr. Meighen demanded of Mr. Fielding the whereabouts of those cash grants promised the soldiers before election, Mr. Fielding replied that they could not afford it. The Conservative chief claimed to have told delegations of returned men who wished an increase of gratuity that he could not possibly consider it, but Mr. King pledged himself to initiate a system of cash grants and thereby got the soldiers' votes, although he never intended gratifying their desires when returned to power.

Mr. Meighen furnished with a plan for recognition of Conservatism's admirable qualities. He thought disapproval of Mr. Healy, the Liberal candidate by North Essex, was the best "tonic" this government ever had.

Colonel Robinson, Mr. Meighen's ally, was a splendid man, one whose irreproachable private life would be paralleled by an unsullied public life in Ottawa.

Mr. Graham and Mr. Beland thought they had the laugh on me because of the promise of a pension as I was supposed to have said they would, if Mr. King became premier," Mr. Meighen said. But what I really stated was that I would close down if the Liberals carried out their pledges. I told the voters the Liberal platform, if implemented, would mean industrial paralysis of the country, but that platform has been spurned and discarded. It was only used to get votes.

People Were Lured.
"Although they boasted they would put nineteen classes of articles on the free list, the only one they have put on is porcelain parts for pumps. The people were lured into the Liberal camp and cynically betrayed. What I protest against and what I ask you to rebuke is the type of men who get into power and boastfully declare after they have enjoyed the fruits and emoluments of office, they care no longer for the promises of the platform and engagements that got them there."

"Not one of my political opponents can quote a single utterance of mine in which I said I favored a high protective policy. The only protection desire is the kind that will allow industries to prosper. The industry of agriculture, on which this country's future depends, has been suffering because it is exposed to unfair American competition, and the government has not the courage to give farmers the protection they deserve."

The unemployment situation Mr. Meighen attributed to the laxity of Premier King in insisting on an energetic and comprehensive immigration policy. Immigration has virtually dried up, he said, and emigration is at its peak. He described Liberal tariff policies as system of "log-rolling" between the Progressives and the government or Sir Lomer Gouin and T. A. C. Crerar.

The industrial prosperity of Canada has stopped its march because of such vacillating procedure, and Mr. Meighen expressed the belief that men of vision would find advantages enterprises when expansion is justified by the election of a responsible government that could decide on a tariff and adhere to it.

The direction of the Labor Department by Mr. Murdoch was another target for Mr. Meighen's finely phrased and sarcastic remarks. The minister of labor, he said, was tremendously concerned over the fate of the poor workingman when Conservatives held the government reins, but as soon as Mr. Murdoch took hold, he forgot his demagogic speeches. He criticized the then prime minister for failure to provide returned men and those who had served in the war with sufficient employment, but did not offer a substitute anything near the equal of the system inaugurated by the preceding parliament.

Precious More Money.
Mr. King and Mr. Crerar denounced the Meighen sales tax, income tax and every other tax levied during the white-hot period of the war, but did not offer a substitute anything near the equal of the system inaugurated by the preceding parliament.

SETTLES DAMAGE SUIT WITHOUT COURT TRIAL

Justice Lennox Will Apportion Costs in Adair Action Against G. T. R.

DEPLORES CROSSING

Scores Stratford Officials For Not Marking Safety Zone At Dangerous Intersection.

Special to The Advertiser.

Stratford, Feb. 26.—Although mention of the action will be made at the present sittings of the supreme court, it is not expected that the case of Clara Adair, widow of the late Joseph Adair, against the Grand Trunk Railway Company, will not come to a trial, a settlement having been effected.

This was an action for $10,000 damages and costs as a result of alleged negligence on the part of the company, which resulted in the death in an accident of her husband.

"The County of Perth is to be congratulated on its absence of crime," said Justice Lennox. "My greetings to the city, however, are not so friendly."

Recalls Deplorable Accident.
His lordship then recalled the deplorable accident, which occurred about two years ago at the intersection of Mornington, Huron and Douglas streets, in which Master Royal Smalley lost his life as a result of being struck by an automobile.

"At the trial which followed I suggested to the city that the street be marked out with heavy lines indicating which way traffic should proceed," his lordship stated. "The city informs me, not voluntarily, but in reply to a question from me, that although the street has since been macadamized, this has not yet been done. If this is so, it is not creditable to the city, and it is disregard to public safety that should not exist. I hope if there is any similar occurrence that the city will not escape."

Jury To Decide Damages.
An interlocutory judgment having been secured in the case of George Smalley of Mitchell versus F. Mutton, St. Marys, for damages for an offence against his daughter, the jury was called to do duty.

Of the non-jury actions, the case of Seebach versus Seebach, an action for alimony has been settled; a settlement is pending in the case of J. M. Lillow against the Beaver Truck Corporation and W. S. Carter, and the Brown versus Durbin action will not come to trial owing to the illness of the plaintiff.
