THE EVOLUTION OF THEOLOGY.

REV. PROF. CAMPBELL, LL.D.

This subject deals with the entire history of the relation of the human mind to the invisible or spiritual world. It embraces every stage of human thought, from the most superstitious animism or fetishism to the loftiest conception of Divinity, founded upon the purest and most incontestable revelation of the unseen, the varying science which underlies natural and revealed religion.

The scope of the subject is so vast, extending to all the relations of Divinity with the cosmos, or world, in creation and external redemption, and with human and other spirits, good and evil, that he would be most unwise, who, in the brief space of an essay, should venture to more than attempt a mere introduction to it.
