MR. EDITOR.

The great event of the week has been the resignation of the ministry. On Wednesday week Mr. Holton moved the following Resolution:

In awe and perhaps hated by the most of the based on the principle of reciprocity, had been men;—probably in the clerk, the ignorant and just concluded between Austria and Hollowing Resolution:

I look upon it as a system likely to told, bears the blushing honor of being the lead to the most disastrous results; and in the event of Representation based on Population, being obtained, it would be utterly impracticable. But it would appear that some of the ministers chose to recognize the principle, and to act upon it, and accordingly, on Wednesday morning, Messrs. Spence, McDonell, Morrison and Cayley, tendered their resignations. In the course of the day the remainder of the administration went to pieces.

The Governor General, now having the very neat school-house, and very nearly matter entirely in his own hands, went to work to reconstruct his Cabinet, but either from ignorance of public opinion, or for want of town are mostly from Connaught and other sound timber, he has made a machine which truly lovely and delightful parts of the "gi will not survive the shock of the opposition of the say"—we annex a programme of for one week. SKETCHES OF THE COUNTY OF RENFREW SPRINGTOWN-MADAWASKA RIVER.

Murmers the low cascade That tall tree stands so saintly Under the gradual shade,
The rain whispers faintly.—STODDARD. After a hurried farewell to Burnstown, Pickwick, Jr. goes on his way rejoicing, toiling no doubt, on the upward steep of the 'Long Rapid Road,' and with a view of making a few notes descriptive of the village of Springtown, at the head of the rapids, he directing his steps towards that village of peace, order and temperance. The country along this route consists on the intervening five miles that lay between Burnstown and Springtown of rocky ridges,-a deserted clearance, -a gleam-a darkling gleam, now and then, of the River, as it tears along on its way in the rocky valley before you - and then on the opposite bank of the River a perfect Garden of Eden, blooming in all the bright verdure of a Canadian Spring-now an old clearance, grown up with weeds-then a clear wimpling burn, that speaks with a thousand tongues, in innumerable little waterfalls to the ears of the toil-worn shantyman, the element that is at hand to cool his throbbing temples-a little farther on, and beneath the thick clustering branches of a Hemlock, three lumbermen, apparently taking comfort to themselves; probably after last night's debauch at the foot of the rapids, and dreamily thinking and calculating what stores of pleasure they will have, after arrival in Quebec, when their present troubles will be forgotten for the moment, and the hard-earnings for which they are now toiling, be dissipated in some low haunt of vice. Those five miles are terribly mountainous, as all that breaks the silence of the "Long Rapid Road" is the deep, low rumbling of the River, on your left, and the music, at times, of a distant wagon thumping over the stones with its load of provisions, &c. A hill is now before me and from the top of that hill I catch a glimpse of the water of the "head"-placid and smooth as glass, and studded with numerou cribs of Timber, shoving out, preparatory to their perilous transit, down the Rapids, a few hundred yards to traverse, and Pickwick suddenly finds that he is in a crowd of non-descripts, assembled in the bar-room of the Hotel lounging on the fences, laying on the grass, sitting on logs, and in every possible variety of position. Here is a group of blue "tukes"

PHILOSOPHICAL CHARTS. Letter from the Hon. Theodore Frelinghuysen, President of Rutger's College, N. J., to A. Ranny, 195 Broadway, New-York, Publisher of Dr. Johnston's Philosophical Charts. NEW BRUNSWICK.

December 10, 1855. DEAR SIR: I thank you for the Philosophical Charts. They furnish an admiapparatus. The Charts, hung on the walls of the School-room, in all which I hope to see them, will spread before the scholar a palpable illustration of the great laws in Natural Philosophy. He will learn much of God from the works of his hand and the ordinance of his ap-

The small volume that comes with them, and a little explanation by the teacher, will render the Charts one of the most useful means of instruction. Very respectfully yours, THEODORE FRELINGHUYSEN.

There are ten Charts in all, each measuring 34 by 52 inches, and the set contains, altogether, about three hundred diagrams, illustrative of the most important outline principles of the Natural Sciences. Besides the essential diagrams found in the ordinary textginal illustrations and possesses the merit rarely found in the school-books, of being entirely original in plan and arrangement. They are, moreover, highly ornamental to a school-room, and obviate the necessity of philosophical apparatus which would cost from £3,000 to $5,000. Price of the set of ten Charts, neatly colored and mounted
