WAS MRS. HARTLE MARRIED?

A County Constable O'Conner of Pickering last evening received a letter from Mrs. Charles Cashley, formerly Miss Victoria Hartle of Peterboro, asking that a short bag forwarded to her of the man washed ashore at the mouth of the Rouge River near Port Union. Mrs. Cashley had obtained the said account of the identification by Mrs. Hartle of London of the body of the doctor, as that of her husband, John Hartle, disappeared, and so word of him has since been heard by either his sister or his stepmother who resides at Cornwall, Ontario. She had any knowledge of his marriage at London to the woman who claims to be his wife. The marriage was in fact a woman coupled with the fact that he was a wagon maker, leads the relatives to think that he may be the same man, and that the woman has been asked to forward a photograph in order that it may be compared with a picture in Mrs. Cashley's possession taken 10 years ago.

Fakes, Prises, Seductive Offers, Etc.

We have some of the above-mentioned things to offer the consumer to induce him to buy our manufacture. Our offer is a corker. Success of nearly half a century in our business. A superior article at a fair price. A reputation for quality, goods, the best value in the market. Brands of Cigars such as have been known for many years, and which today stand unequalled in quality or value, as is attested by the millions of "Cable Mungos," "Madre e Hijo" Cigars that are sold annually.

A Challenge.

Everybody who uses goods of the York Soap Company, limited, now admits their superiority. We leave the issue to the public and challenge any unprejudiced person who tries our leader bar, Windsor or Magnetic Soap, to deny that they are pure and will last longer than any other soap in the market.

Mr. Fildes: I did not intend, Sir Hector, to make any quotations to you yesterday, but I wished to question you about your letter to Mr. Peters, the contractor, asking him for money for the election. He told me that he had never tried to corrupt Sir Hector.

Mr. Fildes: Yes, Mr. McGreevey. You did not know the names of any donors to the Langevin testimonial fund?

Sir Hector: No, and I would rather not know now.

Sir Hector: Why did you not want to know? Because some friends of mine may say I was going to see you for our names we might give more. Therefore I did not want to know.

Mr. Fildes: It is not because you thought it wrong, as a minister, to accept these money? No, it was because I did not want to know the names of the donors.

Mr. Fildes: You said that you had not seen the treasurer of the Conservative party since 1897 and 1898. He did not know personally that Thomas McGreevey gave any money to his election. He did not know the amount of the money that was given to the treasurer, nor did he know any money that was given to McGreevey for his election.

EDWARD HANDCOCK COMMITTED.

On the Charge of Murder—He Will Be Tried at the Assizes.

Whether it was the Handcock murder case or the case against John Handcock Jennings that attracted the large gathering to the Police Court yesterday morning is hard to say, but as a matter of fact the court was crowded with people anxious to see and hear all that was going on.

The case against Mr. Jennings was postponed till today. Edward Handcock was committed to the charge of murder. He will be tried at the Assizes.

The confinement has worked no appreciable change in the aspect of demeanor of the prisoner. He came up the stairs leading to the dock with a broad smile and without the least appearance of anxiety.

Shortly before his case was called, his counsel Mr. Murdoch asked permission to have his ears examined by the doctors present. Mr. Murdoch asked permission to call the doctors who made the recent examination.

To this Mr. Badger objected but the Magistrate gave permission to be heard and then called the Magistrate to discharge the prisoner. Mr. Murdoch said: "You are asking too much," replied the Magistrate. "The girl may have been murdered. Some jury may have done it. I don't know. I don't know. I don't know."

Dr. Teskey gave corroborative evidence. The prisoner was then committed for trial on the charge of murder.

A number of Mr. Handcock's friends tried to get into the court but were turned away by the police. Mr. Handcock was committed for trial on the charge of murder.

MANIPUR REBELS HANGED.

THE MURDER OF COMMISSEUR QUINON AVENGED.

Hundreds of Natives Witness the Carrying Out of the Sentence of the Viceroy—The Forest Fires in Toulon More Serious than at First Reported—General Cable News.

SIMLA, Aug. 13.—Two of the leaders of the massacre of British officials in March last were hanged today at the gates of Manipur. The two men were members of the reigning family of Manipur. Both had appealed from the sentence imposed upon them by the military court, but the Viceroy of India had ordered they should die.

The principal victim to-day was the Sepoy or commander-in-chief of the Manipuri army. He was a younger brother of the Rajah of Manipur and some years ago he drove the rajah into exile and placed another brother on the throne who governed Manipur as a matter of fact superior to the rajah. The Sepoy instigated the massacre of British officials in March last.

The other victim was a general, who violated the flag under which the Englishmen were defeated from the residence of the rajah. He was a younger brother of the rajah and some years ago he drove the rajah into exile and placed another brother on the throne who governed Manipur as a matter of fact superior to the rajah.
