THE ROMANCE OF WATER POWER. It is the aim of this book to tell of Water Power in plain terms and simple pictures, without distressing the lay reader with scientific or technical matter.

ROMANCE OF LONDON'S UNDERGROUND. Besides the intensely absorbing chapters devoted to the history of this gigantic enterprise, there is a clear description of the underground to-day.

THE ROMANCE OF ELECTRICITY. Electricity is one of the greatest powers in modern life, and the author sees the great fascination of the "story" behind power stations and transmission lines.

THE ATLANTIC FERRY IN THE TWENTIETH CENTURY.
The romance of the giant ships which sail across the Atlantic Ocean, an ideal book for the ship-lover.

CAPTAIN E. G. DIGGLE, R.D., R.N.R.

THE ROMANCE OF A MODERN LINER. A wonderfully fine book which tells of the life of a great liner from the time it is planned till it goes to sea.

THE BOOK OF THE SHIP. The author deals with the clippers and the great days of sail ; the coming of steam, and the development of warships and merchant ships, great and small.

THE ROMANCE OF THE SUBMARINE. It is a picturesquely written and keenly interesting account of the history of the submarine.
