wagon shop of Messrs. Hockin & Russell, on the west side of Adelaide street, between King and York streets, was completely destroyed by fire between 12 and 1 o'clock this afternoon. The origin of the fire is unknown. When the members of the firm left the utiding at noon everything was as the flames were discovered shooting through the roof and the windows. The firemen were summoned but when they reached the scene the fire had gained such a headway that it was found impossible to save either the building or its contents.

The fire is supposed to have originated from the large forge in the wagon shop or else it was caused by a spark from the setting of tires. Upwards of $300 worth of finished work was destroyed, together with $200 worth of paint. The building was old, and was not valued at more than $300. The firm carried some insurance.

rke from the burning buildings ignited the roofs of a number of nearby places, but these were easily extinguished. The roof of the drive shed of the Adelaide Street Baptist Church, half a block away, was one of the buildings ignited by embers from the
