SPECIAL EVENING TELEGRAM.
BERLIN, Dec. 6.
A despatch to the Morning Post from Constantinople says that the Porte has emphatically rejected Russia's demands that the Bosphorus and Dardanelles be open to Russian warships.

LONDON, Dec. 6.
A double aviation fatality occurred at Filly, Yorkshire, to-day, when Oxy, the aviator, was killed and a passenger died from injuries received. The aeroplane was smashed.

SPECIAL EVENING TELEGRAM.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.
Persia has made a direct appeal to Britain to act as mediator in an effort to negotiate a settlement of the crisis with Russia, according to a despatch received here from semi-official sources at Teheran. The progress of the Russian troops towards Teheran has been temporarily stayed. The troops, which are proceeding from Resht towards Kasvin and Teheran, will be halted at the former city and held outside Teheran.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM.
LONDON, Dec. 6.
Premier Asquith announced in the House of Commons this afternoon that the Government would use all constitutional means to pass the Home Rule Bill for Ireland during the life-time of the present Parliament. This declaration was made in reply to a question from William O'Brien, who expressed concern over a report that Asquith was trying to get the Lords to throw out the Bill when it reaches the Upper House. The Premier, by his announcement to-day, means that he undertakes to force the Home Rule Bill through three consecutive sessions, if necessary, thus making it become effective in spite of the opposition of the Peers.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM.
PARIS, Dec. 7.
A pessimistic view of the German Chancellor's speech yesterday in the Reichstag, dealing with German-British relations, dominates France. The general view prevails that it harmed rather than helped Anglo-German relations. "Le Temps" regrets that the debate between German and English statesmen was ever started, for the result has not been in the direction of conciliation and friendliness. "Le Temps" was amazed at the way in which the Chancellor talked German extension, and says Germany is vastly mistaken if she thinks she can expand by trampling over the bodies of her neighbors.

SPECIAL TO EVENING TELEGRAM.
PEKIN, Dec. 7.
An edict announcing the resignation of Regent Chun was issued to-day by the Empress Dowager. It was signed by members of the Cabinet, and points out the administration has been unpopular, that constitutional government has not yet been established, explaining this by the fact that complications arose, people's hearts were broken and the country thrown into turmoil. The Regent regrets his repentance came too late, and feels that if he continued in power his commands would soon be disregarded. The Regent has been granted fifty thousand taels annually from the Imperial household allowance. As the Imperial and revolutionary leaders at Hankow have not yet come to an understanding, the Armistice has been extended three days.

Will Lay Up.

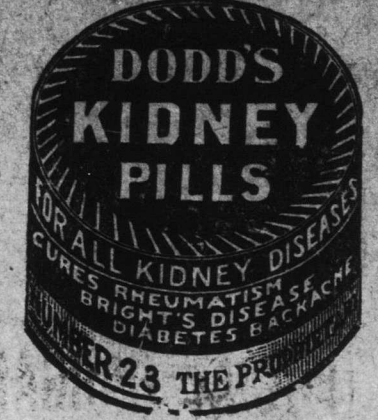

When the Rosalind is discharged she will go to New York via Halifax and will lay up there for a short while for necessary repairs. She will then run on this route in company with the Florio, which ship will make trips up till February, after which she will be prepared for the sealing voyage. The Stepano will soon begin her runs to the West Indies.

Seal in Lake.

One day last week as Mr. A. Snow was passing up the side of Quidi Vidi Lake he saw an object swimming in it which he thinks might have been a seal. It repeatedly burst through the thin ice which covered the Lake. It would be about the size of a dog hood, and some years ago a similar sight was witnessed in "the pond." If it was a seal it came in through gut and entered the foot of "the pond" after coming up the river.

322 Whales.

The whale fishery just concluded has resulted in the securing of a total of 322 whales, not including the catch of the Hawk, of Bowring Bros. The Lynx got 74; the Hump, 57; Cabot, 59; Puma, 72; Cachalot, 41 and Port Saunders, 19. The Cabot's catch is 17 below that of last year, but her fish this season are better oil yielders. The Lynx and Puma beat last year's record. The old Cachalot last year had only 35 fish, and this year 41, five being sperm.

Pulitzer's Romantic Career.

A Tramp Who Became a Newspaper Millionaire.

The history of modern business and commerce contains many striking examples of men who, commencing life with scarcely a penny in their pockets, have in the course of years accumulated vast fortunes. None of these careers has been so varied and extraordinary, however, as that of Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, the proprietor of the "New York World," who just died at the age of sixty-four, leaving a fortune of $6,000,000 sterling. He was seventeen years of age when he decided that there was no opening for him in his native country, Hungary. He therefore tramped through Germany to the coast, sailed in an emigrant ship for New York, and when he reached Boston harbour jumped overboard and swam to shore because he had not sufficient to pay the head-tax on aliens. Ultimately he arrived in New York with just twenty-five cents in his pocket.

However, he managed to enlist as a private in the Lincoln Cavalry, and served through the last year of the Civil War. After his regiment was disbanded he began his fierce struggle for existence. He worked at everything that came his way—coal-heaver, coachman, waiter, butler, and stoker on a Missouri ferry-boat. It was while engaged in the latter occupation that he strolled one night into a small saloon in St. Louis where a game of chess was in progress. Pulitzer possessed a perfect genius for chess, and that night he beat the best man in the saloon. His play attracted the attention of a German journalist who was proprietor of a paper in St. Louis. He gave him a job, and within a few years Pulitzer was managing editor and part-proprietor of that newspaper.

This was the turning of the tide. In 1878 he was able to buy the St. Louis Dispatch, and amalgamating it with his first newspaper, he formed the St. Louis Post Dispatch, now one of the most prosperous journals in the United States. Five years later he acquired the "New York World," from Jay Gould, a paper which soon developed into one of the most influential journals in America, under the guidance of Pulitzer. Its power may be judged from the fact that Grover Cleveland declared that but for his campaign on his behalf he would never have been President.

Pulitzer, having shown what he could do in the newspaper world, turned his attention to law and politics, and soon became a great force on the platform. He had an extraordinary command of English, although when he first landed in America he could not speak a word of the language. Every spare moment, however, was spent in the public libraries, and within four years he could write trenchant English. At the height of his fame and prosperity, however, a great misfortune befell him. Early in the 'nineties he became quite blind. During his last years he spent most of his time globe-trotting. He was known in all the chief European capitals, particularly among musicians, for his one great passion was music, and he never travelled without his private pianist. A striking illustration of his energy is furnished by the fact that, in spite of his affliction, and no matter where he might be, he would cable to New York entire leading articles and statements of policy.
