

LET CATHEDRAL BECOME MEMORIAL

Continued From Page 1.

appreciated and maligned until after his death. When his work has been recognized, the blurred and dimmed by the dust of the conflict of this world.

In the rectory of Milan Cathedral the last supper painted by Leonardo da Vinci is dim with four centuries of age. It had been reproduced and been the inspiration both to painters and thousands. The influence of that great painter grows greater with the lapse of time.

It might be that the death of their beloved archbishop and dean would put an end to the petty, discordant, party differences and differences which had cast a shadow over the life of the archbishop's life with the cathedral scheme for the diocese of Toronto. This shadow contributed to his loss of calm and strength. It was a disappointment which was breaking his heart, but he stood by the scheme for a true cathedral for the diocese when many would have given it up, with a Christian's faith and an Englishman's pluck. With what result time would show.

When Mozart wrote his matchless requiem the composer said that his work was done and with a smile upon his face passed away.

Toronto was mourning the death of two great citizens. Their life work was widely divided, but many would be inspired by the example of their lives. One was the highest ecclesiastic whose life was a high light on the altar of the church. The other a layman whose work was in the world of finance, but whose last thoughts were for the welfare of others.

Looking back to that last scene in St. Alban's Cathedral on Wednesday afternoon all that was mortal of the archbishop, the promise seemed to have been repeated to "Arthur Toronto." "My presence shall go with thee, and I will give thee rest."

Memorial services to children. At the children's memorial service at St. Alban's yesterday afternoon, Rev. Archdeacon Warren spoke from the words: "Well done, good and faithful servant, St. Matthew, xxv, 21. A week ago at noon the archbishop often been away attending the Lambeth Conference in England, and had always returned back to Toronto, but now he had taken a different kind of a departure. This time it was the departure of the heart of his soul."

It was said by some that children should not be preached to regarding death. This was not true. Children were able to understand its significance. The late archbishop, the truest and best venerated by his following his example of Christian conduct. They would be able to meet their life's end with the same calm courage that he had manifested.

It was remarkable how many different people were affected by the archbishop's death. The clergy and the communicants who had been ordained or confirmed by him felt the loss as a personal sorrow, such as his own. The archbishop's death was mourned by the church throughout the Dominion, as a sad and a personal sorrow. His life had exalted the ministry in the public mind, and no one would think of speaking sneeringly of the calling where the archbishop's memory dwelt.

As the young grew older they saw that play, dress and the outward appearance of things were unimportant. As a faithful servant of Christ the archbishop had left as his family's memory that of a character which would be an inspiration to all and righteous lives.

Rev. Canon Macnab said that a gentleman to whom the archbishop and the church were very dear had arranged for each member of the Sunday school, from the very youngest, to receive a portrait of the late archbishop next Sunday. He believed every one would appreciate this gift, and that the portraits would be an inspiration to them in their future lives.

At St. James' Cathedral. Solemn and impressive were the memorial services held at St. James' cathedral yesterday morning when many tributes to the late archbishop were made by Canon Welch.

The text was chosen from the 30th chapter of St. Luke's gospel and part of the 35th verse, "All Live Unto Him."

"Last week," said the speaker, "I have closed over one to whom we all and the great friend to everyone. Since May 1, 1872 when he was solemnly consecrated to the high office which he laid down only a week ago he had tried on a great work and some of you may remember the bitter conflict that has now seen the two parties work harmoniously together, which condition would have been impossible 20 years ago."

Referring to the character of the late archbishop, Canon Welch said in part: "Those who have been in close touch with his life knew his life had been a pathetic struggle against increasing weakness, but he had always shown himself a modest, unobtrusive, unassuming Christian gentleman. Personally since first meeting him 14 years ago I have received from him nothing but kindness."

"No one knows how bitter was his disappointment in not having seen St. Alban's Cathedral completed. The great concourse of people at the funeral showed the respect held for him in the diocese and as we turned away from the grave we felt it closing over a life that had been faithful to his master and his church. He is not dead, however, but living unto God." The canon went on to speak of the activities of men in this life and expressed a belief that even beyond the grave man continued to grow in the knowledge of God.

The anthems sung at the service were Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" by Albert Hall, "Blessed is the Man" by the Laborer's Task is Over, "On the Resurrection Morn" and "God of the Living."

At St. Paul's. Rev. Canon Cody at the morning service in St. Paul's Church, paid an eloquent tribute to the life and work of the late Archbishop Sweatman. Speaking from the text, "Blessed is the Son of Man come not to be ministered unto, but to minister," (Matt. xx, 28), he said it is not those who have the most services who are the greatest, but those who give the most service. The greatness of the Kingdom of Christ is the greatness of service, and everyone who calls himself a Christian will be tried in point of greatness by this test.

After referring to the external incidents in Archbishop Sweatman's life, Canon Cody said of his personal character that many a one can bear eloquent testimony. He was after the type of the great English gentleman, kind and courteous, always considerate and patient, dignified, yet not austere. He seemed to be modest and shy, avoiding display and saving his deepest side for those who knew him best. His policy in the diocese was irenic, not political. These were, however, troubled times, and one cannot always go back over the past, but it can be said with truth and deserving that the reasonable amount of harmony and peace that obtained lay largely to the patience, tolerance and reticence of him who has been pastor and bishop for these years. Much personal domestic sorrow came to him, which served to measure to bring him closer to the hearts of his people.

He performed his duty during one of the most interesting periods of our church and national life, when things were passing from state of stagnation to one of rapid growth and development. His first public work was that of confirmation. About 40,000 have been confirmed in this diocese during the bishop's episcopate. (He then established the bishop's office for organizing everything in documentary and statistical form for the proper conduct of the affairs of the diocese. In all matters concerning education he took a deep and constant interest. As chairman of the board of examiners for divinity degrees he brought to bear a ripe theological scholarship, and we owe a great debt of gratitude to him for his knowledge, sympathy and impartiality.

The greatest outstanding work of the general synod of the Church of England in Canada, and the necessary safeguards that were inserted in the constitution were the work of the bishop of Toronto. In missionary enterprise he was alert and always willing to take a leap in the dark. When reviewing twenty-five years of his episcopacy some time ago he dwelt with great pleasure on the expansion of missionary work in the diocese. In conclusion Canon Cody said that the late archbishop believed that the eminence in the Kingdom of Christ was gained by strenuousness of service and wished above all else that the diocese of Toronto should always stand prominent in missionary service because the Church of Christ seeks only to do the will of the Father, quoting finally the Divine Masquerade words from his famous charge a few years ago. He said, "With all incompleteness of achievement I have the consciousness that I have never spared myself in devoting time and labor to the work of the church. They might have wished at this time that he could have been spared, especially in view of the contemplated revision of the prayer book. Radical changes had been proposed, and would be proposed again, and in these the archbishop would have exerted a steady influence."

At the Church of the Redeemer. At the Church of the Redeemer on the occasion. At the morning service the congregation stood with bowed heads during the playing of the "Dead March in Saul."

In the evening the rector, Rev. Chas. J. James, preached on "Immortality," from Job, xiv, 14. "If a man died shall he live again." He spoke of the yearning to know something of a life beyond, and the sadness that comes over us when we think only of the life that now is. Everywhere, in every time man has had this consciousness of the fact that death does not end all. "We bless God good-bye, but are in His arms." The recessional hymn was "Forever With the Lord."

disappointment in not having seen St. Alban's Cathedral completed. The great concourse of people at the funeral showed the respect held for him in the diocese and as we turned away from the grave we felt it closing over a life that had been faithful to his master and his church. He is not dead, however, but living unto God." The canon went on to speak of the activities of men in this life and expressed a belief that even beyond the grave man continued to grow in the knowledge of God.

The anthems sung at the service were Tennyson's "Crossing the Bar" by Albert Hall, "Blessed is the Man" by the Laborer's Task is Over, "On the Resurrection Morn" and "God of the Living."

At St. Paul's. Rev. Canon Cody at the morning service in St. Paul's Church, paid an eloquent tribute to the life and work of the late Archbishop Sweatman. Speaking from the text, "Blessed is the Son of Man come not to be ministered unto, but to minister," (Matt. xx, 28), he said it is not those who have the most services who are the greatest, but those who give the most service. The greatness of the Kingdom of Christ is the greatness of service, and everyone who calls himself a Christian will be tried in point of greatness by this test.

After referring to the external incidents in Archbishop Sweatman's life, Canon Cody said of his personal character that many a one can bear eloquent testimony. He was after the type of the great English gentleman, kind and courteous, always considerate and patient, dignified, yet not austere. He seemed to be modest and shy, avoiding display and saving his deepest side for those who knew him best. His policy in the diocese was irenic, not political. These were, however, troubled times, and one cannot always go back over the past, but it can be said with truth and deserving that the reasonable amount of harmony and peace that obtained lay largely to the patience, tolerance and reticence of him who has been pastor and bishop for these years. Much personal domestic sorrow came to him, which served to measure to bring him closer to the hearts of his people.

He performed his duty during one of the most interesting periods of our church and national life, when things were passing from state of stagnation to one of rapid growth and development. His first public work was that of confirmation. About 40,000 have been confirmed in this diocese during the bishop's episcopate. (He then established the bishop's office for organizing everything in documentary and statistical form for the proper conduct of the affairs of the diocese. In all matters concerning education he took a deep and constant interest. As chairman of the board of examiners for divinity degrees he brought to bear a ripe theological scholarship, and we owe a great debt of gratitude to him for his knowledge, sympathy and impartiality.

The greatest outstanding work of the general synod of the Church of England in Canada, and the necessary safeguards that were inserted in the constitution were the work of the bishop of Toronto. In missionary enterprise he was alert and always willing to take a leap in the dark. When reviewing twenty-five years of his episcopacy some time ago he dwelt with great pleasure on the expansion of missionary work in the diocese. In conclusion Canon Cody said that the late archbishop believed that the eminence in the Kingdom of Christ was gained by strenuousness of service and wished above all else that the diocese of Toronto should always stand prominent in missionary service because the Church of Christ seeks only to do the will of the Father, quoting finally the Divine Masquerade words from his famous charge a few years ago. He said, "With all incompleteness of achievement I have the consciousness that I have never spared myself in devoting time and labor to the work of the church. They might have wished at this time that he could have been spared, especially in view of the contemplated revision of the prayer book. Radical changes had been proposed, and would be proposed again, and in these the archbishop would have exerted a steady influence."

At the Church of the Redeemer. At the Church of the Redeemer on the occasion. At the morning service the congregation stood with bowed heads during the playing of the "Dead March in Saul."

In the evening the rector, Rev. Chas. J. James, preached on "Immortality," from Job, xiv, 14. "If a man died shall he live again." He spoke of the yearning to know something of a life beyond, and the sadness that comes over us when we think only of the life that now is. Everywhere, in every time man has had this consciousness of the fact that death does not end all. "We bless God good-bye, but are in His arms." The recessional hymn was "Forever With the Lord."

At the Church of the Redeemer. At the Church of the Redeemer on the occasion. At the morning service the congregation stood with bowed heads during the playing of the "Dead March in Saul."

In the evening the rector, Rev. Chas. J. James, preached on "Immortality," from Job, xiv, 14. "If a man died shall he live again." He spoke of the yearning to know something of a life beyond, and the sadness that comes over us when we think only of the life that now is. Everywhere, in every time man has had this consciousness of the fact that death does not end all. "We bless God good-bye, but are in His arms." The recessional hymn was "Forever With the Lord."

SIMPSON COMPANY LIMITED THE ROBERT SIMPSON COMPANY LIMITED

The Furniture Sale Opens the February Programme

WE HAVE three conspicuous events in mind for February. The Furniture Sale, the Hosiery Sale and a Silverware Sale. And first in order comes the one of largest bulk and importance--The Furniture Sale.

This Sale of Household Furniture offers home-makers a clear saving of one-quarter the usual expense on nearly every kind of furniture in use. On some of it the saving is a full third. All the big furniture makers of the country contribute.

Take serious thought of your requirements. Go over your house in mental review. Many vacancies and changes have been waiting for just an opportunity like this. Do not deny them their silent appeal now that the time has come. Buy Furniture at February prices and save the discounts.

The goods offered in this sale do not comprise a collection of extreme or unpopular designs, or furniture of inferior finish, and the designs are the most staple and standard in the trade to-day. There are no "seconds." Everything is perfect in quality, and the designs will be self-evident and satisfactory.

ish or construction. There are no "seconds." Everything is perfect in quality, and the designs will be self-evident and satisfactory.

Our February Campaign

WE OPEN a lively sale of Furniture to-day. On Saturday we commence the annual Sale of Hosiery. This event will be followed up by one of the biggest sales of Silverware ever planned in this city. We have a magnificent department in the New Building, and we intend to inaugurate it auspiciously. Keep these plans in mind and regulate your shopping profitably in accordance.

Corsets Reduced From $1.00 to 69c

TWO more lines are marked for quick clearance Tuesday, the last day before Stock-taking. Phone orders filled.

Ladies' Fine Corsets. Royale model, suitable for short, slender figures, made of fine white satin, low bust, empire shape above waist, long hips and front, fitted with rustproof steels, wide side steels, four plain elastic garters. Sizes 18 to 24 inches. Regular value $1.00. Tuesday, a pair, 69c.

Ladies' Superfine Corsets. Royale model, for medium figures, made of extra quality white coutil, medium high bust, extra long back and hips, fitted with finest rustproof steels, 4 wide side steels, 4 wide silk elastic garters, trimmed with lace, silk ribbon and satin bow, sizes 18 to 25 in. Regular value $2.50. Tuesday, a pair, $2.50.

A Watch and Chain for $4.95

Gentlemen's handsomely cased gold-filled Watch, 10 years' guarantee, accurately adjusted and jeweled movement.

To each watch we will fit a 14k. gold-filled Vest Chain, regular selling price $7.25, on Tuesday $4.95 for Watch and Chain complete.

Iron and Marble Clocks Reduced

Enamelled Iron and Real Marble Clocks, hour and half hour strike, 8-day time, fitted with reliable movements, guaranteed good time-keepers, bronze and Syrian trimmings. Regular selling up to $11.25. Tuesday $5.95.

Ladies' Brown Top Boots

240 pairs of Ladies' Boots, patent leather, with creased vamps, and brown oose, Blucher tops, military and Cuban heels, stylish, dressy, comfortable, long wearing, all sizes 2 1-2 to 7. Worth $4.00, on sale Tuesday $2.49.

LADIES' PATENT BOOTS, $1.99.

150 pairs of Ladies' Patent Leather Boots, with creased vamps, also Dongola kid leather, with patent toe caps and dull calf. Blucher tops, all sizes, 2 1-2 to 7. Special purchase price, Tuesday, $1.99.

"SIMPSON'S FOR RUBBERS."

Our rubbers are made by the best rubber company in Canada. Prices for Tuesday: Men's 60c; women's 49c; boys' 59c; misses' 39c; youths' 49c; children's 29c.

Groceries for Tomorrow

One car Redpath's Standard Granulated Sugar, 21 lbs., $1.00. Finest Side Bacon, peameal, half or whole, per lb., 17c. Canned Apples, gallon size, per tin, 20c. Quaker Oats, large package, 23c. Fancy Patna Rice, 4 lbs., 25c. Choice White Sarsaparilla, 25c. One car Fancy Navel Oranges, good size, per dozen, 25c. Telfer's Cream Soda Biscuits, 3-lb. box, 23c. Pure Marmalade, in 1-lb. Jar, Balmoral Brand, 2 Jars, 25c. Finest Canned Tomatoes, 3 tins, 25c. Choice Sweet Pickles, Queen's Brand, 200 bottles, pints, bottle, 20c. Asymer Catsup, per bottle, 10c.

The Sale of Paintings

We place on sale to-day (and will continue the occasion to-morrow) about 200 charming little pictures in oil and water colors by Canadian, English and Dutch artists. Prices will run at low ebb because the pictures were bid in by our buyers at very low figures and they were framed in our own work rooms at stock-taking reductions.

You may pick out clever little color sketches nicely framed for $3.50 and perfect beauties at $25.00. About 200 in the lot. Plenty of choice, but early choice is best, of course.

Reductions in Linens

Clearing of Hemstitched Damask Cloths and Napkins. We bought these to sell in sets, but the lots have become broken and some are soiled, so WE HAVE REDUCED THEM GREATLY, and will sell them separately in cloths or 1-2-dozen napkins.

They are the finest all pure linen, rich single and double satin damask, full bleached, spoke hemstitched all around, rich bordered designs. The regular prices run from $8.75 to $25.00 per set. Clearing Tuesday at 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. reduction.

DRESS LINENS REDUCED ALSO.

400 yards of an extra good quality Bleached Irish Dress Linen. These goods have been fully bleached on the grass, are all pure linen, of a very fine grade, round, even, smooth thread, good medium weight, 36 inches wide, the coming season's most popular weight, at, per yard, Tuesday, 48c.

Wall Paper Clearance

Stock-taking Day. Clearing Balance of Broken Lines. 1350 rolls Imported Parlor and Dining Room Papers, in greens, browns, reds and fawns, in bright or dull effects. Regular to 50c, Tuesday, 29c.

2640 rolls Wall Paper, in reds, greens, browns and light colorings. Regular to 15c, Tuesday 7c.

2 1-2c regular Room Moulding, Tuesday 1 1-2c.

Table with columns: Regular Feb. Price, Sale, and items like Parlor Suite, Parlor Tables, Dining Chairs, etc.

Seventy-Eight Men Buy Good Suits Cheap

A STOCK-TAKING clearance on Tuesday morning. Wednesday is stock-taking day. These Suits are out of place in the stock, being accumulation of odd sizes and ranges of shades and patterns.

But to the man a suit fits, what matters whether there are any more of that size or any other?

To the man a cloth suits, what matters taste? These Suits Are Worth $15 to $18. We'll sell them at $12.00 per man.

75 Suits, high class, blue and black imported, English worsteds, imported fancy worsteds, in brown, green and grey mixtures, finished in every detail, sizes 36 to 44. Regular $15.00 to $18.00, on sale Tuesday, $12.00.

1,000 Suits of Pyjamas for 79c

NOW gentlemen of the progressive school--here's a good chance to increase the capacity of your wardrobes in the essential particular of night wear.

Pyjamas at 79c! That should interest most men. 1000 Pyjama Suits for Men reduced for quick clearance, of heavy English flannel, collar attached and pocket, large buttons, generous-sized bodies, pink, blue, native or grey stripes, sizes 34 to 42. Tuesday, suit 79c.

Men's Furs and Caps

Men's Black China Dogskin, Coral-can Lamb and Black Wolfskin Fur coats, best quality, heavy furred skins, and best linings. Regular up to $20.00, stock-taking reduction, Tuesday, $15.00.

Men's Goodyear Welt Boots $2.49

360 pairs of Men's Boots, every pair Goodyear welted, solid leather from toe to heel, box calf, donoga goatskin and patent colt leathers, all Blucher style, medium and heavy soles, good solid, strong, comfortable, long-wearing boots. All sizes, 6 to 11. Special purchase price, Tuesday, $2.49.

WHO'S THE SMOKER

who wouldn't pay $2.75 for a Meerschaum Pipe worth from $1.00 to $1.50. Hundreds and hundreds of men have taken quick advantage of this great saving and are now telling the good story once more. Listen: Genuine Hand-cut Block Meerschaum Pipe, straight or bent, in stems. Act quick--you'll never be sorry.

Queen West Wilson 98-QUEEN-W.

BORDEN'S BABY CONTEST.

Cut the coupon from page three and enter your baby for one of the sixty first prizes in the Borden's Baby Contest. Any child up to three years old is eligible.

FIREMEN'S BUSY DAY.

There were six alarms to the fire department yesterday, but only one was at John Curry's residence, 39 Howland-avenue, a defective gas caused $109 damage to house and $50 to contents. A still alarm was sent to truck 4 and hose 14, Ossington-avenue.