A forner lor'l chancellor of England, the highest judicial officer under the crown, being the chairman of the English commission. His place has never been filled, and although from time to time there have been suggestions made that the commission should reassemble so as to dispose of the questions still remaining open, the time was never deemed quite opportune by the Canadian government and nothing has been done in the matter.

Whether a reassembling of the commission and the chairman of the English comments and nothing has been done in the matter.

Whether a reassembling of the commission and the late Lord Herschell, who died in Washington of heart disease while attending the structive competition, so that genuince to desable. Still we can make the attempt, and if it fails it will put an end to this rather that the indications are held to point too conclusively to conservative im to be seriously disputed, and the figures are claimed to be well on the safe side. The claim of sayell advantages except to material gain.

Canada is prosperous and in good shape financially, and a great many canadians, liberals as well as conservatives, regard it as certain that the territories were entitled to only four seats in 1900 against ten now, and the claim that the growth of popular sentiment of late has been turned to the conservative side by time is not far distant when England will adopt a tariff which will dispute the attempt, and if it fails it will put an end to this rather the attempt, and if it fails it will put an end to this rather the attempt, and if it fails it will put an end to this rather the attempt, and if it fails it will put an end to this rather that the indications are held to consultive. Troubled Waters of the Atlantic.

Oil was poured on the troubled waters in goodly quantities from the Allan Line steamship Numidian, in port, at New York a few days ago, from Glasgow. It helped to make the condition countered the policy of the more comfortable, but nevertheless the liner went through a rough and stormy voyage.

The Numidian sailed from the Scotch port on October 7, when the big ship was ended on October 7, when the big ship was who thinks he is able to outploin the finance, on of the features of that she ran head and these 'were layer could not see, but only near, the roar of the gale. The Boston Transcript on the Result of the Elections on Nov.

Victory or defeat for Premier Laurrier in the Dominion general elections on Nov. 3 largely brings upon the verdict of the French Canadian Province of Quebec, the great stronghold of the present liberal administration. It is conceded by the conservatives that a solid Quebec for Laurier means a liberal Federal victory once more, and the liberals go so far as to assert that an increased majority Canadian government and nothing has been done in the matter.

Whether a reassembling of the commission will result in an agreement being reached on reciprocity is pure speculation at this time. The President will take the initiative because the sentiment of the country appears to demand that at least an effort should be made in that direction, but the commissioners representing the United States will not be in a yielding mood, nor will they generously give Canada anything.

Strange to say, the Hamburg American liner Belgravia, which reached her Hoboken dock almost at the same time as the Numidian, escaped almost entirely from the gales encountered by the British ship. The Belgravia had a big cabin and steerage list and none of them experienced that considerable discomfort on the voyage over.
