A measure known as the Raine's Liquor Tax Bill has been past by the New York State I egislature, the principal features of which are the creation of State excise commissioners and inspectors, the giving of one-third the liquor revenue to the State and two-thirds to the counties, and fixing very high license fees for aslone. Local option is to be allowed to towns, not to calles. It is republican legislation.

The Union Signal commenting on this measure, says;
