Victoria Wanderers Outplay the Garrison for the Association Football Championship.

Vancouver and Victoria Ladies Have an Exciting Hockey Game at Oak Bay.

The champion football match between the Wanderers and Garrison Athletics played at Macaulay Point yesterday afternoon resulted in another victory for the cup holders by 5 goals to 0. The game from a spectator's point of view was very uninteresting and was at times distinctly slow. It was a backs game owing to the grounds being extremely narrow and the ball out of bounds nearly half the time. The goals scored by the Wanderers were not gained by their usual pretty style of passing, but more by luck than excellence of play. The forwards of the Garrison team did not play up to their usual standard, and but for the excellent defense put up by the whole back field of their team, the score must have been much heavier. On the other hand, the Wanderer forwards were completely at sea with the narrow ground and could not get away from their heavier opponents. On one occasion only were the Garrison really dangerous, when they clustered round the goal when the Wanderers' goal-keeper had the ball in his hands, and they nearly succeeded in scoring. They did put the ball through the posts in the second half, but the goal was disallowed, Brown being decidedly off-side. A goodly number of spectators from town as well as from the Barracks and the Navy witnessed the game and cheered on their respective favorites, feeling running pretty high at times. The Wanderers journey to Nanaimo next Saturday to fulfil their engagement with the Nanaimo Rangers, who intend to give them a hot reception. The same team that played the Garrison Athletics will go up to the Coal City.

NAVY V. FIFTH REGIMENT.

A team from the Comus again met defeat at the hands of the Regiment in their return Rugby match yesterday afternoon. The game was at times very exciting. The first try was scored after a brilliant run by Scholfield, and converted by Haines, who shortly after grounded the pigskin again. Scholfield added the major points. On resuming play after half time the regiment rushed the ball up into the sailor's territory, and after a series of scrimmages Haines again scored. The try was not converted. Haines scored another try before time was called, leaving the regiment the victors by sixteen points to none.

HOCKEY.

THE LADY TEAMS AT OAK BAY.

The ladies of British Columbia have, following the lead of ladies in England, taken up hockey with much interest, and teams have been formed in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster. A match took place last Wednesday between the clubs of the last two named cities and Vancouver won by the narrow margin of one goal. There was therefore much interest taken in the match between the representatives of the capital and Vancouver which was played yesterday afternoon. When the teams lined up the stand must have held fully 1,000 spectators, a large majority of whom were of the fair sex. Vancouver played in black skirts and white blouses; Victoria in dark skirts and grey blouses, with red ties. The teams as they waited for the whistle presented a very pretty combination, though the Victoria colors were perhaps not conspicuous enough.

Punctually at 3 o'clock the teams faced each other. Vancouver having won the toss elected to play from the top end of the ground with the sun behind them. From the "bully off" the Vancouver right obtained possession and playing well together instituted a strong attack, which was well maintained until the home backs transferring play to the right wing the ball was gradually worked back, and give and take play ensued for several minutes. Miss Philpot regaining possession completed a grand run with a smart centre, which enabled Mrs. Burns to open the scoring for Vancouver ten minutes for the start. The Misses Philpot were again attacking vigorously and despite plucky attempts of the halves to repel them. Mrs. Burns worked well into the circle put in a hot shot which the goal keeper saved well, but Miss Philpot rushing up the ball was put through. Vancouver were now working well together and by short passing from the restart ran right through, Miss Boultbee notching a clever goal. Faulty play by the Victoria backs was taken every advantage of by Vancouver and three more goals were added before half time, all from the stick of Mrs. Burns. The players then retired to receive congratulations. On the resumption of play Victoria for the first time assumed the upper hand. Pretty play by the halves worked the ball to the right and Miss Christie put in some dashing runs on that side, giving the forwards good opportunities, but the Vancouver defence could not be penetrated. Once the ball was actually in their goal line, but it was forced back, and Miss Welsh, on the left, showed to great advantage. The visiting halves were several times hard pressed, but were always equal to the occasion. Vancouver were now tiring fast, and Miss Christie and Miss Robertson did much effective work. Fifteen minutes from the call of time a hot shot by the last named player was grandly saved by Miss Smith, after which the visiting right wing made several attacks, reaching the circle several times in good position. However, nothing came of it, and at the call of time Victoria were well in the visitor's half.

Considering that Vancouver has been playing all the season and Victoria has had but a fortnight's actual practice, much credit is due the losers for their plucky fight and they can be congratulated on the result as a whole. To keep the practiced players on the other side at bay during the whole of the second half was no light task. The winners gave a grand exhibition of hockey and the combination all through was perfect. All the forwards distinguished themselves, the right wing especially. The halves showed untiring energy and were well supported. The teams lined up as follows:

Victoria—Miss Gundin, goal; Miss Williams and Miss E. M. Dunsmuir, backs; Miss Goward, Miss E. Davie and Miss Worlock, half backs; Miss Robertson, centre; Miss Christie and Miss A. Dawson, right wing; Miss Patton and Mrs. Gooch (captain), left wing.

Vancouver—Miss Smith, back; Miss Taylor and Miss Bauer, backs; Miss Boult, Mrs. C. G. Johnson and Miss Sully (captain), half backs; Mrs. Burns, centre; Miss Philpot, Miss M. Philpot, right wing; Miss Welsh, Miss Boultbee, left wing.

Umpires—Messrs. F. G. Crickmay and W. I. K. Flinton.

The Vancouver ladies will take part in the practice at Oak Bay to-morrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

CRICKET.

PREPARING FOR THE SEASON.

Yesterday afternoon several members of the Albion Cricket club were busily engaged in rolling and preparing their grounds on Beacon Hill for the approaching season. Never before have their grounds given promise of being in such excellent condition, and work is to be vigorously prosecuted for the next two or three weeks, when regular practising will be commenced. Several players of good ability have lately joined the club and everything points to the club this year having its most successful on record.

WHIST.

RESULTS OF JAMES BAY SERIES.

The James Bay Athletic Association has closed its series of progressive whist competitions, which proved to be a great source of entertainment to its members during the winter months. On Thursday evening the prizes to the successful competitors were awarded, Mr. A. C. Anderson securing the first prize, an ebony cane; Mr. John Aden the second prize, a pair of gold cuff buttons; and Mr. W. Englehardt the consolation prize, a pipe, for the least number of games won. The James Bays may probably have one or two more whist matches with outside clubs before active rowing practice commences, but will engage in no more progressive games until after the summer months.

LACROSSE.

The annual meeting of the B. C. Amateur Lacrosse Association will be held in Victoria next Saturday.

W. L. Challoner yesterday received a letter from Mr. M Crady, foreman at the Victoria Texada mine, stating that a rich strike of free milling ore had been made in the shaft. No further particulars were given, but as Mr. McCrady referred to some exceedingly rich samples from the Kirk Lake mine on Texada island, now in Mr. Challoner's possession, it is supposed that the strike is something out of the ordinary.

Our I's and....
....Other Eyes.

Our I's are just as strong as they were fifty years ago, when we have cause to use them. But we have less and less cause to praise ourselves, since others do the praising, and we are more than willing for you to see us through other eyes. This is how we look to S. F. Boyce, wholesale and retail druggist, Duluth, Minn, who after a quarter of a century of observation writes:

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than 25 years, both at wholesale and retail, and have never heard anything but words of praise from my customers; not a single complaint has ever reached me. I believe Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be the best blood purifier, that has been introduced to the general public." This, from a man who has sold thousands of dozens of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, is strong testimony. But it only echoes popular sentiment the world over, which has,

"Nothing but words of praise for Ayer's Sarsaparilla."

A VICTIM TO ASTHMA

HAD NOT SLEPT IN BED FOR TWENTY-FIVE YEARS.

Seemed Doomed to Torture and Continual Misery—Father, Grandfather and Great Grandfather Had Died of the Trouble—Release Comes in Old Age—The Cure Looked Upon as a Miracle.

(From the Whitby Chronicle.)

For years stories of famous cures wrought by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have appeared in the Chronicle. During this time we have been casting about for a local case of such a nature as to leave no doubt of the efficiency of these pills. We have found several, but in each case it proved to be a sensitive body who could not bear to have his or her name and disease made public. Recently, however, a most striking case came to our ears.

Mr. Solomon Thompson lives on a beautiful farm on the west shore of Mud Lake in Carden township, North Victoria. He has resided there for forty years, being the first settler around the lake. He was receive of Carden and Dalton townships thirty-five years ago, before the counties of Peterboro and Victoria were separated, and he used to attend the counties' council at Peterboro. Mr. Thompson has been a victim of asthma for forty years or more. However we will let him tell his own story on this head.

On October, 15th, 1896, we took a trip to Mud Lake to visit the haunts long familiar to us, and make it a duty and found it a pleasure to call upon Mr. Thompson and learn from seeing him and hearing his account of it how he had been cured. For twenty-five years we had known him as a gasping, suffering asthmatic, the worst we ever knew who managed to live at all. We often wondered how he lived from day to day. On calling he met us with a cheerful aspect and without displaying a trace of his old trouble. Being at once ushered into his house, we naturally made it our first business to enquire if it were all true about the benefits he had received from using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. "Beyond doubt," said he. "How long have you used them, and how many boxes have you used?" he was asked. "I started a year ago and took eight boxes." We next asked him if he felt that the cure was permanent. "Well," said he, "I have not taken any of the pills for three or four months. Still I am not entirely satisfied yet. You see my father, grandfather and great grandfather died of asthma. My people all take it sooner or later and it always ends their days. I have lost three brothers from the fatal thing. Knowing my family history it is hard for me to gain faith, but I can tell you for nearly thirty years I never slept in bed until I took Pink Pills. As you must know I always slept sitting in the chair you now occupy, I had a sling from that hook in the ceiling and always sat with my head resting in it while I slept. I now retire to my bed when the other members of my family do." "How old are you, Mr. Thompson?" "Seventy-six," was the reply, "and I feel younger than I did thirty years ago. I was troubled a great deal with rheumatism and other miseries, probably nervous troubles arising from want of sleep, but nearly all the rheumatism is gone with the asthma."

During the conversation Mrs. Thompson, a hale old lady, the mother of thirteen children came in and after listening to her husband's recital of these matters, she took up the theme. "I never expected that anything could cure Solomon," said she. "We were always trying to find something which would give him relief, so that he would be able to sleep nights, but nothing ever seemed to make much difference. At first he took one of the pills after each meal, but after a time he increased the dose to two. We noticed he was greatly improved after taking two boxes and began to have hopes. Later on when we saw beyond doubt that he was much better, I recommended the pills to a niece of mine, Miss Day, whose blood had apparently turned into water and who had run down in health and spirits so bad that she did not care to live. Why, she got as yellow as saffron and looked as if she would not live a week. You would hardly believe it," said Mrs. Thompson, "but that girl was the healthiest and handsomest girl in the neighborhood before three months had passed, and all from taking Pink Pills." Mrs. Thompson was called from the room at this juncture to attend to some household duties, and Mr. Thompson resumed the subject of his marvellous cure. "You can have no idea," said he, "what it is to go through twenty-five years without a good night's sleep with out pain. I can find no words to make plain to you the contrast between the comforts I now enjoy and the awful life I had for so long. I had a big family of mouths to feed and had to work when at times I felt more like lying down to die. I would come in at night completely tuckered out, but even that was no guarantee of rest. There was no rest for me. I seemed doomed to torture and continual misery. When my folks urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills I thought it would be useless, but I had to do something or die soon, and here I am as right as a fiddle" The old gentleman shook his head to add emphasis to his last sentence, and looked like a man who felt joyful over a new lease of life, with all his old miseries removed.

After congratulating our old friend on his divorce from the hereditary destroyer of his kindred, we drove away. At many places in the neighborhood we opened discussions upon the case and found that all regarded it as a marvellous cure. Where the Thompson family are known, no person would have believed for a moment that anything but death would relieve him from the grip of asthma. Every word that is written here can be verified by writing Mr. Solomon Thompson, Dalrymple post office, and an intimate acquaintance of twenty-five years enables the writer to vouch for the facts narrated above, and for the veracity of Mr. Thompson in any statement he may make.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure by going to the root of the disease. They renew and build up the blood, and strengthen the nerves, thus driving disease from the system. Avoid imitations by insisting that every box you purchase is enclosed in a wrapping bearing the full trade mark, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

The report published in several Kootenay papers to the effect that Mr. J. F. Hume, M.P.P., had stated that he would resign, was declared by that gentleman last night to be without foundation.

The quarterly general meeting of the British Columbia Board of Trade will be held on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. One of the subjects which will be discussed is the extensive and rapidly growing trade of the Yukon country. Although many of the rich mines are in Canadian territory the trade is controlled by Americans, and it is now desired to devise means whereby this trade can be diverted. More than a year since the board urged that this country should be under the jurisdiction of the local government instead of, as now, subject to the government of the Northwest Territories. A very interesting discussion is expected, and it is hoped that there will be a large attendance of members. The institution continues to flourish, and the secretary has in hand several applications for membership which will be disposed of on Friday next. The up-to-date offices and central position of the Board of Trade building appear to be recognized. Only a few suites of offices remain to let.

CAME THE WRONG WAY

An Australian Embezzler Caught on the "Warrimoo" by the Provincial Police.

He Confesses His Guilt and Will Waive the Formality of Extradition.

Shortly after the Canadian-Australian steamship Warrimoo tied up at the outer wharf yesterday morning one of her passengers, who boarded the vessel at Melbourne, was placed under arrest by the provincial police on information cabled a few days ago to Lieut.-Governor Dewdney from the Governor of Queensland. Special Constable Atkins had been detailed to look for the ship since Thursday night and it had been arranged that he should meet her on the pilot sloop Helen. The pilot boat sighted the steamer rounding the Race at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, and pulling with the pilot from William Head, where the Helen lay, the constable anticipated "gathering in" his man in quick order. Expectations, however, were frustrated by the vessel not noticing the pilot's signals and coming on to port about a mile and a half to the eastward. There was yet a chance left for the officer of the law, and hurrying back to William Head he was in time to "catch" the quarantine steamer Earle, bound in. At the wharf the Warrimoo had already tied up, and the passengers were rapidly disembarking. She had, however, been met at the wharf by Provincial Constable Beaven, but at first the man wanted could not be placed. Atkins stayed aboard the vessel for a couple of hours and eventually spotted his man, having been told by Purser Young, Captain White and the doctor of the ship that this particular man was the only passenger of whom they did not know something.

At the last moment he had taken passage on the Warrimoo at Melbourne under the name of Frank Bruce, but when questioned by the police he denied that he was the man wanted and said that he had resided continuously at Melbourne for the past two years. The purser in a way seemed to verify this statement. As Bruce was the only man on board the Warrimoo who seemed to answer the description given, Constable Atkins telephoned to Superintendent Hussey for instructions and Officer McKenna was at once sent to the outer wharf to again question the purser and arrest Bruce, unless the officers of the ship could vouch for him. The purser and others refused to do this and Bruce was brought before Supt. Hussey, who after explaining his position asked Bruce to account for himself and give the names of his former employers. Bruce strongly protested that he was innocent, but his manner and actions were suspicious. He began to give a list of his employers and the length of time he had worked for each in order that they might be telegraphed to by the police, but he finally found it was almost impossible to do this in a satisfactory manner and got badly confused. He saw his difficulty and at last said:

"It is no use; I am the man you want, and it won't take you many hours to satisfy yourself on this point."

The accused was afterwards taken before Magistrate Macrae and formally charged, on the information of Superintendent Hussey, with having on or about the 1st day of March, 1897, at Charters Towers, in Queensland, Australia, stolen the sum of £1,000, the property of the Bank of Australasia at Charters Towers. He admitted the charge and expressed a desire to waive extradition proceedings and return on the Warrimoo. He has been remanded for one week and the Australian authorities have been communicated with to this effect. A large quantity of the stolen money was found on his person and amongst his effects.

The proper name of the accused is Charles Thomas Hay Adair, and he is a native of Victoria, Australia. He is 28 years of age and had on the voyage here grown quite a beard, which to the police had helped to disguise his identity. If his capture had not been effected here Bruce says he would have continued on his trip to London, Eng.

TONS OF BULLION.

Schooner "Aurora" Fitted Out by Victorians to Search for Long Hidden Wealth.

The Treasure That the Peruvians Secreted in Time of War.

A dispatch to yesterday's Seattle Post-Intelligencer states that a number of Victorians were to have taken their departure for Cocos island yesterday, in search of long-hidden treasure. The story as published has some foundation, but the treasure lies not in the locality supposed, but in an entirely different place. Many expeditions have set out for Cocos island in the search, but failure has been the result, for the good reason, according to the men who are now on the scent, that the treasure was not on that island at all. In search of this island somewhere in the Southern Pacific, the schooner Aurora, Captain Fred. Hackett, leaves port very shortly on an expedition that, if successful, will be one of the most extraordinary voyages of the century. Certainly it will be the most remunerative, and in point of curiosity should awake a world-wide interest. But it is just this that the promoters of the queerest exploit on record—some half-dozen prominent Victorians and a Cape Breton woman—have been studiously endeavoring to avoid.

Down at Spratt's wharf the Aurora has been fitting out for an extended cruise for some weeks past, and despite the strictest secrecy maintained regarding the vessel's intended movements, water-front frequenters have learned, in part at least, the story of her venture. A few months ago the Aurora was secured for the mission. She was placed on Turpel's ways, and was thoroughly overhauled and considerably altered. Provision was made in the new arrangements for one or two passengers; machinery was placed in the vessel, and three small-sized guns were put in position on deck. Everything was put in thoroughly first class shape and when the work was completed the craft bore little of her former sealing appearance. She is a 40-ton craft and for years has accompanied the Victoria sealing fleet along the coast and to the Behring sea. The history connected with her present trip is romantic and dates back sixty years ago when the Chilians and Peruvians were at war with one another and when piracy on the high seas was a common practice. The trouble between the two South American republics ended, in so far as the story is concerned, in the port of Lima. Here the Peruvian capital was then as now situated and an armed fortress guarded over the nation's treasure against the onslaught of the Southern Cross. One night the Peruvians, fearing that their only stronghold would fall into the hands of the Chilians, transferred all their treasure to a British merchantman, the Mary Dear, which happened into port, and prayed the English captain to protect it. The captain, deeming it his wisest plan to hide it, accordingly sailed out of port, and going to this island, stored the treasure away where no one to this day, except a Captain Kayton, has ever discovered it. Kayton was then a boy of but 18 years, and was one of the only two survivors left of the Mary Dear's crew. The brigantine had been captured on her return to Peru by a Chilean man-of-war, and her crew, with the exception of these two, cruelly murdered. Kayton and the other sailor were to have met a similar fate if they did not disclose the place where the brigantine had visited. How accurately they did this is not stated, but at any rate they were taken aboard the Chilean ship and brought to Panama. They remained prisoners for several weeks and exposed to a ravaging fever, which carried off many of the crew, and to which eventually Kayton's companions succumbed.

When in port for some time Kayton's chance for escape came. He jumped overboard one night, and swimming over to an outgoing whaling vessel, was taken aboard, and subsequently found his way to Newfoundland. Here he fitted out an expedition in later years, and set sail on the brig Water Witch for the treasure island. The trip, however, was only a partial success as the crew mutinied. On reaching the island they wanted to go in force to the scene of wealth but Kayton would not allow this. After getting $25,000 of the gold he satisfied himself and in some way pacified his sailors. He returned then to St. John, Newfoundland, and went into business, erected several brick buildings and for long lived well. But his money gradually slipped away from him and finally he moved to Cape Breton a comparatively poor man. He died about five years ago, leaving as a widow his third wife, who is at present a Mrs. Brannan. This lady, who is now in the city, will accompany the expedition South, and has, it is understood, furnished Captain Hackett a chart and the exact direction as to the course he shall take. Captain Hackett has also a paper eighteen years old giving Kayton's confession of the hidden wealth. Long after he had made his second visit to the island Kayton regretted not having taken with him a sword, whose hilt was studded with jewels and precious stone, and his excuse for not taking it was because he was unable to conceal it on his person while conveying it aboard the Water Witch. He endeavored to break the hilt off, but the sword was of too good material and resisted all such efforts. He placed the weight of the hidden property at 40 tons, an amount which if procured should load the Aurora down to her water line. The Aurors will be gone from port probably six months. Her principal officers will be: Captain, Fred Hackett; first lieutenant, Captain Whidden; second lieutenant, Captain McDougall; and chief engineer, Captain Fred McDougall—all well-known and trusted sealing men.

Several attempts have been made by different expeditions to recover the treasure the Aurora goes in search of, but none, it is said, have ever accomplished anything.

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Came to the Rescue and Delivery of Mankind Stopping Forever the Deadly Assaults of Life's Most Insidious Foe.

Men are dropping from the ranks everywhere. Cut down in the flower of youth or the fruitage of manhood by that ruthless destroyer—Bright's Disease of the Kidneys.

Only a few days ago Sir Hercules Robinson, the doughty Governor of Cape Colony, was forced to resign that post because of encroaching Bright's Disease.

Hardly had his successor been appointed when the wires brought tidings of the death of William P. St. John, a New York banker, and remembered by everyone as the treasurer of the National Democratic party during the latest national campaign. Bright's Disease carried him off.

It has killed many better men than most of us. So has Diabetes, its twin curse. Yet there is one cure (and only one), that never fails in cases of Diabetes and Bright's Disease. Let these testimonials bear witness:

Mr. Fred Carstens, Palmerston, Ont., says:—"After many years suffering with Bright's Disease, I am a new man, cured by using three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Mr. F. X. Groulx, Ottawa, Ont., says:—"Dodd's Kidney Pills have been a godsend to me as they have cured me of Bright's Disease of the Kidneys."

S. G. Moore, King St., London, Ont., says: "After taking a few boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills I am as well as ever in my life, despairing of recovery from Bright's Disease."

Mr. Chas. T. Bye, Garryowen, P.O., Ont., says: "For the past three years have suffered of Diabetes, but noticing cures published I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills which have perfectly cured me."

DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS are for sale by druggists everywhere, and by the Dodd's Medicine Co., Toronto, Ont. Price 50 cents a box.

40 YEARS THE STANDARD.

ROBERT WHITE was buried from his late residence, Richardson street, yesterday, the funeral service taking place at St. Andrew's cathedral, where Rev. Father Althoff officiated. The pallbearers were: Messrs. J. B. McKilligan, Riley, Charles Rattray, M. Batterel, Mr. Worsfold and W. S. Chambers.

Rev. D. MacRee and Mrs. MacRae, of St. Paul's church, Victoria West, who have been on a visit of several months to Ontario and Quebec, returned home by Friday evening's steamer. They were met at the wharf and extended a cordial welcome home by a large representation of the members of the church, and were afterwards joined by others at the manse, who by replacing old carpets by new ones, providing supper, and in other ways made the home-coming an occasion of genuine pleasure as well as surprise.

Many old timers attended at the Roman Catholic cathedral yesterday morning to pay their last respects to the late James Murray, whose death occured on Wednesday. The funeral service was rendered still more impressive by the fact that the coffin containing the grandfather was accompanied by a tiny one, enclosing the body of his little grand-daughter, Helen Mildred Brown, aged 5 years. The double funeral left the residence of Mr. Frank Murray, 157 Vancouver street, at 9:30 a.m., and at the cathedral at 10 a. m. the Rev. Father Althoff read the burial service, Rev. Father Nicolaye celebrating mass. The little child and its grandparent were buried in the same grave, the floral offerings being exceedingly numerous, the hearse being literally covered with choice wreaths and bouquets. The pallbearers for the grandfather were: Messrs. T. Burnes, George Jay, L. G. McQuade, Ald. Vigelius, William Bryce and Mr. McTiernan, while the following company of boys acted as pallbearers for the little child: L. Keefe, W. H. Sweeny, L. Sweeny, M. Conlin, jr., R. Lowe and E. Townsley.
