

conviction that our ancient race, rich in its traditions, mighty in its faith, its spring-time ever renewed with the dew of youth, may be instrumental in building up an Imperial Commonwealth, into which men of many nations may come, forerunner of that still vaster Imperialism, which knows no boundaries save those of Humanity, and no monarch save One, whose diadem is a crown of thorns !