WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4.

FIRST AND LAST.

Canada did not do it all, but her contingents rendered unsurpassed service in the war which has just been happily brought to an end by the surrender by the Boers. And when the story is written it will be told that the first decisive defeat of the enemy —the surrender of Cronje at Paardeburg—was brought about on Majuba day by the dash and bravery of the Canadians, and that in the last severe encounter—that with Delarey at Hart's river—the tradition of the British service was splendidly sustained by Lieut. Carruthers and his brave band, who, though faced by a foe that outnumbered them 7 to 1, refused to surrender and held their lives not dear to defend the flag of the empire. Canadians can look back upon their part in the late struggle with feelings of pardonable pride and rest assured that in the procession of military contingents at the coronation none will more surely fix the eye of His Majesty the King than that composed of the noble fellows who leave our shores on Saturday next.

On Oct. 9, 1899, President Kruger issued his ultimatum to Great Britain demanding that (1) all points of difference should be submitted to arbitration; (2) all British troops upon the Transvaal and Orange Free State borders be withdrawn; (3) all reinforcements of troops which had arrived in South Africa subsequent to June 1, 1899, should be returned home; and (4) all Her Majesty's troops upon the high seas en route to South Africa should not be allowed to land, but be forthwith returned home.
Forty-eight hours was fixed as the limit of time given Britain to accept the ultimatum, but ere the time expired the Boers began the struggle, pressed forward their troops into British territory and hastened to proclaim the annexation of the soil so occupied. Nothing remained for Britain but to defend the integrity of her empire and teach the invader a lesson that he would not easily forget. For nearly two years and seven months this bloody struggle has been waged by the Boers with a courage and, at times, a skill that challenged the admiration of military authorities; by the British with a humanity towards her foe that has never been surpassed, if ever equalled, and that will leave no ground for reasonable resentment in the breast of the beaten foe and that must go far to bring about the period of good feeling when Britain may extend to her South African possessions the right of self-government enjoyed by her Canadian and Australian colonies. — Ottawa

RECIPE FOR PUNCH.

London Daily Mail.
Here is a humorous recipe for mixing a good glass of punch: "Mix the materials in equal portions—half whiskey and the other half whiskey and water."

DISQUALIFICATION PROCEEDINGS.

Peterboro Review.
One thing that was much discussed were the proceedings instituted to disqualify Mr. Stratton on account of his having printed the ballots for the election. Those proceedings have been instituted on the best legal advice and they will be followed up.

EVENLY DIVIDED.

Toronto Telegram.
Never in the history of the politics of Ontario was a government as weak or an opposition as strong as the parties led by Hon. G. W. Ross and J.
P. Whitney are to-day. The country and the closely divided legislature form the arena in which a weak and discredited government must now wrestle out its troubles with an opposition which may have learned to be bold and which has reason to be hopeful.

The Stimulus of Pure Blood

That is what is required by every organ of the body, for the proper performance of its functions.

It prevents biliousness, dyspepsia, constipation, kidney complaint, rheumatism, catarrh, nervousness, weakness, faintness, pimples, blotches, and all cutaneous eruptions.

It perfects all the vital processes.

William Ross, Sarnia, Ont., took Hood's Sarsaparilla to make his blood pure. He writes that he was all run down, his appetite was gone, and his nerves were so unstrung he could not rest nor sleep. He had tried many remedies without benefit when Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and he began its use. Three bottles of this medicine entirely cured him.

Promises to cure and keeps the promise. Accept no substitute,

CAMPAIGN YARNS.

Hamilton Herald, Independent.
Here's rather a queer confession from Mr. Patullo's paper, the Woodstock Sentinel-Review: "No one probably in Canada expected Hon. G. W.
Ross should have carried his party to victory in such a campaign." The S-R is cruel to thus stamp most of its Grit contemporaries and almost all the Grit campaigners as liars.

AS TO MORGANEERING.

Western Mail.
Two new words have been added to the British language during the last two years, both of them having relation to the acquisition of property—(1) "Commandeer," signifies compulsory acquisition, and is a polite name for theft; (2) "Morganeer," signifies the legal acquisition of the whole, or practically the whole, of any commodity with the object of excluding competition. This was overheard in our publishing office yesterday: "Look here, 'Arris, if you think your going to morganeer all the 'Expresses' you're jolly well mistaken, as I means to be served in my proper turn."

ONE ON THE PREACHER.

Hamilton Spectator.
They are telling a good story about a preacher in South Wentworth, who went some distance out of his way to canvass during the campaign for Mr.
Pettit, the temperance candidate. He was particularly strong in his denunciation of the men who are so party bound that they forget principle and shut their eyes to vote for the party candidates. When the votes in the township division in which the preacher cast his ballot were counted up, at night the surprise of the scrutineers may be imagined when it was found that the temperance candidate had not received a single vote. And now they are wondering what the preacher did.

THAT CHAPTER.

A Chapter on Scott's Emulsion often holds a prominent position in the histories of weak children.

The gist of that chapter usually reads like this:

"Child weak and thin—began with small doses of Scott's Emulsion three times a day—after a week appetite improved—soon a little stronger —child more lively—weighs more."

And so it goes till the child is reported well and strong.
