The opening selection was "The march of Tannehäuser," after which Mr. Vogt spoke a few words relative to Wagner's great power and genius in writing operatic music. Then followed "The Evening Star," the "Introduction to Third Act of Lohengrin," "Elsas Brantzüg," and "Elsas Franne." In all it was a most enjoyable hour. It is understood that Mr. Vogt was requested to give lectures of this kind at some future time on other great composers, to which he consented, so that we may anticipate another treat in the dim future.

WOODSTOCK COLLEGE.

PROFESSOR CAMPBELL, of McMaster University, will lecture on Friday, 13th inst., on "The Religious Thoughts of the Ancient Greeks." This lecture has been highly praised by the McMaster boys, and we are looking forward to it with pleasure.

REV. O. C. S. WALLACE, M.A., the popular pastor of the Bloor Street church, Toronto, visited Woodstock recently and gave a most interesting lecture to the Young People's Union, in the Baptist church. His subject, "Dust," was ingeniously and skilfully handled and made a strong impression. His visit to the College next morning was scarcely less appreciated by the students. Mr. Wallace has the happy faculty of winning his way very speedily. We shall be glad to welcome him back to the College whenever he can visit us.

MR. ROBERTSON, mathematical master, who has for some weeks been at Clifton Springs, N.Y., in search of health, has, we are pleased to say, been much benefited. Mr. Robertson is a most conscientious and successful teacher, and his present sickness is no doubt in some measure due to the severe demands of his work, and to his earnest efforts to discharge fully his duties. We welcome every indication of returning health.

Our new teacher Mr. Stillwell, continues to grow in favor; there is a kind gentleness in his manner which wins, a quiet dignity which rules. Woodstock is surely fortunate in having such a man ready to fill a vacancy, and surely McMaster is to be congratulated upon having such men ready to supply us.

LAST Saturday morning, the first of a series of conferences was held in one of the class rooms. The aim is to exchange thoughts and receive advice and counsel upon matters pertaining to our work upon mission fields in the summer. The first meeting was led by Mr. Stillwell, and was highly profitable. We expect to reap great benefit from these weekly meetings, and, in the absence of any purely theological training here, must be very helpful. Students having the ministry in view have often felt the too heavy responsibility of assuming the pasto-
