Germans Alarmed Over Preparations Being Made by Allies for Next Year's Air Campaign

London, Oct. 27.-Major-Gen. David Henderson, who is retiring as head of the British air board to undertake an important "special duty," in an interview today with the Associated Press, said: "I shall not say much to you about the plans of the British air service for the immediate future. That yould be giving information that they enemy is

They are under no illusions about it and they are bending every effort to counter it by a stupendous program on their own side. But we have had the upper hand of them in the air from the very beginning and feel sure, especially with the help of the United States, that our mastery will grow stronger notwithstanding all their efforts.
