

Religion is the same, altho' they differ in the manner of worship ; which God, nor Christ, nor the Apostles, never settled otherwise, than to require it to be in SPIRIT & TRUTH ; leaving it to every Nation to determine the manner, as most agreeable to their sense of religious worship.

Therefore I recommend it to both Lutherians and Calvinists, as well as to those of the Church of England, to take this little book into consideration ; and their own Ministers will tell them, that it contains nothing but what is right and true ; nothing but what is grounded upon Scripture, as any one may see by the many Passages which I have quoted in support of what I have said : which passages you will know by their being printed in a different type with the rest (in this manner.) And by the book, chapter and verse, which I have set down every time, either before
