Dr. MacDonald Gives Interesting Lecture on Most Talked About Book

It was a fine and responsive audience which gathered in the Lecture Room of the Baptist Church on the evening of Nov. 30th to hear a lecture by Rev. J. H. MacDonald, D. D., C. B. E., F. R. G. S., on Mr. A. S. M. Hutchinson's lat est book, "This Freedom". The lec ture was under the auspices of the Social and Benevolent Society of the Church and, like all functions with which that society has to do, was well managed Mrs. M. R. Elliott occupied the chain and introduced the lecturer in graceful and happy terms. A vocal solo was ren-dered by Mr. H. W. Mollins, of the University, and as it was St. Andrew's day, the song had in its accents a flavor of Old Scotland.

For the sake of those who had not read the book. Dr. MacDonald briefly ed the story sketching the leading characters and stating the saliant problems under consideration. He characterized the book as strong, clean and vital, one from which the everlasting vital, one from which the every starting triangle of modern romance is happily absent. It deals with problems which lie close to the springs of life and there-fore it was that he thought it worthy of
