CHARGES GOVT. HELPED RIOTERS TO GET ARMS

Griffith Says Government Servants in Plans For Londonderry Trouble.

DUBLIN, June 24.—Arthur Griffith, vice-president of the Sinn Féin organization, having charged that the Londonderry riots were planned in collusion with Government servants, and that Carsonite volunteers were given facilities to send arms to Londonderry, and were provided with money for this purpose. Griffith's charges.

The contradiction declared that the Irish Government had no reason to believe that any servant of the Government had assisted either section to the controversy to obtain arms, and that if such were the case the Government would deal with the offenders with the utmost severity.

OIL BARGE BLOWS UP; MAN ENVELOPED IN FLAMES IS DROWNED

Collyer Carroll, Returned Soldier, Jumps Into River Following Explosion.

SARNIA, June 24.—Collyer Carroll, a returned soldier, aged 24, is dead as a result of the blowing up tonight of the oil barge Calbert, owned by the Canadian Oil Company, Limited, from some unknown cause.

The barge was moored at Frome-field on the St. Clair River, south of this city, and was being unloaded when the explosion took place, between 6 and 7 p.m. Immediately following the explosion Carroll, who was on the deck of the barge at the time, was seen to be enveloped in the flames, his oil-soaked clothing having ignited instantly from the blaze which followed the blow-up. He was seen to throw himself into the water, but his body did not reappear, nor has any trace of it been found. It is believed that Carroll could swim.

HELENE'S MARRIED LIFE

BY MAY CHRISTIE
Copyright, 1920, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate
CVII.—Word From Alice.

There are times and recollections that are too beautiful to write about. And so I shall not dwell upon the topic of our second honeymoon.

I heard nothing of Alice, her false friend Tony, or her country neighbor, Travis Lloyd. At times I felt curiously guilty over my neglect of Alice, considering the promise I had given her husband.

But on one's honeymoon, one is excused for sins of omission, surely. Besides, I was afraid of meeting Alice. I was frightened of the revelations she might make. Knowing her intensely inquisitive disposition, I felt certain she would follow up the track of my previous marriage, until she'd sifted the whole thing to the very bottom.

Before meeting Alice, then, I must tell the truth to Jim. I must wake up that sleeping memory of his.

But, desperately, I wanted recollection to come back to him without my help. As each day brought new strength, surely the mind, too, would be strengthened; so that the few weeks before his accident would be revealed again to him.

Sometimes I skirted round the edge of the idea, timidly. For instance: "Jim," I said once, "didn't you tell me that I reminded you of some girl you once knew?"

He gave a happy laugh. He leaned back in his chair, and blew a ring of smoke up to the ceiling.

"Poof! That old idea!" He smiled at me. "As though I could possibly compare you now to any other girl, Helene."

Each time I broached the subject Jim dismissed it with a wave of his hand.

"There isn't room in my life for any other girl, dear heart!" And for the time being, that sufficed me.

On the ninth morning after our wedding day, I had a note from Alice. It was a conciliatory little note, intending to be friendly. She apologized for her rudeness in the park. She hadn't meant to annoy us, Jim and me—but it was Tony's fault. Tony had assured her that I had made a secret marriage some months previously. She'd seen him that very morning, and got the news, and her mind had been full of it when she was in the park.

Therefore, running into the subject of her thoughts, she couldn't keep silent. Her curiosity had got the better of her. Would I forgive her, please?

I smiled over Alice's effusion. It was so typical of her.

In a postscript, she informed me that Tony had given her back her diamond bracelet, and they were friends once more.

"You and I are always misjudging the poor boy," she wrote. "He's not such a very black sheep, after all."

I folded up Alice's epistle and put it back into its envelope. "Pervertently I trusted that Jim wouldn't ask its contents, or demand to see it. There are husbands of the prying sort, I know. But my Jim wasn't one of them, thank heaven!"

Two days later, we were sitting on the porch of the cottage, awaiting the arrival of the evening paper, and watching an adorable sunset. The troubles of life seemed very far away.

Tomorrow—Bad News.

LLOYD GEORGE GIVES PROMISE OF REFORM IN HOUSE OF LORDS

LONDON, June 24.—(Canadian Associated Press).—Premier Lloyd George, answering questions in the House of Commons today, said the Government intended to undertake the reform of the House of Lords during the present parliament.

Germany would be invited to join the League of Nations when she showed a desire to fulfill the peace treaty obligations.

Several questions regarding the fate of the Kaiser were put, and to one of the Kaiser's questions, the premier replied: "Your friend is not safe yet."

In a brisk debate in supply on the vote for the transport ministry, one of the departments was most persistently condemned for extravagance. New points of attack were developed, special criticism being levelled at the high salaries of the staff, but Sir Eric Geddes put up a vigorous defence and the vote was always safe.

A written answer to parliamentary questions available today show that 210 officials in government departments are receiving £2,000 a year or over, and of these the transport ministry has sixteen, and the foreign office two.

Winnipeg, June 25.—One quarter of a million dollars has been collected in luxury taxes for the first 27 days since the act became operative by T. H. Verrier, local collector of internal revenue for Manitoba and part of Western Ontario.

SUMMER COTTAGE BURNED.

SARNIA, June 24.—The residence of Robert Tice, Huron Beach, was totally destroyed by fire today. The fire was caused, it is stated, by an overheated oil stove.

HIT BY RADIAL CAR.

BRANTFORD, June 24.—Angus Showers, 55 years of age and partly deaf, was struck by a southbound Lake Erie and Northern Radial car shortly before 4 o'clock this afternoon and sustained several broken ribs and underlying internal injuries. Showers, who lives at 82 Spring street, it is said, did not hear the car approaching.

For a "Great" Vacation try the Great Lakes Trip by Canadian Pacific Steamer

FOR when the mercury is playing around in the upper eighties, and you wish Henry Ford would invent a self-refrigerating collar, do you ever stop to remember that the temperature of Lake Superior never rises above 40 degrees? What if you don't spare the time for a long holiday? The Canadian Pacific Railway's Clyde-built steamships make a five-day trip from Port McNicoll to Port William and back, during which you can be as cool as an Eskimo and as comfortable as a clubman.

Roomy cabins, the best of chefs—oh, those broiled Lake Superior whitefish!—tea on deck under the lazy swaying sea-gulls against the long, northern sunset—and a breeze from a thousand miles of clean pine woods, on duty twenty-four hours in the day.

Then—if you find you've got more time than you counted on—how about a week on the Nipigon River, forty miles from Port William, with guides, canoes, and camp fires and white water under the moon—and more speckled trout than you know what to do with?

How do you get there? That's easy. Phone, write, or see any Canadian Pacific Ticket Agent; or
