

LEMON JUICE GOOD TO KEEP INFANTILE PARALYSIS CHECKED

M. O. H. Talks of Cause and Preventives.

"KEEP COOL AND QUIET"

Also Avoid Colds, Indigestion and Use Urotropin Under Doctor's Order.

Because of the infantile paralysis epidemic, now ravaging New York, Dr. H. W. Hill, medical officer of health, has issued the following: Infantile paralysis (acute epidemic anterior poliomyelitis) is a specific streptococcus infection of the spinal cord (sometimes the brain), affecting one or more of the movements (motor) areas, and the result is paralysis of the particular muscles whose nerve control passes through the particular part of the spinal cord or brain which may be infected. Thus the muscles of the face may be paralyzed, the muscles of the cord or brain be infected, the muscles of the neck, if the infection is at another point; the muscles of respiration, if the infection is at the hand or foot, arm or leg, etc., just as occurred to where the infection is located. Suppose a certain wire were severed on the hydro supply—the power supplied by that particular wire would be cut off, and all the particular shops (receiving their power through that wire) would come to a standstill. If you knew the layout of the hydro supply, you could tell just about where the wire had been cut, by considering the particular shops that had come to a standstill. This is a reasonably close illustration of poliomyelitis.

Some Attacks Not Fatal. Now, if the disease locates at such a place in the cord as to affect only the arm or hand or leg, no fatal harm is done. But if vital muscles like those of respiration are affected, the result is death, of course, unless, although cases have occurred in which but one respiratory muscle (the diaphragm) escaped, that was enough to keep the patient going until the other respiratory muscles recovered.

The germ spreads (like that of cerebro-spinal meningitis) from one person's nose or throat to another person's nose or throat, without harm, until it encounters someone who is, in some way, not understood, susceptible to its action. Then that person develops the disease. Therefore all active cases are isolated to prevent further spread from them of the germ; and all in contact with the active cases are isolated, because although not sick, they may carry the germ in nose or throat to others.

Sources of Infection. Mouthspray and hands are the chief known methods by which the germ travels from person to person. Not infrequently dogs, cats, pigs, horses, etc., have been reported as showing paralysis during an epidemic of poliomyelitis in the human. While many of these animals are probably sick of something else, yet it remains possible that some of them may have poliomyelitis itself, and it certainly is animals of any kind that may carry the germ in nose or throat to others.

Horses especially seem to have a relation to the disease. Paralyzed limbs should be destroyed, and all horse manure should be kept covered, if possible, and removed at least from the vicinity of human dwellings.

It is often appears that the strong active child is affected more often than the weakling, special efforts to keep children from excitement, overeating, indigestible meals, etc., can do no harm and have been recommended.

Preventives. Urotropin, in small doses, three or four times a day, has been recommended as a preventive. Well diluted, even larger doses may be given, but a physician should always be consulted before using it.

The preliminary symptoms, when there are any, are fever, sore throat, headache, irritability, indigestion, even vomiting, pain in one or more limbs, etc., sometimes tenderness in the limbs or back; constipation and retention of urine are also common. The paralysis may be the first symptom noted, or it may come on following the symptoms above described, in a day or two up to three or four days.

About 20 per cent of the children who are paralyzed and 40 to 50 per cent of adults die. Children are, however, affected in much larger proportion than adults as a rule, so that the actual number of children who are paralyzed or die is generally much greater than the actual number of adults who are paralyzed or die.

About fifteen per cent of those paralyzed quickly recover entirely, while a still larger proportion recover more or less completely after a time, varying from weeks to many months.

Use of Lemon Juice. The use of lemon juice, filtered, and mixed with an equal quantity of water as a gargle, spray for the nose, etc., is highly advocated for clearing the throat and nose of diphtheria germs, and it seems well to avoid any infections of the nose or throat or to clear away those which may be present, this is as good a prophylactic measure as any.

Experience in the civil hospitals at London, Canada, seems to support this view in measles, mumps and scarlet fever; certainly it can do no harm to employ it as a preventive measure for the infection of poliomyelitis also.

To summarize: Keep cool and quiet and free from indigestion or colds; use urotropin under a physician's direction, if necessary; if suspicious of infection, use lemon juice as directed. Have a physician see all children who show the symptoms described and keep children in bed, quiet and isolated from all other children, with one attendant only, until the attack can be recognized as poliomyelitis or not poliomyelitis, as the case may be.

The London Board of Health will be glad to see children suspected of the disease, in cases where a physician is not called; or to consult with physicians in doubtful cases.

Prompt reporting and prompt isolation of the suspected case are the first duties of every parent as well as every physician. Children should be kept from mingling with strangers (children or adults) as much as can be reasonably managed. The disease being reported from Montreal and Detroit, both east and west, London can hardly hope to escape entirely. Those parents who have the best interests of their children at heart will do well to act definitely and at once as above described.

TWO GIRLS DROWNED. Canadian Press. Gladstone, Man., July 12.—Florence and Doris McCullough, girls of 12 are drowned while bathing yesterday in the White Mud River, near here.

HAY-MAKING KEEPS ALL FARMERS BUSY; MUCH IN

Women Do Marketing Business While Men Work the Land.

"Make hay while the sun shines" is what the farmers are telling themselves these days when their new hay is ripe and when a heavy fall of rain would ruin it. All through the country the hay, under splendid weather conditions, which prevailed during the past few weeks, has ripened and is now ready to be cut, in fact a great deal of it has been cut and every day farmers are working from sunrise until after it is dark cutting their crops and storing them in their barns.

The market square has presented a desolate appearance for some days past, scarcely half a dozen farmers coming in with produce, and on Saturday wagons are driven and watched over by women with hardly a man in sight, for no cautious farmer would leave his crop standing in the field, taking chances that fortune would keep rain off a few days longer after so much dry weather.

PROVINCIAL BOARD ASKED TO AMEND SEWAGE REPORTS

Alterations and Corrections Wanted by City.

MEASLES ARE DANGEROUS

Three Deaths From That Disease Reported During June.

At the session of the board of health yesterday afternoon, the report of the provincial board of health on the sewerage system of London was considered briefly, and it was decided to ask the provincial board to make certain corrections, as outlined at the joint meeting of the board of works and the board of health some days ago.

At this session, it was pointed out that there was considerable raw sewage going into the river, but not so large a proportion as the provincial report stated.

It does seem strange to me that the city will prosecute people for dumping raw sewage into the river, when they have to do so in connection to the sewerage, and the same thing happens," commented Chairman Somerville. "There is a shadow of doubt that much of the sewage does go into the river in a raw state. This condition should not exist."

Other comments were made on the subject. The bacteria beds have long been found unsatisfactory, as they do not purify the sewage in the slightest. However, the provincial board's report was sent back for amendment.

Measles Serious. The report of Dr. Downham, assistant to the health officer, showed that there were 174 cases of measles during the month of June, with three deaths. Dr. Hill declared that measles were far more dangerous than was thought, and greater care should be taken to prevent their spread.

There were also 10 cases of chicken-pox, 2 of diphtheria, 3 of mumps, 9 of scarlet fever, one of typhoid, and 8 of whooping cough. There were no deaths from any of these diseases.

There were 52 cases of tuberculosis in the city, 10 discovered during the month. Permanent Official Better. Dr. Hill suggested that next year an additional camp should be appointed for the month of June, with three deaths. The latter inspection has been completed.

The city water was declared to be free from colon bacilli. In the spring there were signs of these, but nothing later.

The question of appointing a plumbing inspector, now under the board of health, will be considered when a report is received from the building inspector.

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

FUNERAL OF MRS. BAKER. The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Baker, widow of George Baker, whose death occurred on Saturday last, was held on Monday afternoon from the family residence, 58 York street.

Rev. J. Assiter of the Christian Church conducted the services. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

FUNERAL OF MRS. MCLEOD. The remains of Mrs. Mary Elizabeth McLeod, whose death occurred in Fingal on Saturday, arrived Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 p.m. from the funeral home.

The funeral services were held from George F. Logan's undertaking parlors at 2:30 p.m. to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

TO BE BURIED AT ST. PETER'S. The remains of Mrs. Frank McGuire, whose death occurred July 9 in Sarnia, arrived in London Sunday night on the G. T. R. 6:25 o'clock Sarnia train.

The funeral will be held this morning at 8:30 o'clock from the family residence, 442 Hill street, to St. Mary's Church.

Requiem high mass will be sung at 9 o'clock. Interment will take place in St. Peter's Cemetery.

DEATH OF MRS. FLETCHER. Mrs. Anna Fletcher, well-known in this city, and wife of Rev. Colin Fletcher, D.D., pastor of the Thames Road Presbyterian Church, near Exeter, is dead at her home after a long illness. She was 83 years old. The funeral will be held today.

TAKEN TO ST. THOMAS. The remains of Pte. Kane, who was drowned at Pte. Borden on Monday, arrived in London last night, and were taken to St. Thomas, where burial will take place. An idea of the extent of the disaster is shown by the fact that the officer who accompanied the remains had to ride in an auto with the body wrapped in a blanket, for many miles before he could obtain a casket.

COHAN'S SISTER DEAD. Mrs. Niblo, formerly Miss Josephine Cohan, sister of George M. Cohan, the actor, died today in a local hotel, aged 40 years. Death was attributed to heart disease.

Mrs. Niblo, as Josephine Cohan, starred in a number of Broadway successes. In the early years of her theatrical life she appeared with her father, mother and brother, long known to the stage as the Four Cohans.

BRUCE BATTALION WAS ADDRESSED BY REV. JOHN MACNEILL

Made Strong Evangelistic Appeal to Troops.

URGES CHANGE OF HEART

Easy To Drift With Crowd and Into Unrighteous Living.

"I am a Colorado Scotchman, all the way from Denver, and I have come a long way to preach to you men, so let's get together and get acquainted right on the spot," said Rev. John MacNeill, the famous Scotch evangelist, in addressing the men of the 16th (Bruce) Battalion at Francis Camp last evening.

Only about one-half of the battalion were present, the remainder being on guard, out on furlough for seeding, and the balance in quarantine for the measles.

His message to all the soldiers was a straight-from-the-shoulder evangelistic appeal, put together through with epigrammatic phrases, for which he is famous.

Held His Audience. His magnetic personality and forceful delivery held the men in his hand from the first to the last. He followed a few minutes later by some human-nature anecdote, told in his inimitable Scotch manner, to more clearly illustrate his point.

On the start he made it plain that his object in coming to London was not to talk to miscellaneous gatherings, but to devote his time and attention to the soldiers, in whom he was deeply interested, because of the fact that two sons, one now in Flanders and the other in a Vancouver regiment, were answering their country's call.

"I came here to speak to you men, and I am glad to see and meet this body of soldiers in training here tonight, and further, I am glad once more to see you men in that grand old flag, the Union Jack."

"I was given to understand before I came here that there would be 12,000 men here to talk to, but upon my arrival I found that a considerable portion had gone, but we will not discuss that feature now."

His Good Chance. When the speaker inquired about the 16th Battalion I found that this lot was quarantined, so I said, now there's my chance; they can't get away."

"You may have heard about the story of the Scotch prisoner appointed to the position of prison chaplain. When the first Sunday came, he addressed the prisoners in the manner he usually was accustomed to in church, and said: 'I am a half Scotch and half Irish, and this morning.' Then on top of that, the first hymn he gave out ran like this: 'We are travelling home to God in our own fathers' track.'"

He then took the case for heaven, the words of which were: 'I thought upon my ways, and turned my feet into Thy testimonies.' 59th verse, 119th Psalm.

Dealing at length with the words of the text, he dwelt upon the necessity of a change of heart in the men, and strove to appeal to the religious phase of life in all its aspects.

"Religion is a personal matter; not an appeal to the emotion, but to the individual intelligence," he said. "Remember that in the race for heaven there is no handicap; we all toe the scratch together with an equal chance," he continued. "Be tremendously interested, men, in yourself, because God is."

Easy to Drift. "It's easy to go to hell. All you need to do is drift with the crowd, and listen, men, listen to me. Think on your way, turn now before it's too late."

"As a Scotchman I believe in the old doctrine of 'turn or burn.' Now, mind you, when I say burn, I use the Scotch and put in three 'r's' whereas some of you Englishmen here chew up the only one you got."

"Turn, men, turn; it's a free country, and you can go to the devil if you want to, but let me tell you right now, I don't admire your taste."

The Better Way. "The turning point is Jesus Christ, and your life will never run smooth until you change, and you will never change until you will wait a long time, and I hope you make the decision now."

"In closing, let me trust that we will not forget this quiet evening spent here in the camp, beneath the dome of God's great tent."

At first Rev. MacNeill had only intended making the one talk to the men, but after consideration will address again tonight the men, but he will not leave the camp, the services to commence at 8 o'clock sharp, city time.

The Forest City quartet rendered several selections, consisting of two popular songs, "The Battle Hymn of the Lord," and other hymns.

Their numbers met with the greatest approval from the men, who demanded an encore following the rendition of each number.

BLISS APPOINTED. [Canadian Press.] New York, July 12.—Cornelius N. Bliss will be the next treasurer of the Republican national committee. This was officially announced today at the headquarters of Charles E. Hughes.

Fatigue from Poisoned Blood

Sluggish action of the liver, kidneys and bowels leave impurities in the blood which are the cause of tired, languid feeling, headache, backache and bodily pains and aches.

By cleaning the action of these filtering and excretory organs, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills thoroughly cleanse the blood, purify the blood and cure such ailments as indigestion, biliousness, kidney derangements and constipation. 25 cts.

Montreal, July 12.—The provinces of Quebec and Ontario are being scourged by detectives looking for T. L. Leforest, paying teller of a branch of the Bank of Montreal, who last Friday afternoon, it is alleged, left the bank with $4,000 and disappeared with a young woman in an automobile.

Leforest was discovered to be $1,000 short in his accounts. He promised to explain it, and left the office ostensibly to go to a barber shop. Before doing so he is alleged to have put $4,000 in the teller's drawer in his pocket.

WEDDING BELLS

On Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock a quiet wedding was solemnized at the parsonage of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, when Kenneth Franklin Howell of London, was united in marriage to Edna Mae Stevenson of Toronto. They were unattended and at the close of the ceremony left on the evening train for Detroit and pointed out where they will spend their honeymoon.

HEAVY CONSUMPTION OF WATER RECORDED DURING HOT SPELL

6,000,000 Gallons Pumped Yesterday Is Report.

WASTAGE, SAYS MANAGER

May Cut Off Lawn Services If Present Drain Continues, He Declares.

Because of the scarcity of water steps must be taken by the utilities commission to increase the supply. Last evening the pressure throughout the city was abnormally low. The citizens had little use of lawn services. Water-driven elevators were practically stopped. Citizens having hydraulic pumps in their homes had no use of them as the pressure would not operate them. As a result complaints by the hundreds came to the newspaper offices.

Apparently the system is all right when there is plenty of wet weather. If a dry spell happens along, there is a lack of water.

General Manager E. V. Buchanan stated that more than 6,000,000 gallons of water were pumped yesterday, an average of 115 gallons per capita. "This is an extraordinarily large amount of water," said Mr. Buchanan. "There must be great wastage. If this dry spell continues we will have to cut off lawn services entirely. I can infer that the pressure, but that would only increase the wastage. I am convinced that this is the cause. People allow their lawn services to run all night, and tap water is left open continually."

He reported that an extra compressor would be in operation in a day or two, and would increase the flow of water. Of the 6,000,000 gallons used yesterday, 2,000,000 were from the wells and 4,000,000 from Springbank.

It was stated some months ago that there was not enough water to meet the demand of the city. One well was sunk on the Hunt Flats and yielded some water, but more wells or more springs are needed, it is claimed.

"We will go into the problem," said Mr. Buchanan. "We must have more water."

Weather experts say that the dry spell will soon be over, and conditions will then be improved.

LABOR GENERALLY IN DEMAND, SAYS GAZETTE

London Report for June Says Conditions Here Good.

In the Labor Gazette for June appears the following London report: Labor generally was in demand. All kinds of factories and foundries were very busy, advertisements appearing for men, the railroads were very busy also.

The city has commenced a large program of cement sidewalks, sewers, asphalt roadways, etc., and all available laborers and teams were being engaged in this work.

The building trades were an exception to general conditions, and although there was a little drop, indications for two or three months past, about 10 per cent of the workers in these trades have drifted into other occupations. Painters and paperhangers had more than they could do on housecleaning work.

On Friday, July 14, the great national holiday of the French Republic, an effort was made to collect $25,000 by a tax day in Toronto. The appeal has come to London too late for arrangements to be made for such a special effort.

A special appeal is made for food-stuffs, for clothing for boys and girls from 10 to 14 years of age, for substantial shoes, and also substantial underwear for women and children.

W. G. T. U. MEMBERS VISIT GIRLS' CAMP AT SPRINGBANK

Rest and Refresh Themselves in Cool Breezes and Are Grateful.

Members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of the city on Tuesday afternoon and evening found a few hours of rest in the dining hall in their escape from the intense heat in their camp for girls, Springbank.

Perched in a shady spot, high up the hill overlooking the river, across the footbridge from the pump house, the camp seemed to catch every straying breeze for the comfort of the visitors.

About twenty-five attended, and, rested and refreshed, discovered they had excellent appetites for the delicious picnic spread in the dining room tent. Lingered until the evening, the White Ribboners quite envied the group of girls privileged to stay all night and sleep in the portable house, a notable addition to the camp service and comfort this year.

Departing, the visitors left behind them most substantial evidences that they had called at the camp, in the shape of generous donations of bedding, cleaned goods and groceries of every description.

Though the camp was only opened for the season this week, already it filled up its sleeping capacity with girls, who are able to continue their work in the city while enjoying an outing in the country. The privilege of spending two weeks at the camp is accorded any girl in the city, provided she speaks in time to secure accommodation. Mrs. Harrison is again in charge this year.

APPEAL BEING MADE LOCALLY FOR AID TO FRENCH SUFFERERS

Secours National Asks London to Help.

NEED MOST APPARENT

Heroic France Caring For Serbian and Belgian Refugees As Well As Own.

A most urgent appeal for assistance for the war sufferers in France has come to the Women's Canadian Club from Mrs. W. A. Johnstone, secretary of the Secours National, Toronto, the official agency in Canada for the forwarding of relief to France.

In the letter sent, Mrs. Johnstone refers to the heroic conduct of the French people and the want and distress arising from the loss of a large part of the most productive section of their country by the enemy. "Realize the want and distress which the French are suffering," she declares.

The meeting last night was the climax of a publicity campaign waged in the city, and to receive an extension throughout No. 1 Military District, in the past few months by the Women's Emergency Corps. The finest speakers in the city were secured, and Mrs. H. A. Cunningham of Toronto, recognized as one of Canada's most able women, and closely in touch with the emergency staff of the Secours National, presided.

Inaugurated with the entire sanction and approval of the headquarters staff of No. 1 Military District the Women's Emergency Corps had a still further manifestation of their sympathy in the presence of Col. L. H. Shannon, O.C., and Lieut.-Col. W. A. McCrimmon, former conveying the greetings of the emergency staff of the corps and to the distinguished speakers.

"I have come tonight," said Col. Shannon, because of my interest in the corps and because I am not well enough posted on the work of the Women's Emergency Corps. I know that a man's business is at the present time, the prosecution of the war, and the Canadian soldiers."

William Egerton of Toledo, for many years a printer in London, is visiting with his brother, Peter, at the hotel. He was recently very dangerously ill, but is greatly improved.

The Misses Hild of 12 Byron avenue, left today on a two months' trip to Winnipeg, Calgary and other western points.

W. H. Hewlett, Miss. Bae, of Hamilton, who is well known in London, is returning east after a trip to Victoria Friday evening of this week, he is carrying the proceeds of a public organ recital, the proceeds of which will go to the Regina Babies' Welfare Fund.

Edward Jones of the Canadian inspection service, Galt, has returned home after a ten-days' visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, 353 Horton street. His wife and baby son, who accompanied him to London, are remaining for a longer visit with his parents. During the visit of Edward Jones, a "four generation" photograph was taken, including baby Jack Edward Jones, his father, Edward Jones, his grandfather, John Jones and his grandmother, Henry Jones, Grey street.

Benjamin Gilbert, Russell Gilbert and George Gilbert, Maple street, with James MacDonald of the Bank of Toronto staff, left yesterday on a motor trip through New York State and parts of New England. They will visit New York, Boston and Bridgeport, Conn.

Miss Vola MacDonald of the Guelph public school staff, is spending the holidays with her parents, Mr
