ST. MARY'S JUBILEE CLOSED LAST NIGHT

Spirited Congratulatory Addresses, Musical Selections, Readings and Refreshments Rounded Out Entertainment

The enthusiasm which characterized the opening day of the golden jubilee of St. Mary's church, was evidenced to a greater degree at the closing exercises of the festival which were held in the school room last night.

The attendance was even larger than at any of the preceding days and there was a united effort on the part of the large gathering to conclude in a fitting manner the celebration so auspiciously begun and successfully continued.

Besides the congregation were seen many formerly associated with the church, now laboring in other fields, but who, proud of the work accomplished through the zeal and energy of the present flock working in harmony with the rector, came to rejoice on the attainment of 50 years of achievement by St. Mary's and to renew associations formed in past years.

The evening was an enjoyable one in every sense. The programme, musical and literary in character, was attractive and the solos, readings and other items were received with appreciation.

Rev. W. O. Raymond, rector of the church, presided. St. Mary's band was heard to excellent advantage in a number of selections. The programme was begun with a selection by the band. A. C. Ritchie gave delight in a solo and Mrs. S. Willis and Miss Helen Parley were heard in readings and appropriate addresses were delivered by Hon. R. Maxwell, David Hipwell, Dr. Walker and J. N. Rogers.

Following the entertainment a social hour was spent and refreshments were served by a committee of young ladies.

SOCIALIST PREDICTS POSSIBLE BLOODSHED

Reckey Mountain M. P. Delivers Characteristic Socialist Address to Audience in the Mill Street Hall.

C. M. O'Brien, the socialist member of the Alberta legislature, addressed a large meeting in the Socialist Hall on Mill Street last evening. He said the capitalist system of production would break down sooner than was expected, because the position of the middle class was now more uncertain than that of the workingmen. If the workingmen were well organized and educated to a right appreciation of their historic mission, so that they might build up the co-operative commonwealth on its ruins, the transition period would be peaceful.

Otherwise the birth struggle of the new society would be attended by the bloodshed and turmoil that has marked the birth of new forms of society in the past.

Socialists were not idealists; they were practical men, seeing the danger ahead, and trying to make the revolution a peaceful one. The real anarchists were those who thought they had reached perfection, and shut their eyes to the impending change.

NO FURTHER TROUBLE IN THE RIVER STEAMER WAR

Expected Developments Did Not Materialize at Indian-town Yesterday Afternoon—Some Fun During Morning.

It was expected that there would be further trouble at Indian-town yesterday afternoon in the wharf war between the St. John River Steamship Company and the Crystal Stream Steamship Company, but matters were very quiet. When the steamers Majestic and the Slocan arrived they tied up at the Star Line wharf and the Victoria which arrived later, went to the May Queen wharf. There was a sensational feature yesterday morning. The rival steamers Victoria and Majestic left Fredericton about eight o'clock. The Majestic got the start owing to the Victoria having to make such a long turn in starting. Running under full steam the boats started on their 84 mile run to Indian-town. When the Victoria was off Victoria Mills an oil cup fell among the machinery and caused damage to one of the rods. The engine was disabled for a time and the wind and swiftly running current caused the big steamer to be driven ashore. It was two hours before a couple of tugs hauled the steamer off and she was able to proceed down river.

Mr. A. J. Sallows of A. J. Sallows and Co., left this evening for Montreal and New York where he will endeavor to procure an up to date design for his fitting department.

Last evening had been set aside as a musical evening, and an entertainment of rare excellence was provided for the occasion. The school room of the church, which had been attractively decorated, was crowded to the doors.
