The anniversary of the battle of Sedan seems to have opened the eyes of the German people to the fact that France is annually calling out 60,000 more recruits than Germany, and expends 200,000,000 marks a year more on her army, than Germany on hers.

The Alpine corps of the Italian army, which was organized in 1872 with 15 companies, now numbers 7 regiments, or 22 active battalions. They have neither parades nor garrisons, and marching past to the sound of the music are not in their way. From April to October these troops live among the mountains, guiding their beasts of burden through the most difficult passes, tracing their routes over the rocks and snow, and making themselves as familiar with the turns and paths as the smugglers and mountain goats.

A commission of high Turkish officers and of German officers in the Turkish service were recently ordered to report direct to the Sultan on the conditions of the fortifications commanding the entrance to the Bosphorus from the Black Sea, which have been almost entirely reconstructed and armed with heavy Krupp guns. The commission was instructed to pay a surprise visit to them, in order to see whether the garrison was on the alert and everything in order. The visit took place early in June, and the report laid before the Sultan states that everything was found in a condition of admirable efficiency, everybody knowing and doing his duty. This report relieved the mind of the Sultan of his fears of a dash on Constantinople by the Russian fleet. A member of the commission, Goltz Pacha, said emphatically that if the two forts remained in the excellent order they found them in, no Russian ship could hope to pass the Bosphorus. He also expressed the opinion that Turkey need not fear a foreign invasion, as she was able to place in the field at the shortest notice 200,000 of the finest soldiers in the world.

Regimental and Other News.

Mr. Edward Hooper, ex-M.P., formerly captain of the Napanee Battery of Garrison Artillery, died last week at Napanee, at the age of 17 years.

The members of the Kingston Field Battery held a very successful assembly in the Artillery Park last Friday night, which was attended by 35 couples, all of whom seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. The members of the Battery drill in uniform every Monday night and expect before the winter is out to reach a stage of perfection excelled by none—not even by the regulars.

When in the United States capital last week the Thirteenth Battalion Band of Hamilton visited George Washington's grave. This is from a Washington paper: "At 10 o'clock, in company with the Illinois Regiment, the 13th band marched to the wharf and proceeded on steamer down the Potomac to Mt. Vernon. On arrival the different commanderies and the bands came in front of the tomb, and a most impressive memorial service was held. The combined bands played four numbers appropriate to the occasion, two under the baton of Mr. Harlow, bandmaster of the Second Regiment band, Chicago, and two under the baton of Mr. Robinson. After the service the 13th band formed up in front of the tomb and played the dead march; and this is the most remarkable thing of the service, that the 13th Battalion band, of Hamilton, Canada, should be the first, and only, British band that has honoured the grave of Washington. This mark of courtesy is deeply appreciated by the Americans here."

Major Atkinson, M. G. A., proposes to establish in Montreal a cadet corps after the fashion of Capt. Clark's Guelph classes. To further this object a meeting was held in the Natural History Society's rooms last Saturday afternoon, with the Rev. James Barclay in the chair. The chairman, ex-Ald. Stroud, Mr. W. W. Mowat, principal of the Grammar School, and Lt.-Col. Mattice spoke strongly in favour of the project. Major Atkinson explained what he intended to do. He intended that the corps should have uniforms, guns and a band. He exhibited a sample of the imitation guns used by the Guelph cadets and proposed to use the same. Everything would be provided by themselves, and they would have nothing to do with the government. He proposed to divide the corps into three classes: small, intermediate and senior, drilling twice a week. The senior class would have Indian Club and barbell exercise and physical drill. The intermediate would have barbell exercise, physical drill and musical marching. The junior class would only have physical drill and musical marching. He hoped to make it equal, if not superior, to any like organization in Canada. The chairman, Mr. Mowat and Major Atkinson were appointed a committee to further the project.

The prizes won by members of E company Royal Grenadiers at the recent company matches were presented by Lt.-Col. Dawson in the sergeants' mess. He congratulated the company on their success at the recent matches, and hoped to see them continue to improve as they have done this year.

It is proposed to organize in this city a Highland corps consisting of six companies. Plenty of room for another first class regiment, though the Grens would like to have those two extra companies first.

Mr. F. W. White, of the Militia Department, of Ottawa, has been inspecting the unoccupied quarters at the New Fort, and the stables, which have not been used since the regulars were here, to decide if the buildings are fit to receive the new school of cavalry. He thinks that with some repairs such would be the case. It is believed that the school will be formed about the first of January.

A meeting of the officers of the Grenadiers, Queen's Own Rifles, Body Guard and Field Artillery was held Monday afternoon at the office of Major Mason, Church street, to arrange for the due celebration of Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 7th. Col. Otter, D.A.G., presided. It was decided that efforts should be made to secure the attendance of the 13th Battalion from Hamilton and the Dufferin Rifles from Brantford, to take part in the manoeuvres and review, which will be held at High Park. It was also considered desirable that the Field Battery and some cavalry should take part in the sham fight. In order to defray the expense of bringing in the visiting corps and the furnishing of horses for the artillery and cavalry, a committee consisting of the commanding officers of the city corps was appointed to make arrangements for raising the necessary money from the citizens and others. The idea of the turn-out is similar to that of last year—to have an attacking and defending force with guns on each side, manoeuvres winding up with an inspection by General Middleton, and very likely the Minister of Militia. If the weather proves favourable there will be an immense attendance at what will be a grand military spectacle. The meeting adjourned to meet next Monday at the same hour and place.
