Wouldn't Hear the City. Warden Buttrey and several members of the jail committee thought it 2.6 mills on the dollar be levied on was due the city council to be heard, the whole county of Middlesex, probut the majority of the council were opposed to such a step. Warden Buttrey pointed out that from the viewpoint taken by him that it would be of advantage to the county to hear the city council, and if no agreement could be reached on the 70 and 30 per cent basis, perhaps if the county would agreed to join with the city and pay 25 per cent the buildings could be erected with satisfaction to all. The jail committee, at the meeting with the committee of the city counc committee on Thursday morning, all bu promised that the county council would receive the proposition of the city on Friday night, but their efforts were of no avail, the council decided that it would not be in the interests of the county to waste time in such a confer-

The county clerk was finally advised to let the city clerk know that the county council was not favorably disposed to consider this agreement and that it was benefit by a meeting of the city and county councils last evening.

City Will Go Ahead. Now that joint buildings are no
