German Atrocities

HOW A NATION LOST ITS SOUL

By NEWELL DWIGHT HILLIS

Many Photographs of Reproductions of Affidavits, Diaries, Scenes, etc.

12mo, cloth, net $1.00

Theodore Roosevelt says: "I wish every one in this nation could hear this indictment." The conditions thus described by an unimpeachable witness should wake every man and woman in America.

"Dr. Hillis tells of the cold-blooded murder of babies, little girls and boys and their mothers, by German soldiers and officers; of the mutilation of dead bodies; the devilish ingenuity of the German War Staff, in directing the complete devastation of whole districts; of the torture of French soldiers and Red Cross workers."—Indianapolis News.

"A true index of American sentiment and a brilliant statement of facts."—N. Y. Times.

Facing the Hindenburg Line

Being Personal Observations at the Fronts and in the Camps of the British, French, Americans, and Italians, During the Campaigns of 1917

By BURRIS A. JENKINS

12mo, cloth, net $1.25

☛ In the dual capacity of war-correspondent and Y. M. C. A. lecturer, Mr. Jenkins has had exceptional opportunities for seeing things at close range on the battle-fronts of Europe. In bright, telling fashion he has set down what he saw and heard among the Frenchmen at Verdun, on the British Front, in Northern France and Flanders, with the Italian Armies around Gorizia. Mr. Jenkins' book is marked throughout by a deep sincerity and descriptive powers away above the ordinary. A live, stirring account of life in the European war zone.
