WAITING FOR FINE WEATHER

Investigation at Sand Point Will Start When Weather Clears.

It was expected that Harbor Master Ferris would commence operations at Sand Point today, to prepare a report as to the depth of water at berths Nos. 1, 2 and 3, and the nature of the harbor bottom so as to judge of future dredging requirements. Owing to the inclement weather, however, the work could not be commenced today, but a start will be made as soon as conditions are more favorable.

The work is being undertaken by order of the committee appointed to hold the recent investigation into the charges that refuse material was dumped into the harbor and after consultation with Ald. McGoldrick, chairman of the board of works, who was given authority by the late council to have new soundings taken.

The work will be carried on from a scow and a complete specification will be drawn up showing the variation in depth at different points. The nature of the material found on the bottom will be noted with a view to ascertaining whether mud or hard pan is met with and whether it will be necessary to employ a more powerful dredge than that owned by the city to bring the depth of water to a uniform thirty feet at lowest spring tides.

ALD. LOCKHART IS CHAIRMAN

Ferry Committee Appointed Him to Office at This Morning's Meeting.

At a meeting of the ferry committee this morning Ald. C. B. Lockhart was elected chairman. A committee was appointed to make arrangements for the erection of ferry blocks on some suitable site, that having been removed from the South Rodney slip on account of the encroachment of the dredging operations.

A communication was received from John C. Collins of Lepreau, stating that an action was being started to recover damages for injuries sustained by his wife, while on the ferry boat in January last. It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the Recorder and the guarantee company which insured the city against such accidents.

ON CRITICISM AND WORSHIP

Summary of Sermon Preached Last Evening by Rev. A. B. Cohoe.

Criticism and Worship was the subject of a sermon preached by Rev. A. B. Cohoe, in the Brussels street Baptist church last evening, from the following text from Paul:

"Finally brethren, whatever things are true, whatever things are honest, whatever things are just, whatever things are lovely, whatever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

Rev. Mr. Cohoe remarked in opening that men reserved the right of finding fault, and of saying whether a statement was true or false. There had always been criticism, but the field had widened and the number of critics increased. They do not hesitate to call a lie a lie, and if anything cannot stand the test of helpfulness to humanity they call it bad, and nothing else.

The Baptists had always stood for the right of the individual to exercise his discriminating faculty in the realm of religion. Some have claimed and still claim that this realm should be reserved, and that the layman who has not special training should remain silent; but the Baptists have stood for the right of the layman to think upon the things that pertain to time and eternity.

The preacher observed that there were two kinds of criticism one healthy and the other unhealthy, and gave illustrations of each. The latter sees only the evil and merely tears down. It is pessimistic, bitter and blighting. The former, while it may tear down, yet because of faith in the soul, in the end helps and uplifts.

Idols must be torn down. Jesus was an idol breaker, and for He was crucified. An idol-breaker or critic is not to be criticised for his work, but for his motive in breaking idols and criticising religions. He must first break the idol in his own heart. His sincerity, which can only be known to himself and God, must be tested by the extent to which he holds himself true to the vision. The critic who is merely actuated by a morbid, unhealthy appetite for criticism, who merely tears down, amounts to nothing and does nothing. But the criticism which points out the untrue because of a healthy regard for the truth, produces good results. Can any fault be found with a discontent with the incongruous and ill-judged? There is no contradiction between criticism and worship, but between the spirit that merely tears down and that which builds up.

What is worship? Is it not implied in the text? We can all be critical—can we all worship?

One definition of worship says it is the acknowledgement of the right of a revealed Supreme Being to command submission to His will and authority, because He is supreme—the subject bending before the King, whose power is represented by the army and the police.

But many a man removed from superstition, and feeling that he must be honest with himself, feels that he cannot bow before the King, whose power is represented by the army and the police.

Everything that is true, honest, pure, lovely and of good report—must be tested by the body or submit the intellect, but to offer the worship of the heart.

This is an age of increasing criticism. Every man has his hammer to test the foundations on which life is built. Nothing is too sacred for investigation. No divine right is recognized, no sacredness, to forbid the enquiring intellect. The establishment of no church, the flock of no priest, the creed of no church, turns back the awakening mind. More and more men are saying that neither flock, nor creed nor authority is worthy of their submission.

But shall we turn from what is positive and forget that the kind of man is to find out what is true? To save ourselves from either dilemma let us not try to avoid walking the way or that, but get back to the test of Jesus and ask: How can that stumbling man be saved from his sin, and that wicked woman from her wickedness? We should be led to look toward a higher and better life, believing that the purpose of the almighty has not yet been realized. Keep close to the beating heart of humanity. Meet the needy soul and minister to it. Come to the agony of humanity and there will be no danger of your becoming a carping critic, but you will realize that in the aching human heart there is a possibility of the appreciation of what is true and pure and of good report, to answer to your care and love, and to give promise of a realization of the ultimate purpose of the King of Heaven.

Right criticism is that which is in the heart of the man who believes there is a spiritual purpose that is getting itself realized in the lives of individual men and women. Believe in your church, believe in yourself, believe in the spirit manifested in Jesus, believe in the kingdom of God, and help it along.

THROWN DEAD AT WIFE'S FEET

Terrible Accident to Canadian Northern Engineer — Wife Saw Him Killed.

EDMONTON, May 7.—(Special).—J. J. Woolley, a Canadian Northern engineer, was taking an engine out of the round-house here on Saturday, when the injector burst, filling the cab with steam. He jumped to save himself from being scalded, but as he did so he turned the throttle and the big locomotive bounded forward, throwing him under the wheels and severed his head from his body at the feet of his wife of a few months. Woolley was an old and experienced railroad engineer and formerly resided in Winnipeg.
