Before proceeding with the installation, Bro. Galvin addressed the members on the great advantages that are derived from joining the C. M. B. A., socially as well as morally, as it creates a feeling of mutual interest in one another, thereby elevating the moral standing of each. He hoped the officers whom he was about to install would attend to the datles of their offices with care and would forward the offices with care, and would forward the interest of the association as much as possible, as the weifare of the Branch de-pended a great deal on the way the officers attended to their duties. The officers attended to their duties. The members should see that none but good ones were elected. Rev. P. J. Ryan then addressed the meeting, giving kind words of encouragement to the members, all of whom he was well acquainted with. He did not become a member without due deliberation, and was very glad that he was one; after which the installation was proceeded with.
