WILL MOVE TO BUILD A NEW FERRYBOAT

Ald. Potts Home from New York Today—He Says Some Things About the Market Upheaval

Ald. Potts, who has been away in connection with the purchase of a new ferry boat, returned today. He said that he brought the matter up before I went away to the conclusion that it would be better for the city to build a new ferry boat than to build a boat that would meet the needs.

Asked for a statement on the market conditions, Alderman Potts said: "I have not been very much in touch with the market, but I think that they could have brought the matter up before I went away to the conclusion that it would be better for the city to build a new ferry boat than to build a boat that would meet the needs."

The Alderman says that some time before he went away objection was taken to a show case in one of the stands, and its removal was ordered, but he was opposed to this. This was before a certain property transfer, "Then," said the Alderman, "that when I went away they got Alderman Jones, a man of many resolutions. He has got so many resolutions on his hands that he has not done anything with any one of them, and should have stuck to the only one he moved, with reference to the board of works. You will remember that the last time I went away they made a show in the ferry committee."

Alderman Potts said that there were other matters he considered of more importance, such as the pulp mill lease. His policy had always been to take up one thing at a time and put it through, and he felt that none would deny that he had made the success of the ferry service, which he had entered much energy.

It is understood that the Alderman has begun to canvas support a resolution for a $100,000 ferry boat.

MR. ROBINSON SPEAKS OF LAND PLANS IN LANCASTER

H. B. Robinson, of the banking firm of J. M. Robinson & Sons who has sent a communication to the common council stating that if the city desires to sell some of its property in Lancaster and will put a price upon it, he is ready to consider the purchase of a block of land there, told the Times this morning that it was proposed to improve the land and divide it into building lots. Mr. Robinson said he was of the opinion that the city should sell some at least of its leasehold property, in order to encourage building. The present leasehold system he considered very unsatisfactory.

If the Lancaster property could be secured the men he represented were prepared to improve it with the idea of selling it in lots for building purposes. If one block was improved it would enhance the value of adjacent lands, while, if the city held on to the lands, it was doubtful if anything was done with them unless it would be to them up with twenty-one year leases.

He said the street railway was not interested. There was no present intention to extend their tracks in that direction, though this might be done if the land was developed. If the lands were secured, it was proposed to ask the government to strengthen the suspension bridge so that traffic in that direction would be carried better and perhaps eventually have the street cars go over the bridge and out to the newly opened district.
