We cannot fittingly describe our beautiful Spring Shoes—we cannot put our Shoes into language, no matter how strong the language, may be, for language still fails to picture to the mind the combination of strength and grace in our Spring Footwear.

They must be seen, handled, examined and worn to be appreciated. Then again our prices are a strong inducement to win your trade.

Let it be well understood that our Shoes are the best that are or that can be made—this we guarantee—and that our prices are always the lowest that can be named on good Shoes.

for the purpose of keeping the government out of the business of the mechanics and laboring classes. I believe that if the bill is now discussing were enacted, the law would be more strictly carried out, and with not one cent of expense. My bill provides that any person, for instance, any laboring man or mechanic, who is interested, should have the power to lay information before two magistrates and so enforce the law. That would not cost the country one cent, for those who are most interested, the mechanics and laboring men, would see that the law is strictly enforced. I myself have quite a number of men in my employ. In my own business I am protected from foreign competition, and I see no reason why the laboring class and mechanics in my employ and in the employ of other manufacturers of this country should not be as well protected from foreign competition as I am, especially as the people to the south of us have a law to the same effect.

Had this bill been allowed to go through this House we would not have any discussion of this kind at present. There would have been no alien working on the Grand Trunk surveys, for the men who are interested, the engineers of this country would have seen that the law as provided in my bill, was enforced, and all the carelessness of the Minister of Labor would not have prevented the deportation of these aliens from this country. Unfortunately the Prime Minister refused to allow my bill to go through. He side-tracked it and brought down a bill on behalf of the government. This bill, while to a certain extent, had the very same objection as the bill of 1897; that is, it put every possible obstacle in the way in order to make it unworkable. Instead of appealing to the Attorney General of the Dominion for the enforcement of the new law it was necessary to apply to the Attorney General of the province of Ontario for a judge before the matter could be brought before the magistrate. The hon. member for West Toronto (Mr. Clarke) opposed this and moved a resolution on both the first and second readings and then on the third reading of the bill. I wish to read what he stated at that time:

When the bill passed the committee stage, through the courtesy of the right hon. the premier, it was allowed to stand for a day or two for the third reading in order that an opportunity might be given to consult those who are deeply interested in this measure as to the efficiency, of the amendments which have been made to the Alien Labor law. I have taken the liberty, since the bill passed the committee stage, of consulting labor men who are deeply interested in this matter. I have sent them copies of 'Hansard' containing the discussion which took place at the committee; I also sent them copies of the amendment which I suggested should be made to the bill; and I am authorized to say—and their opinion is in accordance with my own—that the bill will not be as efficient an instrument as it otherwise would be if it were amended in the direction suggested, that is, to give power to police magistrates to try cases of alleged infraction of the law. I had hoped the right hon. premier, having gone as far as he has gone in amending the bill, would have seen his way clear to have accepted the amendment which was offered on two occasions. As he has not done so, I beg to move:

That the said bill be not now read a third time, but be referred back to the committee with instructions to strike out all the words after 'fifty dollars' in section 1, and insert the following in lieu thereof: 'Recoverable in the name of His Majesty in a summary manner with costs, under the provisions of article 38 of the Criminal Code, 1892, before any police magistrate, stipendiary magistrate, judge of session or county court judge, having jurisdiction where the offence is to be found or where the offence was committed.'

This resolution was unanimously voted down by hon. members on the other side of the House, while every hon. member on this side of the House, but one, I think, voted in favor of the resolution. I wish again to say that if that resolution, moved by my hon. friends from West Toronto (Mr. Clarke), had been carried and if it had been added to the bill which the right hon. leader of the government introduced, the civil engineers of the provinces of Manitoba and the Northwest Territories would themselves have seen that the law was enforced and we would not have been having American alien engineers employed upon the road. I claim, Mr. Speaker, that the Alien Labor law as it is at present is a thoroughly political enactment, and that only when party advantages are to be gained is an attempt made to enforce it. In the election in 1900 in the riding of South Waterloo, which I have the honor to represent in this House, the Alien Labor law was put in force promptly by the labor party of the government. Why was it done promptly? Because there was a political party advantage to be gained at that time, and I say again that it is only for political party advantage that the Alien Labor law is put in force. There was a certain firm in the town of Preston which brought in several men from the United States and gave them employment. My opponent in the contest telegraphed to the Labor Department and immediately an officer landed in the town of Preston which brought in several men from the United States and gave them employment. My opponent in the contest telegraphed to the Labor Department and immediately an officer landed in the town of Preston which brought in several men from the United States and gave them employment. My opponent in the contest telegraphed to the Labor Department and immediately an officer landed in the town of Preston which brought in several men from the United States and gave them employment.

1. We have an abundance of qualified engineers resident in Canada who are British subjects who can do the work. Many of these men are out of employment at present. 2. Because Canadian engineers would not be likely to discriminate against Canadian contractors and manufacturers in connection with contracts or supplies for the road. 3. Large numbers of the leading officials of the Grand Trunk Railway are Americans and their interests, sympathies and affiliations are American rather than Canadian. 4. With American engineers in charge of this work it is only natural the interests of their countrymen will not be overlooked. 5. Canadian manufacturers and contractors will be absolutely at the mercy of these alien engineers in the interpretation of the contracts or in the awarding of orders for supplies. 6. Because it is absurd that in a great national undertaking like the carrying out of the construction of the Transcontinental Railway, alien should be appointed and employed to carry out the proposal and Canadians ignored and discriminated against.

These are the reasons for my resolution, which I shall close by moving as follows:

In all cases where persons are employed in or in connection with the surveys for or the construction of the said Transcontinental Railway, preference shall be given to British subjects by birth or naturalization.

It shall be unlawful to employ any person in or in connection with the surveys for or the construction of the said Transcontinental Railway, or any part thereof who is not a British subject by birth or naturalization, or who, being an alien, has for one year immediately preceding such employment been a bona fide resident of Canada. Provided always that wherever it shall be made to appear to the satisfaction of the Minister of Labor that it is not possible to obtain labor for the construction of the said railway with reasonable despatch owing to the restriction aforesaid with regard to the employment of laborers it shall be lawful for the said minister by order in writing to suspend for such time and on such terms and conditions as may seem reasonable in the premises the operation of the said restriction as to employment of labor for construction purposes only. And a copy of each order of suspension shall be forthwith published in the 'Labor Gazette.'

For every violation of any of the provisions of this section the person, partnership, company or corporation violating it shall forfeit a sum not exceeding $1,000, or less than $50, and a further sum of $50 for each and every day during which such unlawful employment shall continue.

The sums so forfeited may be sued for and recovered as a debt by any person who first bona fide brings his action therefor in any court of competent jurisdiction in which debts of like amount are now recovered.

FUNERAL OF FATHER HAUCK.

Hamilton, May 31.—The funeral of Rev. Father Hauck, rector of St. Joseph's Church, took place this morning. There was a large attendance of the clergy of the diocese. This morning a low mass was said for the reverend father by five priests, and at 9.30 the clergy assembled in the church and recited the office for the dead. Bishop Dowling was on the throne and was assisted by Rev. P. J. McKoon, as representative of Bishop McEvoy, of London, and Rev. J. J. Craven, of Galt. At 10 o'clock solemn mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Aymanns C.R., of St. Agatha, with Rev. Father Gehl, of Falmouth, as deacon, and Rev. Father Forster, of New Germany, as sub-deacon. Rev. Dr. Walter, of Markdale, Rev. Father Hauck's successor in that parish, acted as master of ceremonies. The pall-bearers were P. Arian, S. Cheeseman, and J. Best, representing the St. Vincent de Paul Society, and J. J. Bueke, J. Kelly, of Markdale, and J. J. Austin, representing the C. M. B. A.
