The National Battlefields Commission

one that was noteworthy and warranted proper observance.

Alluding to the amendment placed in the bill before the House regarding the proposed monument to King Edward, Mr. Chapais expressed his full concurrence in it, but thought that, if the sum of twenty thousand dollars was the sole amount to be set apart for the erection of the memorial, it was

It sufficient. If there were to be other contributio⁻³, Mr. Chapais thought that the sum would be enough, but said if a monument was to be erected there could be nothing too good to mark the memory of a good man such as King Edward was, a ruler who by his actions and life held the esteem and love of not only of his subjects but of the nations of the world. If a monument was to be reared to the memory of a man such as King Edward was, let it be worthy of him. In conclusion, Mr. Chapais expressed himself in full concurrence with the bill.

The bill thereupon passed its second reading and later was put through all its remaining stages and passed.

16