

and lady Dudley, with three or four more of the party, were easily induced to accompany them. Sir Edward and lady Turner, with part of the company, retired to the Priory; and the remainder staid with lord and lady Durham, at Durham Park.

Lady Grenville was much pleased with Grenville Abbey, and great reason had the tenantry to hail the happy day that introduced her there, as its mistress. Every appearance of distress soon vanished from the vicinity, and all were encouraged to neatness and industry, by the rewards granted by its generous mistress, to them who excelled in these useful qualifications.

In December our party assembled in London, where they spent the winter, and then each family returned to their respective mansion.

For many years they all met together, every summer, until their growing families precluded such frequent intercourse. Their principal care was then to form the minds of their offspring to virtue and religion, and a firm reliance on that Power, who had borne them safe through such imminent dangers, and vicissitudes of fortune; and they who had tasted so deeply of the bitter cup of adversity, now enjoy with a higher relish, the blessings of prosperity.
