

THE EVENING TIMES-STAR, ST. JOHN, N. B., SATURDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1923

Social Notes Of Interest

Mrs. William Pugsley has been entertained informally during her stay here and has been heartily welcomed by her large circle of friends. She will attend badminton at the armory this afternoon. Mrs. Pugsley has enjoyed the quiet meeting with intimate friends. Among those who invited her to informal dinners or bridges were Mrs. D. P. Chisholm, Mrs. Walter E. Foster, Mrs. Arthur W. Adams, Mrs. Daniel Mullin and the Misses Sidney Smith. Last evening was spent with her brother, Rev. George B. Macdonald, pastor of Victoria Baptist church, and Mrs. Macdonald.

Mrs. Pugsley will go to her lovely residence again before leaving on the evening train for Ottawa. Mrs. Pugsley expressed pleasure at the cordial greeting accorded her by home friends, when she was making such a hurried visit. The recovery of Hon. Dr. Pugsley was a matter of time, she said, but there was every reason to feel sure that he would be restored to health.

More than 80 participated in the exciting badminton tournament at the armory on Thursday evening. There was a large number of spectators as well, and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed, especially by the younger set, since two of their number won out in the tournament, which was wholly a club affair. The winners were Miss Alice Tilley and Mr. Douglas McKean.

Two officers from the Montcalm were present, Mr. Bursley and Mr. Sharpley. This afternoon Mrs. Sherwood Skinner and Mrs. Fred Caverhill Jones will preside at the tea hour.

Captain Gerald Furlong, who was in Moncton this week on military business, returned home yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice A. Thompson returned on Tuesday from New York.

Mrs. Archibald MacNeil, who has been absent for more than two years from St. John, returned home last Sunday. During her absence Mrs. MacNeil visited in Boston, Toronto, London, Ont., and Detroit, and spent the last three months in Chicago with her cousin, Mrs. L. B. Carter. En route here, Mrs. MacNeil was the guest of her son, Mr. Archibald MacNeil, at the Queen Hotel, Montreal.

Mrs. B. D. Lingley, of Wolfville, N. S., is in the city for the Christmas season, visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Flaherty, at their apartments, Ten Eyck Hall, Union street. Mr. Lingley and their son, Mr. Kenneth Lingley, will arrive next week. The latter is taking his M. A. at Acadia University. He is a graduate of the St. John High School and also of the Acadia University. His many friends will welcome this clever young man with his parents, during their stay in the city.

Mrs. A. V. Young left last evening for Toledo, Ohio, where she will spend the Christmas holidays with her son, Dr. Joseph M. Young, and Mrs. Young. Later they may all take a trip to California. Mrs. Young traveled via Boston by last evening's train. She will return to her sister, Mrs. J. L. Thorne, and Mr. Thorne, 102 Carmarthen street, in the spring.

Mrs. William H. Holder entertained last week at the studio for her daughter, Miss Eleanor Holder, at a not-out dance, which was greatly enjoyed by about 150 young friends from grades IX, X, and XI of the St. John High School. The young hostess is a pupil in Grade X. The chaperones, besides Mrs. Holder, were Mrs. Gordon Holder and Mrs. Robert Turner. The dresses of the girls were very pretty. Much comment was made about the charming effect produced.

Mrs. J. E. Angeline, Rothesay, who has been spending a month with her brother, Arthur M. Irvine, and Mrs. Irvine, Westmount, Montreal, returned home this week.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. T. Carleton Lee, Leinster street, regret to hear of the death of their nephew, Mr. Arthur Roland Lee, in St. Luke's Hospital, Ottawa, on Dec. 12, the father, and Mrs. T. Carleton Lee are brother and sister.

Miss Thelma Day, of Fredericton, is spending the week-end in St. John, the guest of Miss Gladys Styles, 264 Carmarthen street.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Brown are visiting in Sussex, at the home of their daughter, Mrs. George M. Suffren, and Mr. Suffren.

Mrs. Kathleen Sweeney, of Boston (nee Delaney) of the North End, is being welcomed to the duties of matron of Rosary Hall. On the occasion of her taking over her position, a reception was extended to her last Thursday evening. Mrs. John Connor, head of the girls' work committee, was the convener for the function, which was informal and very pleasing. A Christmas tree with other festivities will be part of next week's programme.

FOR LADY SHOPPERS

Special consideration given to ladies making Xmas purchases for men who smoke. Lady clerks always in attendance. Double Free Gift Coupons given Friday and Saturday. Her bridesmaids were the Hon. Janet Gladys Aiken, daughter of Lord and Lady Beaverbrook; the Hon. Eleanor Smith, daughter of Lord and Lady Birkenhead.

RAISE GOOD SUM AT TEA AND SALE

The tea and sale held in the Sunday school hall of Zion Methodist church yesterday afternoon and evening was a great success. Mrs. George Orman was in charge of the work of the committee. Allan Hannah, with Mrs. W. Johnson, of the home cooking table. Mrs. G. P. Dykeman was in charge of the handkerchief table and Miss Doris Segre of the candy table. Mrs. J. W. Cameron dispensed ice cream which sold well despite the change in temperature. Christmas was suggested in the pretty decorative scheme and the tea was well patronized from 5 to 7 o'clock. A good sum was realized for the funds of the church.

Micaard's Liniment Relieves Pain.

(By Nina Wilcox Putnam, Noted Author and Women's Leader.)

I was making the remark the other day, to George, that's my husband, that it is certainly a strange low nature, everything comes in what you might call its season. And he says why I don't know, lookit green-houses and the way they raise hot-house cucumbers and so forth. I guess you don't realize it, but some people are even raising hot-house eggs by lighting up the hot-house, I guess modern invention has got nature beat all right, what were you referring to in particular? And I says why I was just today noticing that even stamps is seasonal, of course we have the hardy perennial pink two-center which adorns our daily-mail, all the year around, but there is also the early autumn five-cent stamp that commences to grow profuse around the time we start writing longer, fatter letters home in anticipation of a merry Christmas present or two. And what I was thinking of just now was these Christmas seals. And George, who is of a very suspicious nature, at once looked nervously over the top of the evening paper and says Christmas seals, whatever you mean, haven't I told you we are broke and there was nothing doing this Christmas on any seal?

WEDDINGS

Macaulay-McFadden.

The following wedding from a London, Ontario, paper, is of interest to St. John people, inasmuch as the groom is a nephew of Mrs. Archibald MacNeil, who has just arrived in the city after an absence of several months:

A smart wedding of interest to many Londoners took place on Thursday morning in Francis Xavier church, when, after a service of the Rev. Mr. MacNeil, O. B. E., assistant director of medical service, D. S. C. R., Ottawa, formerly of the D. S. C. R. staff, this city, Dr. Macaulay served during 1915 and 1916 in Gallipoli and Egypt and for the remainder of the war in France as a major in the C. A. M. C. The church was charmingly decorated for the wedding with mums and Southern amillax. Miss Mamie Kelly played the wedding march and Miss Dolan and Mrs. Jack Norton sang during the service. Nuptial mass was solemnized by Rt. Rev. P. T. Ryan, Bishop of Pembroke, assisted by Rev. Mr. Monsignor French.

Miss Mary McFadden was the bride, wearing a gown of lavender crepe chiffon over cloth of silver, with bouffant bodice and silver and pleated skirt. Her hair was styled in waves. Hats of brown tulle were worn, with brown feathers falling to the shoulders, and the bouquets were of white and red ribbon.

D. A. Macaulay, of this city, brother of the groom, was the best man, and the ushers were Dr. J. H. MacKay, Dr. E. J. M. McCormack, of Ottawa, and J. P. Gillies, of Sudbury.

Dr. and Mrs. Macaulay left to spend several weeks in Bermuda.

Spencer-Calhoun.

Fort Fairfield, Dec. 14.—Friends here were interested to hear of the marriage of Miss Ada Calhoun, who trained for a year at Community Hospital, Fort Fairfield, to Edward Spencer, of Fort Fairfield, N. B., on Dec. 8. The wedding took place in Boletown. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer have the kindest wishes of numerous friends for a long and happy wedded life.

Rumsey-Anderson.

At Sussex on Tuesday John H. Rumsey, formerly of Southampton, England, and Miss Phoebe R. Della Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Anderson, Ward's Creek, Kings county, were married. Rev. D. J. MacPherson performed the ceremony, immediately after which the bride and groom left on the afternoon train for Moncton, where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will make their home in Sussex.

Clay-French.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Penney French, B. C. L., of Vancouver, B. C., formerly of this city, to Mr. Hugh French, eldest son of the late Mr. Arthur French, of Fife, England, is of particular interest to New Brunswick people. It will take place very shortly in England. She was born and educated in St. John and was called to the bar in this province, after studying law with the late Stephen B. Bustin. Miss French was a pioneer in the profession of law for women and after spending a short time here, she went to Vancouver where she had to fight to win a place, as there was no provision for women to enter the legal profession in British Columbia. A special application was made and she finally succeeded in gaining her heart's desire, and French was in the office of Russell, Russell and Hamilton as assistant to Mr. Hamilton, who is now counsel for the C. N. R.

Fitzgerald-Drury.

The marriage took place on Wednesday at half-past two o'clock, in Westminster Cathedral (Catholic), London, England, of Helen Gascoigne, daughter of the late Major-General C. W. Drury, C. B., of Halifax, and the Hon. Evelyn Charles Joseph Fitzgerald, younger son of the late Lord Fitzgerald of Kilmarnock, Scotland. The bride was given away by her brother, Lord Beaverbrook. Her bridesmaids were the Hon. Janet Gladys Aiken, daughter of Lord and Lady Beaverbrook; the Hon. Eleanor Smith, daughter of Lord and Lady Birkenhead.

Protestant Orphans' Campaign

It is believed that many who wish to give have not been called on. The committee request that any such persons telephone headquarters, Main 5011, and a canvasser will call for the pledge.

12-17.

Christmas to some may mean just snow and evergreen and holly gifts. To some it may mean sorrow, to others joy. Yet there is no reason why this greatest of all holidays should not be a happy inspiration to all of us alike—rich and poor, healthy and sick. Since it is the season of giving, of unselfishness and love, what is more commendable than the annual efforts of those who seek to share their happiness with others who have little of it through the year? This the Red Cross, Anti-Tuberculosis League and other similar organizations have sought every year through their sale of Christmas seals, the proceeds spent for the radiation of happiness among the tubercular. Your co-operation is needed. Buy Christmas Anti-Tuberculosis seals and place them on every piece of mail you post during this festive season.

And I says isn't that just like a man, here as usual you are not paying any attention to what I'm saying, nobody mentioned Christmas seal coats. I'm talking about stamps in season, and I mean these Merry Tuberculosis Christmas seals that you stick them on the rear side of your letters. And George says oh hoh! well we can't afford them, either. And I says listen George, you can't afford not to afford them, because one of the best ways to get rid of the patients they treat, is to let them seals every time they are in season which is now. And George says oh poo, do you think them big organizations really do any good with that money? And I says you bet your sweet life they do, and nobody is getting any profit out of this Tuberculosis seal, except the patients they treat, and the ones they keep from becoming patients. It's just another case, George, of a bunch of decent minded citizens getting together to do the government's work without any of the fancy titles of a government position. I wish you would take a bunch of them stamps and use them, too.

And George says uhuh! and made a dive for the paper again. But I was wise to that, because with George, the same as with most husbands, when they merely say uhuh they forget it promptly.

"Say, George," I says very loud and clear. "Do you realize that our Junior is going to public school, that he rides on the public subway and plays on the public street? How would you feel if he was to pick up one of these Tuberculosis germs, eh?"

Well, there are times when George seems to realize Junior is human, although a good part of the day all he says to the poor young one is to stop it, don't do that, what are you looking for, a licking? Or words to the same effect. But this was one of the moments when George seemed to see Junior as a citizen with rights.

He actually put down the paper and, what was even funnier, put his hand in his pocket—the pocket where the nest-egg is—the only egg that the male bird of the human species sits on and George carries it to get at the place where it is hard to get at, the same as many other great business men do.

"Well," says he, "I guess you better buy a few dollars worth of them Christmas seals, after all. It certainly is cheaper in the long run to have a few every year, than a doctor's bill would be, and, as the saying goes, who knows?"

So, George, I says very loud and clear. "Do you realize that our Junior is going to public school, that he rides on the public subway and plays on the public street? How would you feel if he was to pick up one of these Tuberculosis germs, eh?"

Well, there are times when George seems to realize Junior is human, although a good part of the day all he says to the poor young one is to stop it, don't do that, what are you looking for, a licking? Or words to the same effect. But this was one of the moments when George seemed to see Junior as a citizen with rights.

He actually put down the paper and, what was even funnier, put his hand in his pocket—the pocket where the nest-egg is—the only egg that the male bird of the human species sits on and George carries it to get at the place where it is hard to get at, the same as many other great business men do.

"Well," says he, "I guess you better buy a few dollars worth of them Christmas seals, after all. It certainly is cheaper in the long run to have a few every year, than a doctor's bill would be, and, as the saying goes, who knows?"

So, George, I says very loud and clear. "Do you realize that our Junior is going to public school, that he rides on the public subway and plays on the public street? How would you feel if he was to pick up one of these Tuberculosis germs, eh?"

Well, there are times when George seems to realize Junior is human, although a good part of the day all he says to the poor young one is to stop it, don't do that, what are you looking for, a licking? Or words to the same effect. But this was one of the moments when George seemed to see Junior as a citizen with rights.

He actually put down the paper and, what was even funnier, put his hand in his pocket—the pocket where the nest-egg is—the only egg that the male bird of the human species sits on and George carries it to get at the place where it is hard to get at, the same as many other great business men do.

"Well," says he, "I guess you better buy a few dollars worth of them Christmas seals, after all. It certainly is cheaper in the long run to have a few every year, than a doctor's bill would be, and, as the saying goes, who knows?"

So, George, I says very loud and clear. "Do you realize that our Junior is going to public school, that he rides on the public subway and plays on the public street? How would you feel if he was to pick up one of these Tuberculosis germs, eh?"

Well, there are times when George seems to realize Junior is human, although a good part of the day all he says to the poor young one is to stop it, don't do that, what are you looking for, a licking? Or words to the same effect. But this was one of the moments when George seemed to see Junior as a citizen with rights.

He actually put down the paper and, what was even funnier, put his hand in his pocket—the pocket where the nest-egg is—the only egg that the male bird of the human species sits on and George carries it to get at the place where it is hard to get at, the same as many other great business men do.

"Well," says he, "I guess you better buy a few dollars worth of them Christmas seals, after all. It certainly is cheaper in the long run to have a few every year, than a doctor's bill would be, and, as the saying goes, who knows?"

So, George, I says very loud and clear. "Do you realize that our Junior is going to public school, that he rides on the public subway and plays on the public street? How would you feel if he was to pick up one of these Tuberculosis germs, eh?"

Well, there are times when George seems to realize Junior is human, although a good part of the day all he says to the poor young one is to stop it, don't do that, what are you looking for, a licking? Or words to the same effect. But this was one of the moments when George seemed to see Junior as a citizen with rights.

He actually put down the paper and, what was even funnier, put his hand in his pocket—the pocket where the nest-egg is—the only egg that the male bird of the human species sits on and George carries it to get at the place where it is hard to get at, the same as many other great business men do.

"Well," says he, "I guess you better buy a few dollars worth of them Christmas seals, after all. It certainly is cheaper in the long run to have a few every year, than a doctor's bill would be, and, as the saying goes, who knows?"

So, George, I says very loud and clear. "Do you realize that our Junior is going to public school, that he rides on the public subway and plays on the public street? How would you feel if he was to pick up one of these Tuberculosis germs, eh?"

Well, there are times when George seems to realize Junior is human, although a good part of the day all he says to the poor young one is to stop it, don't do that, what are you looking for, a licking? Or words to the same effect. But this was one of the moments when George seemed to see Junior as a citizen with rights.

He actually put down the paper and, what was even funnier, put his hand in his pocket—the pocket where the nest-egg is—the only egg that the male bird of the human species sits on and George carries it to get at the place where it is hard to get at, the same as many other great business men do.

"Well," says he, "I guess you better buy a few dollars worth of them Christmas seals, after all. It certainly is cheaper in the long run to have a few every year, than a doctor's bill would be, and, as the saying goes, who knows?"

So, George, I says very loud and clear. "Do you realize that our Junior is going to public school, that he rides on the public subway and plays on the public street? How would you feel if he was to pick up one of these Tuberculosis germs, eh?"

Well, there are times when George seems to realize Junior is human, although a good part of the day all he says to the poor young one is to stop it, don't do that, what are you looking for, a licking? Or words to the same effect. But this was one of the moments when George seemed to see Junior as a citizen with rights.

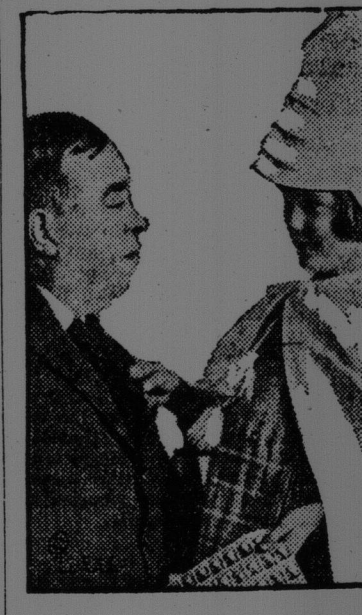

He actually put down the paper and, what was even funnier, put his hand in his pocket—the pocket where the nest-egg is—the only egg that the male bird of the human species sits on and George carries it to get at the place where it is hard to get at, the same as many other great business men do.

"Well," says he, "I guess you better buy a few dollars worth of them Christmas seals, after all. It certainly is cheaper in the long run to have a few every year, than a doctor's bill would be, and, as the saying goes, who knows?"

So, George, I says very loud and clear. "Do you realize that our Junior is going to public school, that he rides on the public subway and plays on the public street? How would you feel if he was to pick up one of these Tuberculosis germs, eh?"

Well, there are times when George seems to realize Junior is human, although a good part of the day all he says to the poor young one is to stop it, don't do that, what are you looking for, a licking? Or words to the same effect. But this was one of the moments when George seemed to see Junior as a citizen with rights.

He actually put down the paper and, what was even funnier, put his hand in his pocket—the pocket where the nest-egg is—the only egg that the male bird of the human species sits on and George carries it to get at the place where it is hard to get at, the same as many other great business men do.

Everybody buys Christmas seals, especially from as pretty a tot as this.

Sister Mary's KITCHEN

BUCKWHEAT CAKES

The winter breakfast is usually a heartier affair than the summer one of fruit and toast. Hot cakes, griddle cakes or pancakes offer a welcome change from toast and are universally popular.

Buckwheat is particularly a winter grain for it provides heat for the body. Freshly-ground, pure, unadulterated buckwheat should be used if possible. A luncheon of buckwheat cakes and sausage is always a delicious change if hot cakes are not wanted for breakfast.

These rules for buckwheat cakes are good and offer a fair choice. Cakes made with yeast are perhaps more wholesome than those made by the "quick" method.

Yeast Buckwheat Cakes

One-half compressed yeast cake, 1/2 cup lukewarm water, 3 cups warm water, 4 cups buckwheat, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoons soda.

Soften yeast cake in half cup of water. When thoroughly dissolved add the rest of the water, salt and buckwheat. Mix perfectly smooth. The batter should be so thick that it will just pour from the spoon. Cover and let stand 10 minutes and bake on a hot well greased griddle. The batter for buckwheat cakes require a hotter griddle than corn meal or wheat cakes.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Crumb Buckwheat Cakes

Two-thirds cup fine bread crumbs, 2 cups milk, 2 cups water, 1/2 yeast cake, 1 tablespoon molasses, 4 cups buckwheat, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1/2 teaspoons soda, 1 teaspoon salt.

Scald milk and pour over bread crumbs. When lukewarm add yeast, molasses, melted butter and soda dissolved in a little warm water. Bake on a hot well greased griddle. Some of the batter can be saved for another baking.

Sweet Milk Buckwheat Cakes

Two cups buckwheat, 2 cups sour milk, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 egg. Mix dry ingredients. Beat egg well and add milk and butter. Beat well. Let stand 10 minutes and bake on a hot well greased griddle. Sour milk batter should not be as thin as yeast batter.

Two cups buckwheat, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-8 teaspoon soda, 1 tablespoon molasses, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 egg, 2 1/2 cups milk.

Mix dry ingredients. Beat egg well. Add to dry ingredients and mix thoroughly. Bake at once.

Crumb Buckwheat Cakes

Two-thirds cup fine bread crumbs, 2 cups milk, 2 cups water, 1/2 yeast cake, 1 tablespoon molasses, 4 cups buckwheat, 1 tablespoon melted butter, 1/2 teaspoons soda, 1 teaspoon salt.

Scald milk and pour over bread crumbs. When lukewarm add yeast, molasses, melted butter and soda dissolved in a little warm water. Bake on a hot well greased griddle. Some of the batter can be saved for another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.

Some of the batter can be saved and another baking.