OBREGON EXPELS 20 BOLSHEVISTS

Mexican President Orders the State Governors to Stamp Out Anarchy in His Country.

President Obregon, of Mexico, last week, in a circular directed to the governors of all the States, described Bolshevists as persons acting wholly outside the law and requested that all means and measures be utilized to prevent demonstrations of a serious nature by them in Mexico.

Citing the forcible entrance of the national palace during the administration of provisional President De la Huerta, the recent tragedy in Morelia, and the radical invasion of the Chamber of Deputies as evidences of aggressiveness on the part of the Bolshevists, the President declared he felt called upon to define his attitude "once and for all."

The Mexican people in themselves are sovereign, he declared, but they "cannot usurp the powers of the Federal Government or use violence to influence government officials."

"Granting that the radicals have an ideal," President Obregon continued, "such must be attained strictly within the law and with respect for all guarantees which our constitution gives to all classes."

Continuing, the circular said: "The invasion of churches, no matter of what sect, and the committing in them of acts of violence, constitute an attack on the freedom of worship guaranteed by our constitution. The revolution did not have as its object the establishment of anarchy nor the committing of acts of violence with impunity, but instead the obtaining of better economic, social and political conditions. Those, however, must be gained within law and order."

Urging the state governors to proceed immediately against radical offenders, and to prevent demonstrations by them,

President Obregon asserted that the incidents of the past few months "cannot be repeated, much less allowed to go on unpunished."

In this connection President Obregon has ordered the expulsion of approximately twenty foreigners alleged to be the leaders of the radical elements in Mexico.

Orders were given by the President to prohibit the flying of Bolshevist flags inside or outside public buildings.

The latest Presidential order followed less drastic instructions along the same line issued several weeks ago, immediately following the Morelia tragedy.

THE DOCTORS AS PUBLIC SERVANTS

(Toronto Globe.)

In his presidential address to the Ontario Medical Association, Dr. J. H.
Mullin takes advanced ground:

"Our plan for medical service to the public needs some revision in order to keep pace with changes. Every individual in the community has a right to the best possible service under all varying conditions. The poor should receive the best without supposition of charity, and much of the cost of sickness should be transferred to the whole community, each individual to pay when he is well, each in proportion to his capacity, and not exploited when he is ill."

The plan sketched by Dr. Mullin has been in operation in Great Britain on a national scale for years. All employed persons of sixteen and over come within its scope. The joint contributions of employers and employees are supplemented by government funds, and the physicians who choose to serve under the act are practically paid their fees by the state. Contributions vary according to the earnings of insured persons, but the standard rate is 7d. a week for men and 6d. for women. In return they are entitled to medical service without further charge, including sanatorium treatment in case of tuberculosis. For married women special maternity benefits are provided. Friendly societies and trades unions have the privilege of receiving the contributions of their members and have a recognized place in the scheme.

The system was devised by Mr. Lloyd George, and was at first opposed almost unanimously by the medical profession of Great Britain. They objected to the principle and to the financial provisions.
Mr. Lloyd George made some financial concessions, but refused to withdraw the measure. The doctors reluctantly agreed to operate, but apparently their objections have vanished. From their point of view it has the great advantage of relieving them from the disagreeable necessity of collecting fees from the poor and needy. They have no longer to work for nothing, as humane physicians do in countries where there is no national health insurance. Private practice is not eliminated, as the act applies mainly to wage-earners. The guarantee of medical attention for the poorest must be a factor in raising the physical standard of the race.

The British scheme is an approximation to the Chinese custom of paying doctors only so long as their patrons keep in health. Probably the Chinese tried the other method and gave it up centuries ago. It is possible that in Canada and the United States the medical profession may some day copy the practice of the older civilizations.

BACONIAN THEORIES.
(Toronto Telegram.)
When the price of hogs went up to 220 per hundred and the by-products of the hog were proportionately high, the searcher after low-priced bacon was told: "How can you expect bacon to be cheap when the packers pay $20 per hundred for hogs on the hoof, even the by-products of the hog being worth forty cents per pound, and how can you expect bacon to sell for less than seventy or eighty cents per pound?"
When the price of hogs drops to $9.50 per hundred the by-products of hogs also go down in proportion. The search for a reduction in the price of bacon is a vain quest, and the searcher is rebuked in words to this effect: "If hogs have gone down to $9.50 per hundred there is no sale for the by-products of the hog. How can you expect to get bacon for less than forty-five or sixty cents a pound when the packers only get five and ten cents a pound for the by-products?" High price of by-products of the high-priced hog was quoted as a reason why bacon should be dear in the era of dear hogs.

Low price of the by-products in era of low-priced hogs is quoted as a reason why bacon should not be dear in an area of low-priced hogs.
