'It Picked me Right Up.'

SHEDIAC, N. B., March 22, '86.

MR. E. M. ESTEY, Moncton, N. B.:

During the fall of '85 my system was completely run down. I had no appetite, and what little I did eat caused me great distress. I was so weak that I could hardly do my daily work. I saw Estey's Iron and Quinine Tonic highly recommended for cases similar to mine, which induced me to try it. After taking 1 bottle of it I felt much better, and now after I have used 3 or 4 bottles I feel as well as ever I did. It picked me right up, and I cannot recommend it too highly.

Yours truly,
HENRY GAY,
Fireman I. C. R.

Price 50c. per bottle. Six bottles $2.50. Sold by Druggists everywhere. Be sure you get the genuine: Estey's Iron and Quinine Tonic. Prepared only by E. M. Estey, Moncton, N. B.

FAILING.

That is what a great many people are doing. They don't know just what is the matter, but they have a combination of pains and aches, and each month they grow worse.

The only sure remedy yet found is Davis' Quinine Iron and Wine, and this by rapid and thorough assimilation with the blood, purifies and enriches it, and rich, strong blood flowing to every part of the system repairs the wasted tissues, drives out disease and gives health and strength.

This is why Davis' Quinine Iron and Wine will cure Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Liver Complaint, Malaria, Intermittent Fevers, General Debility, etc.

BURTON, SUN. CO., July 17, 1883.

GEO. H. DAVIS:

Dear Sir,—I was a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and for several weeks could eat nothing, and was growing weaker every day. I tried Davis' Quinine Iron and Wine, and am happy to say I now have a good appetite and am getting stronger.

Yours,
JOSEPH MCCAWLEY.

UPPER CAVERHILL, YORK CO., N.B., July 25, 1882.

GEO. H. DAVIS, ESQ:

Dear Sir,—In answer to your letter of nquiry relative to the benefit derived from Davis' Quinine, Iron and Wine, allow me to say that I consider it a wonder, and the best Tonic I have ever used, having tried several others without being benefited any. I was induced to try your Quinine, Iron and Wine, and am now a new man, having gained by its use my former strength and activity, and as for my appetite, it never was better.

Very truly yours,
ELIJAH NAVINS.

Davis' Quinine Iron and Wine is not a drink, and does not contain whiskey. It is a simple preparation of Iron and Quinine that causes no injurious effects. Get the Genuine. Ask for Davis' and take no other.

Life is full of disappointments. We recently offered to cure a bad case of Rheumatism for a year's subscription in advance, but just as we were on the point of lifting the shekels, a sympathizing friend suggested Johnson's Anodyne Liniment, and the money and the patient vanished instanter.

"I understand your son is married, Mrs. Todger?" "Oh, yes, the dear boy has quit scattering wild-oats and settled down at last." "Did he do well?" "Do well? INVESTIGATION.—Every man should be willing and we should think be very anxious to investigate everything which is so likely to benefit all mankind as the discovery of Davis' Quinine Iron and Wine, because it is now being used with the most beneficial results for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, General Debility, &c. A religious exchange says: A certain minister believes in the efficacy of prayer, but he does not appear to believe in praying to heaven for things which will be furnished in the natural course of events without being prayed for. Hunting Ostrich Feathers.

[Good Cheer.]

Ostrich feathers are very valuable, costing in Africa from $10 to $60 a pound. As it takes as many as seventy feathers to make a pound, and not more than twenty-five can be had from a single bird, a great number of birds must be killed to supply the half ton of feathers annually exported. The natives count it their most profitable hunting to kill ostriches. Harper's "Wild Sports of the World" gives a good account of the manner of hunting:

"With his arrows tipped with fatal poison, the savage hunter discovers the nest of an ostrich—a mere hollow in the sand, from three to six feet wide and eighteen inches deep. Removing the nest and burying them out of sight, the cunning bowman lies flat on his belly in the excavation and patiently awaits the return of the unsuspecting birds. Let their number be what it may, two, three or four, he lies quite snug and still, till, sauntering easily up, they come fairly within range of this dreadful arrow; then over the edge of the nest he takes aim, and before the first bird, pierced with the poisoned dart, has time to cry out, another arrow is fitted, and twang! another mighty ostrich is stricken to death. If he is a cool hand and knows his business, ten minutes from the time of the ostriches' first approach will see him with the entire family at his feet, and he eagerly gathering his crop of feathers. It is important he should pluck them while the body is still warm—they retain their gloss and curl the better, and fetch more at the sale.

"Another method adopted by the ostrich-hunter is to disguise himself in the skin of one of these birds, and, armed with his bow and poisoned arrows, stalk about the plain, imitating the gait and actions of the ostrich."

"Boot" in Berlin.

[Chicago Herald.]

In no other city in the world does the practice of giving customers something "to boot" obtain to the extent that it does in Berlin. The tax on merchants has grown heavier and heavier under the strife of competition, until now it is said, to be almost cheaper to buy than to go without. Confection houses give Chinese shawls, hats and sachels; grocers bribe cooks with gifts of soap; butchers give extra slices of ham, and dry goods dealers give dress patterns valuable according as the value of the purchase is much or little. The practice is most general among booksellers, who give toys, dolls, games, pencils, and the like, and recently in one of the Berlin schools the police had actually to be called in, the pupils having got into a violent quarrel over some fire-crackers obtained by one of them as "boot" in a book-store purchase.

Privileges of the Peerage.

[London Letter.]

No English peer or peeress can be arrested for debt, need serve on juries, or be called out in the militia, and they do not swear on oath, but on honor, except when witnesses in any court. They can sit in any court in England with their hats on, can wear a sort of uniform as peers, can carry arms, and, if they commit treason or felony, they must be tried by their peers.

CARE OF THE HAIR.

The frequent use of alkali in the water with which the head is washed has the effect of impoverishing the hair, and making it finer, thinner, less durable, and more liable to break from its root and to fall off. Coarse soaps also have the same effect of impoverishing the hair, and even the finer ones are not always desirable things to use if the hair is long and delicate in structure. Plain tepid water into which a small quantity of Eau-de-Cologne, sal volatile, or spirit of hartshorn has been poured is more suitable for the purpose. In the absence of these fluids a small quantity of spirits of wine or whiskey can be used. Although rum is often recommended, alone or together with other remedies, for the purpose of stimulating the hair-bulbs and increasing the growth of hair, yet it is not so desirable to use it when the head has simply to be cleansed. The other spirituous spirits are less "sticky." Violet powders can be used for cleansing purposes by persons with very fair hair. But it is always desirable to wash the head thoroughly once a week at least in order that scurf skin, and especially dried-up secretions from the skin, may be thoroughly removed, the latter act as irritants to the skin's surface when they are stale, block up some of its pores, and sometimes cause pimples to form. A very good cleansing fluid may be made by mixing a minute quantity of soft soap with water, adding to it some Eau-de-Cologne or simple spirit of lavender, or any other pleasant scent. After the cleansing process has been completed, a small quantity of some delicate kind of pomatum should be rubbed upon the surface of the head, unless the hair is so light in color that the use of pomatum detracts from the natural appearance of the hair; in this case the brush should be dipped into a weak mixture of Eau-de-Cologne and water and the hair should be gently brushed. Hard and coarse brushes often do a great deal of harm by irritating the skin and such rough appliances should never be used unless the hair is wiry and unyielding. Crimping the hair too frequently has also the effect of impoverishing it, and habitual crimping often makes the hair poor and thin after it has been practised for some months, the crimping being as injurious by interfering with the circulation of the fluids of the hair as violent brushing and tight twisting of it are. Refined marrow is of much greater use in the manufacture of pomatums than lard on account of its smoother and softer consistence. Whether the hair be long or short the same care should be taken in managing it.—Welden's Ladies' Journal.

FAINTING.

It is surprising how everybody rushes at a fainting person and strives to raise him up, and especially to keep his head erect. There must be an instinctive apprehension that if a person seized with a fainting or other fit fall into a recumbent position death is more imminent. Always remember this fact, namely: fainting is caused by a want of blood in the brain. The heart ceases to act with sufficient force to send the usual amount of blood to the brain and hence the person loses consciousness, because the function of the brain ceases. Restore the blood to the brain and instantly the person recovers. Now, though the blood is propelled to all parts of the body by the action of the heart, yet it is still under the influences of the laws of gravitation. In the erect position the blood ascends to the head against gravitation, and the supply to the brain is diminished as compared with the recumbent position, the heart's pulsation being equal. If then, you place a person sitting whose heart has nearly ceased to beat, his brain will fail to receive the blood; while if you lay him down with the head lower than the heart, blood will run into the brain by mere force of gravity, and in fainting, in sufficient quantities to restore consciousness. Indeed, nature teaches us how to manage fainting persons for they always fall and frequently are at once restored by the recumbent position into which they are thrown.

PROPER CARE OF THE HANDS.—There are not nearly as many secrets in hand treatment as people imagine. A little ammonia or borax in the water you wash your hands with, and that water just lukewarm, will keep the skin clean and soft. A little oatmeal mixed with the water will whiten the hands. Many people use glycerine on their hands when they go to bed, wearing gloves to keep the bedding clean; but glycerine does not agree with every one. It makes some skins harsh and red. These people should rub their hands with dry oatmeal and wear gloves in bed.

The best preparation for the hands at night is white of an egg with a grain of alum dissolved in it. Quacks have a fancy name for it, but all can make it; spread it over their hands, the job is done. They also make the Roman toilet paste. It is merely white of egg, barley flour, and honey. They say it was used by Romans in old time. Any way, it is a sticky sort of stuff to use, and does not do the work any better than oatmeal. The roughest and hardest hands can be made soft and white in a month's time by doctoring them a little at bed time, and all the tools you need are a nail brush, a bottle of ammonia, a box of powdered borax, and a little fine white sand to rub the stains off, or a cut of lemon, which will do even better, for the acid of the lemon will clean anything.

POTATO WATER A SURE CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.—For the benefit of the large number who are suffering from rheumatism in this neighborhood we publish a sure cure as related to us by a gentleman who was so ill with this disease that his life was dispaired of. He was confined to his bed, and so acute was his suffering that if a person walked across the room, it caused him to scream out with pain. His wife heard that potato water was good, and as a last resort she put on half a peck of potatoes in an iron kettle over the stove and let them boil all to pieces. She then by dint of much labor and extreme pain on the part of her husband, got him up and put his feet in soak in the water, and the pain was relieved as if by magic. Cloths dipped in the hot potato water were then applied to his knees and other portions affected, and although the application almost killed him at first, so sensitive was the first touch, yet a moment's time saw the pain allayed and the patient was soon enjoying a sweet sleep. His recovery was speedy, and he has not had a severe attack of rheumatism since. We advise all of our readers to give this simple but effective remedy a trial. The person who received such benefits has told of the remedy to many others, and in every instance it has proved successful.—Cape Ann Advertiser.

REMEDY FOR POISON IVY.—Dr. S. A. Brown, United States Navy, states in the Medical Record that he has found a specific to the troublesome eruption produced by the poison oak or poison ivy so common in our woods and along old fences. This specific he finds in bromine, which he has used with unvarying success in at least forty cases. He uses the drug dissolved in olive oil, cosmoline or glycerine, in the strength of from ten to twenty drops of bromine to the ounce of oil, and rubs the mixture gently on the affected parts three or four times a day. The bromine is so volatile that the solution should be renewed every twenty-four hours. The eruption never extends after the first thorough application, and it promptly disappears within twenty-four hours if the application is persisted in.
