Lecture at St. Michael's by His Grace on the Bible-The mistory of the Holy Archbishop Lynch delivered his lecture on the Bible at St, Michael's cathedral last night. Before taking up the subject of the evening, his grace expressed his thanks to the congregation for the grand reception they had accorded himself and the visiting prelates. He said Toronto, upon this occasion, amply redeemed itself from the title of a bigoted city, which it obtained on account of the riots during the jubilee of Mr. Boustead looked as happy as a king

Text.—And Jonathan, the high priest of the Jews, sent ambassadors to the people of Rome and to the Spartans to renew the treasties of alliance and amity with those people. The ambassadors, in the name of the high priest and the Jewish people, added: "Though we needed none of these things, having for our comfort the holy books that are in our hands."

—I Maccab, Chap. 12, 1st to 9th verses, condensed.

densed.

Here the ambassadors of those chosen people of God declared that the possession of their sacred books was a greater consolation to them than the friendship and amity and succor of powerful allies. It required some courage to express this to a haughty and proud people that did not haughty and proud people that did not haughty and proud people that did not acknowledge the true God. This was also our consolation and our glory to have our sacred books to console us in our troubles; to encourage us in our combate with our spiritual and temporal enemies to sustain us in our temptations; to encourage us to fight the good fight for its eternal reward. This Holy Book, its eternal reward. This Holy Book, called the bible, was the most sacred of all books, because it had God himself, the Divine truth and wisdom, for its author. It contained letters to us dictated by the Holy Spirit of God; it is a book fitted for all tripped paragraphs and for all times: a all rational persons and for all times; a book calculated to imprint virtue, to sustain the weakness of human nature and to console the afflicted. Well might to console the afflicted. Well might to console the afflicted. Well might Jonathan, the high priest of the Jews, boast in his own name and in the name of his people, that, in all their troubles and trials, they had the glorious consolation of possessing their sacred books. In these books God speaks to man. They contain admirable principles of true wisdom, of legislation and morality, found in no other books. Their wise maxims for the conduct of man on earth surpass all the wisdom of the ancients. In these books are contained the most just rules that should guide both ecclesiastical and secular government.

These books also contained the history of These books also contained the history of the human family from its inception, and also the history of the Hebrews, the then chosen people of God. They contained also poetry, whose sublimity of elevation of thought no human genius has ever attained, because they are books composed by the Spirit of God, which surpasseth all man understanding. I set my bounds around it, and made it bars and doors; and I said: Hitherto thou shalt come and shalt go no further, and here thou shalt break thy swelling waves. Didst thou since thy birth command the morning, and show the birth command the morning, and show the dawning of the day its place? And didst thou hold the extremities of the earth shaking them, and hast thou snaken the ungodly out of it?" In these sacred books we learn whence we came and whither we are going—the nothingness of this world and the grandeur of the next. Here the over anxious for the things of this world are told, "Seek ye first the kingdom of heaven and all things will be given you;" that is, seek this justice and all the rest will be added unto you. "What will it profit a man to gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Here, the man pressed by the grievousness of the temptation learns that he himself is master of the situation, and that God has made an issue situation, and that God has made an issue with the tempter, and that no man is tempted above his strength. God addressed these words to Cain, sorely tempted also: "Why art thou angry, and why is thy countenance fallen If thou. do well, shalt thou not receive a reward, but if ill shalt not sin forthwith be present at the door; but the lust thereof shall be der thee, and thou shalt have dominion Ober It (1861) the highest morality is taught.

THE LARGEST IN THE DOMINION. Opening of the Addition to the Metro politan Sunday-School.
Happy faces beaming with good natured

He also said that he would upon a as he wended his way among the large future occasion take an opportunity of crowd present at the opening of the addition yesterday afternoon. The addition is of white brick, and is a very handsome structure. The school-room has been considerably enlarged, and in rear of the platsiderably enlarged, and in rear of the platform are the secretary's room, the superintendent's room, and two large class rooms. At the other end of the school-room is the library, bounded on each side by class rooms. The rooms upstairs are not completed yet, but it is expected they will be shortly. The library has been increased by the addition of 525 volumes. In grapacity of the school-room is 800, and the Metropolitan Sunday school now ranks at the foreit in the deminion, both as to the Metropolitan Sunday school now ranks as the first in the dominion, both as to attendance and to the size and comfort of the school room.

Among those who occupied seats on the platform were Rev. Hugh Johnston, Rev. Dr. Sutherland, Rev. Bishop Foster of Boston, Rev. John Douse, James Paterson, Mr. Bishop and J. B. Boustead. After devotional exercises, Rev. Dr. Sutherland devotional exercises, Rev. Teachers should be selected with great care, and should be persons who were thoroughly conversant with the

Mr. Bishop presented the greetings of the Ottawa street Sunday school of Mont-treal, and wished the Metropolitan every success.

Congratulatory addresses were delivered by Bishop Foster, Rev. Hugh Johnston, E. Gurney, J. B. Boustead, and James Paterson, ex-superintendent of the school. In his remarks Mr. Boustead referred to the late Rev. Dr. Carroll, who lit the first fire in the old school-room in 1832. Dr. Carroll had often spoken to the speaker of his great desire to live to attend the opening of the addition to the school and was looking forward with great pleasure to this event, but only a week ago he passed away. Mr. Boustead gave notice of the intention of forming a class, in connection with the Sunday school, for adults and invited all those present to join the school on and after Jau. 1.

Mr. Jackson of the Upper Canada col ege was pleasantly surprised yesterday by the boys of his house. While passing through his library his eye detected the clitter of something bright and unusual in the sanctum. On the table where nothing out well-thumbed books should be, stood a boautiful epergue of silver and turquoise class laden with fruit and flowers, the whole being tastefully woven round and intertwined with smilax. Near by was a note explaining matters, and engraved on the epergne was the following: Presented to W.-S. Sackson, Esq., by the Jackson ites of 84 and 85. W. Howard Chandler, chairman; W. Clark, vice-chairman; J. Davis, secretary; M. Davis, treasurer; cannot fail to be most pleasing to the recipient, and bears evidence of the warmheartedness of the boys. Fine all-wool white blankets only $1.50 per pair at Petleys'.

Bill McCaffrey and Ald. Henry Every one knows, or at least ought to know ex-Ald. Joe Esmonde of Ottawa. He was one of the delegates from the capital, and is one of Sir John Macdonald's staunchest suporters. Mr. Esmonde has been in town al week, brim full of good honest Irish wit, fun and frolic. Capt. Wm. McCaffrey is also from and frolic. Capt. Wm. McCaffrey is also from Ottawa. He is a staid, solid-looking man, who in cold weather always keeps himself inside of a good seal skin coat. Ald. Piper is a Toronto man, who runs the Zoo. On Thursday afternoon Messrs. Piper, Esmonde and McCaffrey met in the Queen's. Mutual introductions, Goulet, etc., etc., followed.. Mr. Esmonde called Mr. Piper aside, and whispered that Capt. McCaffrey was a dangerous man, subject to cranky fits, etc., in fact had had one on the Canadian Pacific railway train on the way up. His friends had taken one revolver from him, but he had still another which he would not give up. "Beware ef him, Piper," said Esmonde. "He shot a man up the Gatineau last week." And then Esmonde went to McCaffrey. "Know Piper, Cap. Keep your eye on him. Brain going wrong. Drew a revolver on a man last week. Don't let him hurt you." And Ald. Piper watched Capt. McCaffrey, and McCaffrey watched Piper for the next half hour, when some one let the cat out of the bag. Those who witnessed the two alleged cranks will never forget the joke.

Charles Watts at Albert Hall. Yesterday afternoon a lecture was de-livered at Albert hall by Charles Watts on the subject of "Bible Saints." It is re markable the persistency of the type which the Jews present physically and mentally. The modern Jewish dealers in wardrobe The modern Jewish dealers in wardrobe bear a very close resemblance to the patriarchs and first founders of the race. In the evening to a crowded house Mr. Watts' subject was the "Christian God," the "God of the Bible" in contradistinction to every other kind of god whatsoever. The christian god is copied from the Jewish god—the Jewish god was copied from the gods of preceding theologies of the ancient world. The christian god is a survival of the gods of savage men when in a very low state of intelligence—their social and mental condition being but little above that of the beasts in the field. Mrs. Watts recited a poem entitled "The God Horror" by Lara.
