Eloquent Tributes to E. F. Clarke in House of Commons.

ir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. R. L. Borden Mr. F. D. Monk, Mr. E. B. Osler and Dr. Sproule Speak of Their Late Colleague in Sympathetic Terms-Premier Declared the Late Member Was Strong, But Never Offensive.

Ottawa, March 8 .- Eloquent tribute o the worth of the late E. F. Clarke ere heard in the House yesterday. The impressive silence.

Sir Wilfrid's Tribute. Sir Wilfrid's Tribute.

Sir Wilfrid's Laurier said: The attendance of the House yesterday, Mr. Speaker, was so small that, after conference with my Hon. friend, the leader of the opposition, we both agreed that the moment then would not be opportune to call the attention of the House to the fact that we have lost one of the most prominent members of the House in the person of the late Mr. E. Clarke, member for Centre Toronto. House in the person of the late Mr. E. Clarke, member for Centre Toronto. The House had been aware that for some weeks past Mr. Clarke had been suffering from an illness which his friends and admirers knew to be severe, but hoped would not be fatal. We all cherished the belief that his strong constitution would be stronger than the disease which was attacking him, but by a strange fatallity it so happened that his death occurred on the evening of the very day when the press bulletins informed us he was out of danger, and when it was hoped and believed that within a very short time he would again occupy the seat in this House he held so long and well, but which is to be his no more. Such is the uncertainty of our lives, I am sure that when we parted last session no one would have believed that our late colleague, then so strong and hearty, then in the full flush of health and activity, would have been the first victim in this Parliament of death's relentless hand. This is but another illustration of the Clarke, member for Centre Toronto Parliament of death's relentless hand This is but another illustration of the old truism that we can never be sure of te-morrow, and that the future is ever full of uncertainty. When Mr. Clarke came here in 1896 he had already achieved in another sphere a very high reputation for ability. He had been long connected with municipal affairs in his own City of Toronto. Of that city he had been several times Of that city he had been several times elected Chief Magistrate, and he had also won for himself a prominent position in the Legislature of his Province. It was therefore no supprise to us, who had followed the politics of Ontarie, to find that as soon as he came here he commanded at once a prominent position in this House.

Strong, But Never Offensive,

Those who had the pleasure of sitting with him in the last two Parliaments will bear testimony to my statement that he was one of the ablest debaters will bear testimeny to my statement that he was one of the ablest debaters we have ever had in a Canadian Parliament; his speeches were always to the point; put in strong, but never of fensive language. There is no record that an offensive word ever passed his ins. He had the faculty of making his points as strong as they possibly could be made, without at the same time attacking anybody personally I well remember the speech he delivered on rather a ticklish, if I may use the expression, subject when resolutions were introduced some years ago in favor of home rule for freland. The speech he made on that occasion was to my mind a model in every respect. I did not agree with him in his views, but it would have been impossible to gresent his case in stronger and more manily language. I need hardly say that his loss is one not only to that side, but to both sides. In saying this I as sure I echo the voices from my side as much as I do those of the other side. We may, therefore, sadly, but in the most united assent, convey to the family of our late colleague in this House—not only his colleagues in this House—not only his colleagues of his own party, but also of the party opposed to him in politics—and upon this occasion pay this last tribute of our sincere admiration for his many great qualities and our deep sorrow at his *********I qualities and our deep sorrow at his

ONLY TWO TO DATE.

here Are Thirty-Six Charges in the Port Arthur and Rainy River Protest.

Toronto, March 8.—Hugh William Kennedy, Liberal M. P. P. elect for Port Arthur and Rainy River, to defend his seat to the left of the Speaker, will have to face thirty-six charges of political corruption. That is the number that appears in the petition of William A. Preston, the Fort William manufacturer, and defeated Conservative candidate in the last Provincial election. They include all the electoral sins known to candidates or counsel. Strictly speaking, there are no personal charges, although because of Mr. Kennedy's alleged personal knowledge of nedy's alleged personal knowledge of corrupt acts of his agents, the petitioner asks for his disqualification for the statutery term of eight years. The pe-tition was received from Port Arthur by Clerk Grant of the Court of Appeal esterday.

March II is said to be the last day March II is said to be the last day for the filing of protests in the more local constituencies. The date will be, perhaps, a week later for the outlying ridings. The statute fixes forty days from the date of the election return to the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery. So far only the Port Arthur and the Kingston protests are in.

Will Go On With It. Picton, March 8.—A large number of Conservatives met here on Saturday to consider the advisability of protesting the seat now held by Dr. M. Currie, M. P. P., for Prince Edward. The recount sustained Dr. Currie's inajority by five majority, but it was finally decided to go on with the protest.

Toronto, March 8.—Edward P. Clarke, having been laid amidst the general sorrow in his grave, of honor, it has been suggested that the gratitude of the community should be shown in some tangible form, not only for his services, but for the sacrifices which his devotion, always disinterested, to public duty entailed.

This it is proposed to do by forming a fund for the benefit of those whom he has left behind him. For this purpose the undermentioned have consented to act as a committee:

DISCUSS SCHOOL CLAUSES.

The Conservative Leader.

Mr. R. L. Borden: O behalf. Mr. Speaker, of those on your left, I wish to thank my Right. Hon, friend, the Prime Minister, for his very feeling and eloquent references to our late colleague, Mr. E. F. Clarke. My Right. Hon friend has said not one word too much in his praise. The death of Mr. Clarke is not only a loss to his party in the House of Commons, but it is, as the Right Hon. genileman has well said, a loss to the whole House, a loss to his native country, a loss to his Province, and above all a loss to Canada. Mr. Clarke was a man of very earnest and intense conviction, but at the same time he was a man of broad ideas, and had a great, generous heart. He was gifted with unusual powers of clear and vigorous expression, yet with all his intense convictions and earnestness no word of his, as my Right Hon. friend has well said, eyer caused any sting of bitterness in the hearts of his political opponents. Those who sat with him in this House as his colleagues from 1895 until his death, especially those on this #de of the House, look upon his loss as that of a dear brother. He has passed away in the fallness of his yower and in the enjoyment of a love such as it has fallen to the lot of tew men in any country to gain among their fellow-countrymen. More than that, he has left behind him a legacy of strong conviction, wise moderation, and above all of intense faith in the future greatness of his country which he towed so well. The Ontario Liberal Members Consider the Situation.

Ottawa, March 8.— (Globe Special.)—
The Ontario Liberal members had a caucus yesterday morning and discussed the school question in all its bearings. All the Ministers from the Proyince, with the exception of Sir Richard Cartwright, were present. The opinion of the majority seemed to be in favor of the school clauses suggested by the western members. Archie Campbell presided over the meeting.

Danville, Ark., March 8.—A quadruple murder has been committed at Whitely, about 12 miles from Danville, the victims being the wife and three children of James Ince, a farmer in that locality. The dead bodies of the woman and chifdren were found yesterday by neighbors. An axe had been used by the murderer, and the heads of the victims were split open and crushed. The four victims had been slain as they slept. The first news of the tragedy was brought here by Ince. He said his wife and three children had been murdered in their beds, and had been murdered in their beds, and that he knew the neighbors would ac-cuse him of the crime, and he was afraid he might be mobbed.

WYNDHAM RESIGNS.

Redmond Says it Is Evidence in Faver of Home Rule-Balfour's Explanations

London, March 7.—Premier Balfour announced in the House of Commons yesterday that Mr. Wyndham, the Chief Secretary of Ireland, had re-signed.

Chief Secretary of Ireland, had resigned.

The Premier said he had been unable any longer to withstand the appeals of Mr. Wyndham to be allowed to resign. Mr. Wyndham did not believe that he would be able at the present time to support all the labors and anxieties of his great office, but his principal reason for resigning was the fact that the recent controversy inside and outside the House had greatly impaired, if not altogether destroyed, the value of the work he could perform as Chief Secretary for Ireland.

value of the work he could perform as Chief Secretary for Ireland.

Mr. Balfour added that he did not propose to enter into the merits of the controversy, although there were features of it on which he had very strong opinions. Mr. Wyndham slone was the ludge as to the effect it had on his usefulness. The Premier regretted that Mr. Wyndham was not present to explain his position personally, in accordance with custom, but Mr. Balfour hoped he might soon be in a position to do so.

Do Not Disguise Their Jey
The Ulster Unionists do not disguistheir joy at the success of the manoeu

yres to oust Mr. Wyndham, but their happiness they openly assert will not be complete unless Sir Anthony P. MacDonnell, Under Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, joins his late chief in retirement.

The defection of the Irish Unionists was undoubtedly the cause of Mr. Wyndham's resignation, and Mr. Balfour's acceptance thereof, the split in the Ministerial ranks being such as to threaten the extinction of the Government's majority at any moment. Walter Long, president of the Local Government Board, is regarded as the probable successor of Mr. Wyndham.

John Redmond, chairman of the Irish

John Redmond, chairman of the Irish Parliamentary party, in an interview yesterday, said that Mr. Wyndham's yesterday, said that Mr. Wyndham's resignation was another evidence in favor of home rule, and a distinct step in that direction. The Government has tried the best men in Ireland, he said: "If control of that country from Downing Street were possible, someone would have succeeded in adjusting affairs to the general satisfaction. Mr. Wyndham was one of the Government's star men, and he did his best, but finding the that the could accomplish nothing. star men, and he did his best, but finding that he could accomplish nothing towards reform of the present Irish administration, he began to favor homerule. This attitude met with the disapproval of the Ulster men. When taken to task in the House, Mr. Wyndhammade the mistake of rounding on his
