Because we miss them from our outward road God's unseen angel o'er our pathway crossed, Looked on us all, and loving them the most, Straightway relieved them of life's weary load.

They are not lost; they are within the door, That shuts out loss, and every hurtful thing, With angels bright, and loved ones gone before, In their Redeemer's presence evermore; And God himself-their Lord, their Judge, and King.

And this we call a loss! O selfish sorrow Of selfiso hearts ! O, we of little faith ! Let us look round some argument to borrow, Why we in patience should await the morrow That surely must succeed this night of death.

Ah ! look again ! This dreary desert path-The thorns and thistles, wheresoe'er we turn; What trials and what tears, what wrongs and wrath.

What struggles and what s rife the journey hath; They have escaped from them, and lo! we mourp :

Ask the poor sailor when the wreck is done, Who with his treasures strove the shore to

While with the raging waves he battled on; Was it not joy, when every joy seemed gone, To see his laved ones landed on the beach !

A poor wayfarer leading by the hand A little child, had halted by the well, To wesh from off her feet the clinging sand, And tell the tired boy of that bright land Where this long journey past, they longed to

When, lo! the Lord, who many mansions hath, Drew near, and looked upon the suffering twain :

Then pitying spoke : ' Give me the little lad In strength renewed and glorious beauty clad, I'll bring him with me when I come again.'

Did she make answer selfishly and wrong? · Nay, but the wrongs I feel he too must share; Or, rather, bursting into grateful song, She went her way rejoicing, and made strong

To struggle on, since he was freed from care We will do likewise. Death hath made no hreach

In love and sympathy, in hope and trust; No outward sign or sound our ear can reach, But there's an inward, spiritual speech, That greets us still, though mortal tongues be

It bids us do the work that they laid down; Take up the song where they broke off the atrain :

So journeying till we reach the heavenly town Where are laid up our treasures and our crown, but they met the summons in the tracquil spirit And our lost loved ones will be found again. Christian Advocate.

' Beautiful Snew' will long be regarded as one Farmer's Clubs and Debating Sociof the brightest gems in American literature.

Oh! the spow, the beautiful snow Filling the sky and earth below, Over the housetops, over the street, Over the heads of the people you meet; Dacoing-Firting-Saimming along.

Beautiful snow! it can do no wrong ; Flying to kiss a lady's fair cheek, Chinging to hips in froliceome freak; Beautiful snow from heaven above, Pure as an angel, gentle as love!

Oh! the snow, the beautiful snow. How the flakes gather and laugh as they go, Wairing about in maddening fun;

Cassing-Laughing-Hurrying by, It lights on the face, and it sparkles the eve : And the dogs, with a bark and a bound, Snap at the crystals as they eddy around; The town is alive, and its heart in a glow. To we come the coming of peautiful snow.

How wild-the crowd goes swaying along, Hailing each o her with humour and song : How the gay sleighs like meteors flash by, Bright for the mement then lost to the eve :

Ringing-Swinging-Dashing they go Over the crust of the beautiful snow; Show so pure when it falls from the aky, To be trampled and tracked by thousands

Till it blends with the fifth in the horrible stre Once I was pure as the snow, but I fell, Feil like the snowflakes from heaven to hell : Fell to be trampled as flith on the street,

Fell to be scoffed to be spit on, and beat; Pleading-Cursing-Dreading to die. Selling my soul to whoever would buy; Dealing in shame for a morsel of bread, Hating the living and fearing the dead; Merciful God, have I fallen so low? And yet I was once like the beautiful snow.

Once I was fair as the beautiful snow. With an eye like a crys al, a heart like its glow Ooce I was loved for my innocent grace -Figure ed and sought for the charms of my face

Fathers-Mothers-Sisters-all God and myself I have lost by my fall; The veriest wretch that goes shivering by, Will make a wide sweep lest I wander too nigh and let all enjoy the weekly meetings together.

For all that is on and at ove me I know, There is is nothing that's pure as the beautiful

How strange it should be that this beautiful Should fall on a sinner with nowhere to go! How strange it should be when the night comes again,

If the snow and the ice struck my despera brain. Fainting-Freezing-Dying alone, Too wicked for prayer, too weak for a mosa To be heard in the streets of the crazy town, Gone mad with the joy of snow coming down; To be and to die in my terrible woe, With a bed and a shroud of the beautiful snow.

Sinner, despair not ! Christ stoopeth low To rescue the soul that is lost in sin, And raise it to life and enjoyment again; Groaning-Bleeding-Dying for thee, The Crucified hung on the cursed tree; His accents of mercy fell soft on thine ear, 'Is there mercy for m :? Will He heed my weak

Helpless and foul as the trampled snow,

_Drayer ?' O God! in the stream that for sinners did flow, Wash me, and I shall be whiter than snow.

Sublime Heroism.

The following is an account of the loss of the bark Naomi in the recent gale on Lake Michi-

The bark Naomi, from Erie, Pa., loaded with cosl, and bound for Milwaukee, became helpless was carried away, and drifted high on the beach, and one of the crew, Dennis Driscoll, volunteered to go for help, jumped overboard, and was seen no more. Until near noon the crew clung to the rigging, with the waves dashing over the ill-fated chip, often thirty feet high.

At an early hour the captain, James Carpen ter, lashed his wife to the mast, and fastened himself to ber side. But the cutting winds and dreadful exposure soon rendered her insensible, and she died early in the day. The wreck was discovered, and by noon help arrived at the scene of disaster, brave hearts and stout hands were found to man the yawl that had drifted ashore, and in the face of this awful gale, they made the ship and took off part of the crew. The captain refused to leave the body of his wite, and by the time the beat returned for the balance of the crew, his eyes were set in death His body was lashed fast-they could not pull it oose : the waves were fast filling their boat, and to save themselves and the rest, they were obliged to leave them there-the dying hero with the dead wife.

They were both Methodists, and when in Erie, were connected with Simpson church, where on the Sunday before their death they attended services together, meeting in their class for the last time. Death came to them in a fearful shape, of their firm Christian faith.
