

$500,000,000 OF AMERICAN CAPITAL WORKING IN CANADA

Substantial Increase in Investments in the Dominion Is Expected in 1913.

IMMIGRATION RECORD

States Will Take All Foodstuffs Dominion Can Export in Few Years.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Carefully prepared reports indicate that the amount of American capital now invested in Canada aggregates, in round numbers, $500,000,000. The total seems to be growing quite rapidly. In 1908 it was $278,000,000, and in 1911, $415,000,000. The belief of Canadian statisticians is that the figures for the coming year will show a good increase over those for 1912.

Asked concerning the character of American investments in Canada, the officials state that $150,000,000 is in the form of branch manufacturing and ware-houses of various kinds, and $125,000,000 in the form of investments in government, municipal and industrial bonds. United States life and fire insurance companies have invested $67,000,000 in Canada, while in British Columbia, American money to the extent of $130,000,000 has gone into mills, mines, packing plants, factories and warehouses.

New Immigrant Record.

During the last Canadian fiscal year, the number of immigrants was 402,432, which has broken all records. The arrivals in the fiscal year 1912 were slightly more than 350,000, and for the fiscal year 1911, about 310,000. Assuming that one-third of these immigrants subsequently left Canada, the percentage of the immigrant population in the United States, the fixed increase in Canadian population in the last three years has been probably in excess of 200,000, and may have been 250,000.

The nationality of these new comers to Canada is in marked contrast to the new comers to the United States. For the last fiscal year the sources of Canadian immigration were as follows: Great Britain, 150,524; the United States, 138,093; all other countries, 113,815. In round numbers Canadian arrivals since 1900 have totaled 2,700,000, of whom 1,000,000 were British, 550,000 American, 165,000 from Australia-Hungary, 85,000 from Italy, 65,000 from Russia, 41,000 Jewish, 31,000 from Germany, and the remainder in small numbers from other countries of Europe. Practically two-thirds of the total were English-speaking people, of ready political, social and industrial assimilation.

New Comers Invited.

The Canadian government carries on an active campaign of immigrant inducement in certain parts of Europe. At first some activities embraced a part of southeastern Europe, but work in that region has been abandoned, and is now being confined to the United Kingdom, the United States, and central and northern Europe. Immigrants from southern and eastern Europe, who have been coming to the United States for years in very large numbers, now go to Canada in response to communications from friends and relatives of earlier arrival and of successful experience.

From a political standpoint it is interesting to observe that the large majority of Canadian immigrants continue to be of the English race, rivaling many portions of the United States. This Western Canada is exceedingly friendly to the United States, and in politics it is inclined to be liberal. More and more, as the years go by, eastern Canada becomes the conservative section of that country. It has been estimated that at the present rate of increase, the western provinces should hold considerably more than the balance of political power within the next decade. If the tide of immigration should rise high enough, these provinces may even come into control of the government.

Moving Westward.

In other words, the centre of political gravity in Canada, as has been the case in the United States, is steadily following the westward course of the centre of population. In the United States the centre of population is now in the heart of the Mississippi valley, while the centre of political power is in the south-western region. In Canada the centre of population, as well as the centre of political gravity, until a very few years since, has been in eastern Ontario, not far from Ottawa and Toronto. Both are now rapidly moving westward, and before many years will be near the province of Manitoba.

When this happens, there are many people who believe that political parties in Canada will be compelled to revise their platforms, just as political parties in the United States have been doing since 1910. This revision, it is believed here, will result in a more friendly feeling between Canada and the United States, one of the manifestations of which will be complete free trade, for by that time, it is asserted by some of the American economists, the United States will be in need of Canada's raw products, while Canada will be glad to have free access to the United States markets for manufacturing goods.

Increase in Exports.

Statisticians of the government assert that by the time Canada has a population of 25,000,000, and is able to export foodstuffs and other commodities to the amount of a billion dollars a year, the United States will have a population of 150,000,000, and be in need of every eatable animal, every bushel of wheat and other grain and potatoes, every pound of butter and every dozen of eggs, that the Canadians can let it have. The first definite sign of this promised condition, it is said, will begin to manifest themselves in perhaps less than 10 years. When the time predicted by the economists shall have arrived, Canada will be buying yearly from the United States goods to the aggregate value of a billion dollars. Last year, when her population was but 80,000,000, her bill for American goods purchased amounted to $455,000,000.

The situation at no point, say the American experts, justifies the gloomy predictions of certain people who press to see in Canada's rapid expansion along all the lines a menace to the economic welfare of the United States. Americans may well afford to view the situation with one eye, the experts say. The development of Canada will be accompanied by continued development in the United States, and in the end the two countries will see that neither can get along without the other. The realization of this fact, it is asserted, will of itself settle peacefully and in a spirit of entire good will, every controversy that in the future may arise between them.

"ALL HALLON-EVE" WINS SECOND APPEARANCE

Novelty So Much Appreciated That It Will Be Repeated.

Thursday night at the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium "All Hallon-Eve" was presented to a crowded house. Many people were unable to secure a seat, and the committee in charge have decided to repeat the entertainment next Thursday evening, when the seat plan will open on Monday morning. Rev. A. J. Johnston, of Dundas Centre Church, made the announcement during the evening.

Flags, jack-of-lanterns and grain in sheaf, combined with an inviting fireplace with artistic decorations, made a pretty stage.

The scene was in two parts, telling the history and picturing old-fashioned customs and traditions of the Halloween festival.

Seated by the fireplace are the grandfather and grandmother, with their favorite children, and some relatives join them, and together they participate very merrily in a family reunion. Games and songs are given, and much merrymaking is indulged in.

Miss Edna Shaw, as Jerusha, and Mr. Ed. Webster pleased their audience with the musical numbers they gave. In the nursery rhyme, "Miss Shaw gave 'A Little Pussy'."

Other musical numbers given were by Miss Eleanor Clarke, who sang "Coming Through the Rye"; Miss Marjorie Talbot, "My Laddie," and Miss Gilles and Miss Parsons gave an old-fashioned duet entitled "Long, Long

A HALLOWEEN RISK.

Mary—If I walk backward down the cellar stairs in the dark, I'll see my future husband.

Harry—Nonsense! You'll be more likely to see your family surgeon.

Agoo! Mr. George White's solo, "You'll Remember Me," in a good tenor voice, was well received.

As a ghost story teller, Mr. Arthur Cree, of the Western University, excels, and Halloween delusions are well pictured.

Miss Newbury made good as a witch and it must be admitted she did her part exceedingly well.

Matilda Brattle, one of the old maids, was particularly clever in her attentions with the widower.

Carlyle Hannah, as John Henry, never lost an opportunity to create a disturbance.

Miss Irene Plewes gave the story, "The Goblins," and was well received. Her winsome manner instantly won the audience's heart.

The scenes were arranged by and were the original work of Miss Belle Brown and Miss Georgia M. Newbury, of the London Conservatory of Music, and was under the auspices of No. 8 Club boys of Dundas Centre Church.

A QUINTETTE IN MINOR KEY

How a Temporary Gloom Befell Five Male Admirers.

In a certain Forest City home there are five daughters, all young, marriageable and pretty. As a harmony of the properties, each has an eligible admirer who calls on a certain night every week, and every suitor of the five has a certain night allotted him, from which order he is not expected to depart. Last week the one whose date was Monday, called to see the girl of his choice, but the maid-of-all-work said she was busy and had given express orders that she was not to be disturbed. The Tuesday night young man called the next evening and got the same message concerning the lady of his preference. Wednesday night found the young man belonging to that date leaving his sweetheart's doorstep disappointed and disconsolate for similar reason.

Thursday night brought no better luck to the next in turn, and Friday was equally as unfortunate for the fifth admirer, who was denied an interview with the girl he adored. He was just about to depart when his four colleagues in courtship, one by one appeared. In a common cause they held a short indignation meeting on the lawn and resolved to get to the bottom of the horrible mystery right then and there. All five presented themselves at the door, brushed past the housemaid, and entered the living room, half expecting to secure some evidence that their respective objects of affection were untrue to them, but all they found was a group of five sister so busily engrossed in doing embroidery that they forgot to notice the five suitors who had come to the bottom of the horrible mystery right then and there. SUES GOV. FOSS FOR ALLEGED SLANDER

Former President of Labor Union Wants $100,000 Damages.

[Canadian Press.]

Boston, Oct. 31.—The bringing of a suit against Governor Foss for $100,000 for alleged slander, was announced today by James T. Moriarty, former president of the Boston Central Labor Union. The suit, Mr. Moriarty said, was based on a statement signed "B. N. Foss," which appeared this week in a Boston paper, in which Mr. Moriarty was denounced for participation in a strike of employees of factories controlled by the governor. Mr. Moriarty said he objected particularly to a portion of the statement alleging that he was defeated for re-election as president of the union. He declared that after serving two terms as president he was not a candidate for re-election, and that the new president was elected without opposition.

CANADA'S EXAMPLE SHOULD BE FOLLOWED

Secretary Ellsworth Says Dominion Waterworks Are Being Utilized Splendidly.

[Canadian Press.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Canadian activity in waterway matters was the subject of the opening address at the second day of the New York State Waterways Association here today.

Frank S. Ellsworth, secretary of the association, was the speaker. He pointed out that Canadians have realized the value of improved water routes, and he urged that the people of New York profit by the example set by their northern neighbors.

THE MAN WHO BUYS GRAFTON'S CLOTHES

--Is in the position of the
--man who buys Preferred
--Stock and gets a
--Bonus of Common.

At GRAFTON'S you will buy at retail directly of the makers, and you pay wholesale prices.

You get in on the ground floor, so to speak, and you pay no more for a single Suit than the dealer pays when he buys in large quantities.

You get PREFERRED STOCK because you get the BEST in fabric, workmanship and style that anyone can give you.

You get a BONUS in addition, because you save the excess profit which you must pay everywhere else.

For instance, the maker of a BRANDED SUIT which sells for $25 or $30 must add to his cost of making a very large profit to cover extensive advertising and other costly selling methods.

THE DEALER in his capacity as sole agent for the BRANDED SUIT, having paid an excessive price must get an excessive price from his customer.

That is why the BRANDED SUITS sold elsewhere at $25 and $30 can be duplicated at GRAFTON'S for $18 and $20.

Investigation will prove these facts, and if $7 to $10 is worth saving, these facts are worth investigating.

Comparison will show that you can always get 25 per cent to 33 1-3 per cent more value in GRAFTON'S CLOTHES at any price you pay for them.
