R. WALKER & SONS,

TORONTO AND LONDON.

"Now, my little boys and girls," said a teacher, "I want you to be very still, so that you could hear a pin drop." In a moment all was silent, when a little boy shrieked out, "Let her drop."

As an Englishman and German travelled together in a diligence, and both smoking, the German tenaciously but vainly sought to draw his fellow passenger into conversation. He would politely apologise for drawing his attention to the fact that the ashes of his cigar had fallen upon his waistcoat, and then that a spark was endangering his handkerchief. At length the Englishman exclaimed, "Why can't you let me alone? Your coat tail has been burning for the last ten minutes, but I didn't bother you about it."

A DOING mother of a waggish boy, having bottled a lot of nice preserves, labeled them, "Put up by Mrs. D." Johnny, having discovered them, soon ate the contents of one bottle, and wrote on the bottom of the label, "Put down by Johnny D."

PLAYING THE WRONG CARD. — A commercial traveller in a Western city handed a merchant upon whom he had called a portrait of his betrothed, instead of his business card, saying that he represented that establishment. The merchant examined it carefully, remarked that it was a fine establishment, and returned it to the astonished and blushing traveller, with a hope that he would soon be admitted into partnership.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is unsurpassed for Throat and Lung Diseases.
