

a bit of arithmetic, and the other some reading. I am trying to teach myself some things, too, but that is very difficult. The easiest thing I try to teach myself is Armenian. I wonder if I will be able to learn it.

The other week I got some letters from some of the girls in Smyrna. Baidzar was telling me that she and I were going to take extra lessons this year.

My aunt Aspasia has gone to take some baths, so my grandmother and I are alone. My uncle, of course, comes home in the evening and goes off to work in the morning. My other uncle, with his wife and children, has gone to the vineyard. Much love from my grandmother. Good-by, my mother.

From the Literature Superintendent.

In preparing for our Annual Thank-offering we would call the attention of our Auxiliaries to new Leaflets just to hand—"Mrs. Warkwell's Change of Mind" and "Mrs. Stanton's Thank-offerings." The liberal distribution of these may help some whose lot has not been full of brightness to see there is yet much cause for thankfulness.

We have also in stock Mite Boxes, 1c each.
