Scientific and Aseful.

WATER-PROOF HOOFS.—The soles of boots may be made water-proof by melting a little bees'-wax and mutton suct, and rubbing some slightly on the edge of the soles over the stitches.

HOUSEBUILDING.—Where it is possible to obtain a southern and south-eastern aspect for bedrooms it ought to be secured, especially for both day and night nurseries. A kitchen, on the contrary, ought to have a northern, never a southern, aspect.

PROTEIN RAISING. — Soak two dozen beans in water twenty-four hours. Take them from the water and crush them fine with the salt to be used. Mix thoroughly in one quart of water, and add five pints of flour, kneau well, and set to rise all night. Bake withoute-kneading. Good for muffins and all kinds of batter cake. This ought to banish all unhealthy soda compounds.

BATTER CAKES.—With one quart of flour

BATTER CAKES,—With one quart of flour sift two heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, or one teaspoonful of soda and two of cream tartar; add a tablespoonful of salt, and sweet milk till the batter is of right consistency. Then add two eggs, beaten whites and yokes, apart and then together. Fry on a hot griddle, using as little fat to fry with as possible. If the griddle is of polished steel no fat at all will be needed.

To KEEP APPLES IN WINTER.—The following rough but good way to keep apples in winter, where there is plenty of naticial, is given in the "Practical Farmer: "" Buckwheat chaff is first spread on the barn floor, and on this chaff the apples are placed, when they are covered with chaff and straw two or three feet in thickness. Here, they remain till spring. It is not stated that he interstices are filled with buckwheat chaff, but this care should be important. The covering and bedding in chaff has acceral important advantantages it excludes cold, prevents air currents, maintains a uniform temperature, absorbs the moisture of decay, and prevents the decay produced by moisture." TO KEEP APPLES IN WINTER.

LEMON.—A piece of lemon upon a corn will relieve it in a day or so. It should be renewed night and morning. The free use of lemon juice and sugar relieves a cough. A lemon eaten before breakfast every day for a week or two will entirely prevent the feeling of lassitude peculiar to the approach of spring. Perhaps its most valuable property is its absolute power of detecting any of the injurious and even dangerous ingredients entering into the composition of so very many of the cosmetics and face powders in the market. Every lady should subject her toilet powder to this test. Place a teappoonful of the suspected powder in a glass, and add the juice of a lemon. If effervescence takes place, it is an infallible proof that the powder is dangerous, and its use should be avoided, as it will ultimately injure the skin and destroy the beauty of the complexion.

How To Dress A Turkey.—There is

der is dangerous, and is use shound de avoided, as it will ultimately injure the skin and destroy the beauty of the complexion.

How to Dress a Turkey—There is much practical wisdom among the poultry men that does not get into the papers or books. A turkey-raiser who prides himself on sending to market the handsomest lot of turkeys in his town for the Christmas market, tells us how he dresses his. birds. The turkeys are fed as usual the tush before batchering, and in the morning are driven in upon the barn floor, as soon as they come from the roost, and are made secure. Their crops are empty, and they can be caught as they are wanted. Make a slip noose of strong cord for each turkey in an adjoining stable or shed put the turkey's legs into the noose, and with a small-pointed knife stick the bird as near the head as possible. As soon as the bad is dead, stup off the feathers, pan-feathers and all. Cut the neck off as near the head as possible, remove the wings and draw the entrails, before taking the bird down. The turkey is hung up alive and taken down ready for market. Lay the bird on its breast or side, upon a clean board, to cool. Turkeys should be carefully handled in dressing, to avoid breaking the skin, for it rubs off very easily when they are warm. Remove all the pin-feathers, and pack the birds, when sent to market, in clean straw, so that there will be no marks of blood upon-them. Handsome, clean dressing will add a cent a pound, and often more, to the market price of all kinds of poultry.—American Agriculturit.

If you are suddenly attacked by pain or inflammation colds, burns, cut, bruises and wounds, or suite from any fainful or inflammatory disease, or he acidents or emergencies, don't delay till he doctor comes, but use Hagyard's Vinow Oil coording to special directions and the chances are that you will find traff before you could had a doctor. Every beasehold should kept this well known and valuable remedy at hand,
