Hollow hill—
Jumping—bumping—
Rocking—roaring
Like 40,000 giants snoring!
By the lonely hut and mansion,
By the ocean's wide expansion,
Where the factory chimnies smoke,
Where the foundry bellows croak—
Dash along!
Crash along!
Flash along,
On! on! with a jump,
And a bump,
And a roil!
Mies the fire-fiend to its destined goal!

O'er the aqueduct and bog,
On we fly with ceaseless jog.
Every instant something new,
Every instant lost to view,
Now a tavern—now a steeple—
Now a crowd of gaping people—
Now a hollow—now a ridge—
Now a cross-way—now a bridge—
Grumble—stumble— Now a cross-way—now a bridge Grumble—stumble—
Rumble—tumble—
Pretting—getting in a stew!
Church and steeple, gaping people—
Quick as thought are lost to view,
Every thing that eye can survey.
Turns hurly-burly, topsy-turvey!
Each passenger is thumped and shaken,
As physic is when to be taken.

By the foundry, past the forge,
Through the plain and mountain gorge,
Where cathedral rears its head,
Where repose the silent dead!
Monuments amid the grass,
Flit like spectres as you pass!
If to hail a friend inclined,
Weish! whirl! ka-swash!—he's left behind!
Rumble, tumble, all the day—
Thus we pass the hours away.

The Brazilian Law against the Slave
Trade.—We not long since noticed the adoption in the Brazilian Senate of a law intended to put an end to the slave trade. This law was put in force on the 4th of September last, by decree of the Emperor, Don Pedro. By this decree Brazilian men-of-war are ordered to use special efforts to seize slavers, and to hand over their crews and officers to the civil authorities for trial. The ships and cargoes are to be sold at auction, and the proceeds, after deducting $40 for the expense of sending back to Africa each recaptured negro, divided as prize money among the officers and crew of the ship making the capture. The party denouncing a slaver to the Government is also to share in the prize money. No Brazillian vessel is to be allowed to clear for the coast of Africa without the owners giving security that it shall not take slaves on board. The introduction of slaves into any part of the Empire is made piracy, and punishable with death. A special law, hereafter to be inflicted on the Captains of slavers. If this law can be made effective it will do more to break up THE BRAZILIAN LAW AGAINST THE SLAVE curity that it shall not take slaves on board. The introduction of slaves into any part of the Empire is made piracy, and punishable with death. A special law, hereafter to be framed, will determine the punishment to be inflicted on the Captains of slavers. If this law can be made effective it will do more to break up the slave trade than ten new squadrons on the coast of Africa. But we have no great expectation that it will answer the purpose.—Bribery and the high profits of the trade will render it nugatory. Such is notoriously the case in Cuba, the other great mart for slaves, and we see no reason to suppose that the result will be better in Brazil.—N. Y. Tribune.

The Famous Artesian Well at Kissenger, in Bayaria, commenced eighteen years ago, and which it was feared would have to be abandoned as a failure, has just given the most satisfactory results. The town is located in a saline valley, nine hundred and eighty-four feet above the level of the Baltic sea. Last June the boring had reached a depth of eighteen hundred and thirty-seven feet, and several layers of salt, separated by a strata of granite, had been traversed, when carbonic acid gas, followed again by granite, was found.—Finally, on the 12th inst., at a depth of two thousand and sixty-seven feet, perseverance was rewarded by complete success. A violent explosion burst away the scaffolding built to facilitate the operations, and a column of water four and a half inches in diameter spouted forth to the height of ninety-eight feet above the surface. The water—clear as crystal—is of a temperature of sixty-six Fahrenheit, and is abundantly charged with salt. It is calculated that the annual product will be upwards of 6,000,000 lbs. per annum, increasing the royal revenues by 300,000 florins, after deducting all expenses.—Paris Letter to the National Intelligencer.

Stemarne Telegraph across the Mer-

Submarine Telegraph across the Mersey.—This project, which was brought under the notice of the Dock Committee at their meeting on Thursday last, has created considerable interest in the town. It appears that the wires are to be laid on a new principle, for which the projector has been rewarded with the presentation of a gold medal. By the proposed plan, one or more wires up to fifty, may, it is said, be carried across the river in the short space of six hours, and secured firmly about six feet below the bed of the river, besides which, the plan is not expensive, and may be applied in water at any depth.—Liverpool Mercury.

trapidly than it is generated within the body; a chill ensues, and this superabundant abstraction of caloric is greater during sleep than during our waking hours; for during sleep the internal heat-producing process is, like other vital functions; lowered in degree. Most air, or air which has vapour dissolved in it or diffused through it, attracts caloric more copiously and more rapidly than dry air. The most air of a damp bed carries away culoric from the body with dangerous rapidly; the whole hody is chilled, disease, and often death ensue. Rapid abstractions of caloric, it is well known, are animogst profile sources of disease. How is all this often falfal mischief to be prevented? Nothing can be more easy. Prevent, by a sufficient covering of non conductors, the abstraction of caloric, it would be additional pairs of blankets, according to the temperature of the chamber, would have saved many valuable life.

A Terrible Position.—There is more m's ry in the world than meets the eye or claims the sober attention of the casual obsever. On Thursday night, we saw a man, attached to one of the liberal professions, sitting in a billiard room, and evidently enjoying a game in which two of his friends were engaged. After we had waited a few moments, he becknoed us into another apartment, and said abruptly—"I feel like a inadman." "What's the matter?" "My wife die I this afternoon." "Then what are you doing here?" we asked. "I am here to collect money enough, if possible, to bury her!" Such proved to be the fact. The body of his wife—the mother of several very pretty female children—lay uncoffined and uncared for, while he made a pilgrimage for the purpose of begging the price of wood and ground enough to afford her remains that last repose which nature claims for inanimate humanity. How little do the spendthrifts and the people of a metropolis know of the wretchedness which is constantly prevailing in their inids! Many a five dollar bill, incautiously and unthinkingly spent, if properly disposed of, would perhaps save a life or render a suffering family happy.—Noah's Messenger.

Hoolah Toochee, one of the Seminole delegation from Arkansas, who was deputed to persuade the remaining Indians to emigrate, not succeeding satisfactorily, has stolen away the wives of Sam Jones, I the Seminole chief, and nine children. (his whole family,) and they will be sent to Arkansas. This singular movement, which none but an Indian would have thought of, may likely subdue all further opposition on the part of Sam Jones and his friends to emigration, which they have so long resisted. Hoolah Toochee is the brother of Sam's wives.
