WOMEN ARE CARELESS.

This has been proved over and over again during the war. They overestimate their physical strength and overtax it. Their ambition is commendable, but does not compensate for the hours and days of misery which they suffer from symptoms caused by female ills brought on by overwork. Women who are weak, nervous, despondent, with headaches, backache and draggingdown pains should remember there is one tried and true remedy, that is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, now recognized everywhere as the standard remedy for such ailments. WOMEN ARE CARELESS.

PRINCE AND THE PAUPER."

Romantic comedy has always had a powerful appeal to those who love the theatre. Of recent years, it is true, we have had little such comedy played to us. The turgid wave of suggestive drama swept romantic comedy away in its noxious flood. But the public is not always content to have its tastes manufactured for it, and today there is evident here and across the tastes manufactured for it, and today there is evident here and across the seas a growing desire for something cleaner, more wholesome, more pleasant to contemplate, than the maudin imaginings of panderers to perversion. This desire will be gratified by William Faversham's forthcoming production of Mark Twain's charming romance "The Prince and the Pauper," which is to hold the boards at the Grand Friday and Saturday nights of this week with a matinee Saturday. The play was produced last Tuesday of this week with a matthee Saturday. The play was produced last Tuesday night in Montreal and S. Moran Powell, critic of the Daily Star, went into ecstacies describing its many beauties. "Barrie-esque in flavor, it is a delightful romantic comedy, admirably played and admirably done," wrote Mr. Powell. "It is a profreshing and as fragrant.

Ald. Lemon explained that the failure of gas to meet the requirements of about 3,600 householders at noon was because the pipes had not capacity enough to allow for a sufficient pressure all over the city.

The city, said Ald. Lemon, was fortunate in having an oil manufacturing gas machine. In the coal famine of months past it stood well in supplying the city and allowed for an economic use of coal, the latter condition resulting in a cheaper supply from the coal companies.
