

FROM ALL OVER THE MARITIME PROVINCES

HOPEWELL HILL

Hopewell Hill, Nov. 10.—The Baptist church at Hopewell Cape, which has been undergoing extensive repairs, was reopened today, services being held morning and evening. The pastor, Rev. Mr. Love, delivered an eloquent sermon at the morning service, the evening sermon being given by Mr. Hopkins, whose discourse was much appreciated. Excellent music was furnished at the services and the Baptist choir at that town in the reopening services in the United Baptist church.

HOPEWELL HILL

The Osborne Corner girl, charged with concealing the birth of her child, which was found dead, is likely to remain in jail at the shiretown until the April term of the supreme court, unless a speedy trial is secured, no bail being given, or, in fact, asked for. The accused was not represented by counsel at the preliminary examination. The local court prosecutor states that there was no evidence of murder or manslaughter, but that he has so informed the attorney general.

HOPEWELL HILL

Mrs. Merrill Robinson is recovering from her recent illness. The shiretown, Nov. 11.—Rev. Mr. Strayhorn, Jr., died at his home at West River last week, after a long illness of consumption. He was a son of Robert Strayhorn of Point Wolfe, and leaves a wife, Mrs. Strayhorn, and a daughter, Mrs. Akerly, of West River, and one child. The funeral was held on Sunday, service being held in the West River church, and burial at Point Wolfe. Rev. Mr. Egan conducted the service.

HOPEWELL HILL

The four year old child of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Thugley, of Riverside, was buried yesterday. The little one had been in invalid since birth. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Father Lockary, interment being in the Roman Catholic cemetery. The Albert train had had luck on the trip today, and as a result it was about four hours late tonight. A bad run-off at the Mountville crossing was responsible for this delay, there being a hold up there for some three hours. The stalled passenger train at a neighboring farm house, above Hillboro, the train again left the rails, causing further delay.

HOPEWELL HILL

Hopewell Hill, Nov. 12.—Captain Samuel Stevens, of Harvey, has sold his property there to Alfred Stuart, and will leave next week for the Pacific coast, to locate. Albert Tucker, of Chemical Road, fifteen years old, is another budding genius. He is likely to make the Mamel "hot hunter" look to his laurels. Albert has not yet killed a bear, but on Saturday he shot one and wounded it. The youngster, who was accompanied by his father to the village, went on ahead and through the woods, looking for partridge, when he suddenly came upon a huge bear, such as is calculated to cause the hair of the average fifteen-year-old to stand on end. Albert, however, though badly frightened, saw a possible realization of his ambition to add a bear skin to his credit, and fired a bullet in his rifle and fired, wounding the animal, which left some blood behind and made off into the forest with a party left to locate the wounded beast, but without success. Bears have been very numerous this fall in the back country. The pelts are worth about $15.

HOPEWELL HILL

Mrs. H. L. Brewster and child, of Moncton, came today to spend a week with relatives here. The Albert train, Nov. 12.—Miss Vera Brown returned home this week from a pleasant visit with her sister, Mrs. Belyea, in Carleton county (N. B.). William F. S. Steveson, of Hillboro, is the most here of his step-daughter, Mrs. J. I. Triton. Before returning home, Mrs. Steveson will spend some time with his daughter, Mrs. Willard Jones at Allison. Fred Francis, eldest son of Rev. F. G. Francis, of this village, who is a student in civil engineering at McGill College, and who is seriously ill with rheumatic fever, is in the Montreal hospital, is recovering. Mrs. Chapman, wife of Rev. J. B. Chapman, and Mrs. Jones, wife of Dr. H. A. Jones, are on the sick list this week. Miss Bernice Jones, a student at Normal school, Fredericton, is ill at her home here. She came home to spend Thanksgiving.

The United Baptist church at the Glade, which through the generosity of Mrs. J. C. Jordan, has been undergoing repairs and improvements for some weeks at a cost of some six or seven hundred dollars, will be reopened for public worship on Sunday, Nov. 17, with preaching services morning, afternoon and evening. The morning service will be conducted by Rev. F. G. Francis, of this village. The train on the Salisbury & Harvey Railway was running in bad luck on Monday. Owing to several runs off, it took the train practically the whole day to make the forty-four miles run from Albert to Salisbury. It reached the I. C. R. here about 6 o'clock in the evening. Large quantities of pressed hay are being shipped by rail from this station just now. The shippers in the majority of cases are Coverdale farmers. It is understood that practically all of the surplus hay in this locality has been sold at good prices. A commercial man, who was in the village this morning, and had just come from Havelock, reported that Pittsburg (Pa.) and his wife, who have been on a hunting trip at Canaan, north of Havelock, with good success. They came out of the woods on Monday with two moose and four deer.

Dedication Ceremony at the Fredericton Cathedral on Sunday HANDSOME GIFT Church Leader Fittingly Remembered Will Add to the Dignity of the Building—Art in Religion. An interesting ceremony took place in the Anglican cathedral at Fredericton on Sunday, when His Lordship, Bishop Richardson was conducted from the old to the new Episcopal throne, where the following form of presentation, with petition, was read by the Rev. Canon Allan Smithers on behalf of the clergy of the diocese: To the Reverend the Lord Bishop of Fredericton, and to the Dean and Chapter of Christchurch Cathedral, Reverend Father in God: On behalf of the clergy of the diocese of Fredericton, I beg leave to present this bishop's throne to Christchurch cathedral, with the prayer that it may now be solemnly dedicated by you to the greater glory of God, and to the beautifying of His sanctuary, and in loving blessed memory of His servant, Hollingsworth Tully Kingston, second bishop of the diocese. (Sgd.) ALLAN WILLIAM SMITHERS. Twenty-third Sunday after Trinity, for the year of our Lord 1912. To the bishop, made answer: In my own name, and in the name of the dean and chapter of the cathedral, I accept this gracious gift from the clergy of the diocese and assign to it this honored place within the temple of God. The dedicatory prayer was then offered: O Lord, we beseech Thee, of Thy merciful goodness, to accept this offering which we make, not of our own but of Thine, for all things come of Thee, and of Thine own do we give Thee. Bless this gift, O Lord, to the service of Thy people, and to the glory of Thy catholic church. May it ever minister to responsibility and not to privilege, to humility and not to pride, to service and not to selfishness; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen. The bishop then dedicated the throne, saying: To the greater glory of God and in loving memory of Hollingsworth Tully Kingston, second bishop of this diocese, I dedicate this throne, in the name of the Father, of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen. After the enshrouding of the bishop, hymn No. 220, The Saints of God, was sung, and the Reverend Canon Allan Smithers gave the presentation, taking for his text part of the eighth verse of the Philippian. "Whatever things are lovely."

Art in Religion. The preacher argued that nature has its spiritual as well as its material side. Not only was it the function of nature to provide food and the material comforts of life, but also through its beauty and loveliness excite the imagination and inspire the soul to reverent contemplation, and fuel for worship. Beauty in every form as expressive of the care and love and power of the Creator for His creatures, appealed to the higher nature and the higher faculties of man. Beauty in nature was the expression of the power and perfection of God. Art was the seeking after that expression in terms of truth and fitness. The relation of art to religion was then referred to, and it was shown how poet, painter, sculptor and architect and musician have been striving in this vicinity for the worship of the church of God. The highest art was the expression of the highest emotion. Man at his best demands the greatest art, and the greatest art is that of God. The Kingdom throne was the gift of the whole body of the clergy in grateful memory of the life, worth and work of one of the great bishops of the diocese of Fredericton, and in honor of the recognized body in England and on this continent as a ripe and exact scholar. His was a mind peculiarly analytical and critical. His scholarship was of the highest order. His scholarship is well exemplified in his most abundant and valuable work, "The Kingdom of God," a work which at once placed him in the front rank of the great modern scholars of the Anglican church. His canonate had stood first in the Canadian church, and this special knowledge without doubt enabled him to make a contribution to the church which was not confined to his own diocese. Conforming to the poet's type of "The gentle student," Bishop Kingston seemed ever happiest among his books, and even in the twilight of a very busy life he continued to devote himself to the critical study of God's word. Laying no claims to oratory, the Bishop's sermons were characterized by exactness, a wide culture, and original presentation. Eminent as a scholar, as a critic, as a canonist, as a preacher, Bishop Kingston was also an admirable administrator, and was possessed of excellent powers of executive. Those powers he devoted ungrudgingly and successfully to the service of his people. He did much to strengthen and consolidate the financial interests of the diocese, and the excellent condition of the various beneficiary funds of the synod are themselves a tribute to his foresight and keen business ability. In his relations to the cathedral he was ever zealous of its honor, careful in every way to preserve its fabric and most scrupulous and successful in conserving its endowments. His younger energies were largely devoted to the mission of the diocese, and the large mission of Gordon and Lorne and other missionary districts were established through his energy, his zeal, and his generosity. His unflinching charity, and his special kindness to the junior clergy,
