Was Troubled With His Liver For Four Years.

Doctors Gave Him Up.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS CURED HIM

Mr. Harry Graves, Junkins, Alta., writes:—"I can not say enough in regard to your wonderful Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. For four years I was troubled with my Liver, and at times it would get so bad I could not move around. At last the doctors gave me up saying it was impossible for me to get cured. My father got me four vials of your Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills, but I told him there was no use trying them and that it was only a waste of money, however I took them and to-day, six months later, I am a well man and weigh twenty-four pounds more than I did. I would advise all Liver sufferers to use them."

Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills are 25 cents a vial, or 5 vials for $1.00, at all dealers, or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SCRATCHING SHED HOUSE FOR THIRTY HENS

BUILDING A POULTRY HOUSE

The important considerations in building a poultry house are that the building should be so constructed that it will be free from draughts, that the inside temperature will change slowly with fluctuations in the weather, that the sun will shine into the house for some hours daily, and that the fowls will have sufficient floor space for exercise. Some authorities figure that every hen should have six square feet of floor space. Rather less than this may do, but it is a serious mistake to crowd the birds. Hens do best in small flocks, best results being obtained from keeping 20 or 25 birds in a flock. These facts should be kept in mind by builders.

Two letters are published here on the subject of poultry-house building in answer to the question in our Topics for Discussion department. We shall be pleased to receive further plans and suggestions along this line. The prizes are awarded in the order in which the letters appear.

SATISFACTORY POULTRY HOUSE

EDITOR FARMER'S ADVOCATE: We have several poultry houses. The one we find most satisfactory is a frame building 14 feet by 20 feet.

The frame is 2 by 4 studding, lined with rough lumber, then building paper, and sided with shiplap. The roof has tar paper over the sheathing and is shingled. It slopes both ways, but the ridge is only 4 feet from the front, with the long slope toward the north.

Front elevation is 6 feet; back elevation, 4 feet, to the ridge pole, 9 feet. We have two windows 20 inches by 36 inches on the south, and one on the east, and opens inward. Four feet from the south side we have a narrow room that has been a great convenience this season. It extends nearly the length of the building. The upper portion of the partition is constructed of wire netting, the lower of boards. Between the netting and the boards, nest boxes are slid in; kept in place by a strip of board nailed under them at each end.

When the hens are not sitting, we cover the ends of the boxes, opening into the narrow apartment, as that keeps the nests darker. When they are sitting we open that end of the box and fasten the other so that during the hatching season the other fowls do not get into the sitting chamber. We keep a dust bath, grit, grain and water in the small room, and the sitters have free access to them. After the hatching season is over, we remove a board from under the nests and let the poultry have all the floor for scratching purposes.

The roosts are at the opposite side under the low roof. We use dropping boards in winter, as it gives the fowls that much more floor space, but remove the boards in warm weather, as the dropping board is then their favorite laying place, and the eggs are diffi-
