

education and training, health and nutrition, and women's programs. As part of this aid, Canada provided drought-related food assistance in early 1998. Through the International Committee for the Red Cross, Canada also contributes $300,000 a year for water and sanitation programs. Since 1996, Canada has contributed $60,000 through CIDA to the All-Inclusive Intra-East Timorese Dialogue, a UN-led forum that brings together local groups of different political views to discuss possible solutions to current difficulties.