

DEW DROPS

VOL. IV.

TORONTO, MAY 5, 1900.

No. 18.

THE NAUGHTY PUSSY-CAT.

This pussy-cat has been up in one of the tall trees on grandpa's farm, up a tree where some crows have built their nests. Pussy found some little baby crows, and being very hungry ate one up. The cries of the rest of the baby crows brought the big crows flying home, and pussy had to run for her life. The birds pecked her fur and flew round her crying and making such a noise that she was glad to go to the house, where her mistress, Margery, scolded her.