

See That Toe

and the cut of the uppers. Notice how the Blucher pattern, that has been in vogue for years, has disappeared. For Spring this is to be the popular shape. Rather pointed, receding toe, regular cut pattern—no Blucher—straight foxed with a comparatively low heel. In leathers, patent is again popular with gun metal and Russia calf; very strong. New Spring goods are now in stock and we would be pleased to show them, even though you have no intention of buying just now.

SAYS ECONOMY LIMITS USEFULNESS OF WIRELESS OPERATIONS AT SEA

Philadelphia, Feb. 24.—Robert Lee Etheridge, youthful wireless operator of the steamer Monroe, which was sunk by the Nantuxet said the refusal of the company to pay fair wages is ruining the usefulness of the wireless service in preventing disasters at sea.

Etheridge, who was testifying before the local board of steamboat inspectors in the federal inquiry to place responsibility for the disaster, asserted that boys of sixteen and seventeen years are being taken right from school and made into operators.

Earlier in the inquiry it was testified that "had the wireless man on the Nantuxet been more alert the collision might have been averted."

"They pay only about $25 a month," Etheridge continued. "No experienced man can afford to work for that. So they get green operators."

Etheridge has had more than five years' experience, and has passed a stiff government examination.

He stuck to his wireless the night of the collision until assured that other help besides the Nantuxet which was standing by, was on its way; then he helped launch a lifeboat which saved thirty passengers. He said that no one on the Monroe knew how badly the Nantuxet was damaged, and Etheridge feared she would go down also, so he kept on sending his S. O. S. calls until he picked up two or three other ships.

"Jones insists that there ought to be a tax on hushelers," Etheridge said. "He must be one of those single-tax theorists."—Baltimore American.

Robert Grant, of Montreal, the engineer, was found dead with his hand on the throttle.

The Problem of Rural Rating

CANADA'S EXAMPLE

Issued By The Land Values Press Bureau, London

Commencing with 1914 all the rural municipalities in the province of Saskatchewan will raise their revenue by a tax on land values only. According to the official monthly bulletin, published by the provincial department of agriculture.

Saskatchewan stands opposed to making a man pay a penalty by way of taxation on account of his thrift and enterprise, as evidenced by his buildings and by the improvements on his land. In other words, no tax will be levied on the farmer's house, his barns, flocks, herds, or personal property of any kind.

As a check on the assessor's work two members of the council are appointed to form a committee with the assessor, and therefore assessment notices are sent out, the roll is checked and such corrections are made as the majority of the committee may decide. Appeal against the assessment may be made to the council board, acting as a court of revision to revise the assessment roll. In various communities throughout the province the work of assessing is in full swing. The "Public Service Monthly" says:

"Among other benefits to be derived from the new scheme is the fact that more revenue will be secured for the municipality, but it will not be extracted from the unfortunate owner of poor land, nor will it be taken from a railway station. But from the fortunate owner who is more advantageously placed."

The department of municipal affairs has issued a circular to the secretary-treasurers and assessors of rural municipalities, drawing attention to the law enacted last January, which provides that:

(a) Land shall be assessed at its actual cash value exclusive of any increase in such value caused by the erection of any building thereon or by any other expenditure of labor or capital.

(b) The prevailing market price for land in the community at which it can be bought and sold.

(c) It is likewise submitted that in arriving at an assessment value it might be possible for the assessor to take an average quarter section as a standard, then lowering or raising the value of other quarter sections as they are respectively below or above that standard.

LARGE SUM IS IN VENDECT AWARDED TO IRISH GIRL

Minneapolis, L. Feb. 24.—Catherine O'Rourke, twenty-two years old, obtained a verdict of $85,000 against the Cunard Steamship Company in the Nassau county supreme court, before Justice Joyce for injuries which it was complained she had received at the hands of Dr. Robert Bruce, the surgeon of the Campanian, when she was on her way to this country from Ireland in April, 1911.

The verdict is the largest ever granted in a damages action in Nassau county. Lawyers who heard the case thought the verdict was sound.

The girl testified that when she was making her trip over an infant was born in the steerage and that she was one of those accused of being the mother. She refused to permit an examination by Dr. Bruce, she charged, and as a result of her being discharged from the hospital the real mother of the infant has been found, it was testified, but still Miss O'Rourke had been kept in the hospital.

Physicians testified that the girl was a nervous wreck. The Cunard line denied the girl had been injured.

Both sides submit briefs for and against a reduction in the verdict.

ON CARE OF THE HAIR

Braiding at Night and Much Brushing are Good.

Brush! Brush! Brush! Brush the hair. Change the mode of wearing the hair! Always braid the hair at night! These are suggestions from Miss Alice York for the care of the hair. And her suggestions ought to be of value, as she has a heavy head of hair—hair which she says would be scattered to the four winds or doing service in the other woman's "tail" were it not for the fact that she takes judicious care of her hair. "The hair should be brushed continuously," she says. "It matters not whether you use but little water. Why, if you cut the hair from right to left for thirty days, try curling it from left to right the next thirty days. Give it a chance to get uncured; even a snake must get uncured if he gets all there in his life."

"Always braid the hair at night. That is to keep it from tangling. Where there is tangling there must be a breaking, and that means disintegration, death. Tangle, to my mind, means friction, war. Let your hairs caress each other. To properly arrange the hair and care for it is like arranging the notes of a song; there should be melody. Melody in hair! Of course."—New York Tribune.
