

A Veteran's Story

Mr. Joseph Hemmerich, an old soldier, 529 E. 146th St., N. Y. City, writes us voluntarily. In 1862, at the battle of Fair Oaks, he was stricken with typhoid fever, and after a long struggle in hospitals, lasting several years, was discharged as incurable with Consumption.

Doctors said both lungs were affected and he could not live long, but a comrade urged him to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before he had finished one bottle his cough began to get loose, the choking sensation left, and night sweats grew less and less. He is now in good health and cordially recommends

Hood's Sarsaparilla as a general blood purifier and tonic medicine, especially to his comrades in the G. A. R.

HOOD'S PILLS are hand made, and are perfect in composition, protection and appearance.

A "FINISH" FIGHT.

CHICAGO, July 13.—"Jimmy" Kennard, the St. Paul kid, met "Gene" Flanagan, a featherweight from the Stock Yards, in a battle with four-ounce gloves early this morning at a saloon on West Harrison street. There were several spectators. The ring was pitched in the rear of the place. Flanagan was fearfully punished. Knockdowns were frequent. In the fourth round a right-hand swing on the point of Flanagan's jaw, sent him to the ground in a heap, his head striking the hard floor. Flanagan lay there unconscious. Referee Upton becoming frightened, summoned a doctor, who said Flanagan's head had been fractured. He was taken away in a cab, and is now being secluded. Kennard is also in hiding. The fight was for $400 a side and gate receipts.

BUSINESS PROSPECTS BRIGHTER.

Optimistic Views of the Commercial Agency Reporters.

New York, July 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: When circumstances are duly weighed the strength and soundness of business in the country during the past week are amazing. The shrinkage of business and the depression of values have been unexpectedly small, the failures relatively few and unimportant, and there are even signs in some industries of actual progress toward recovery from previous troubles.

The number of failures during the past week has been 237 in the United States, against 3,774 last year; and in Canada 49, against 25 last year.

BRADSTREET'S REPORT.

Bradstreet's says: During the greater portion of the week general wholesale business at Chicago and at centers within the territory tributary has been practically paralyzed by the railway strike, the effects of which were also felt by eastern cities. The industrial situation has now greatly improved. Railroad traffic is generally resumed. In other lines the situation is also improved. There are 229 business failures in the United States reported this week, against 164 last week, and compared with 398 in the second week of July last year, and 166 in that week two years ago.

IN CANADA.

Toronto reports trade quiet. Farmers throughout Ontario are busy harvesting. The price of export cattle is higher. Fall orders for drygoods at Montreal have improved somewhat, but other staple lines are dull.

Crop prospects in Quebec are reported good.

General trade at Halifax is very quiet, but the feeling with reference to all trade in New Brunswick is more encouraging, owing to the outlook for good crops.

There are 34 business failures reported in the Dominion of Canada, against 39 last week, 26 in the same week a year ago, and 24 in the same week two years ago.

Bank clearings at Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Halifax aggregate $19,653,000 this week, 20 per cent more than last week, and 2½ per cent less than in the like week last year.

THE WRECKED BAZAR.

The grand bazar of Stamboul, a part of which has been destroyed by the Constantinople earthquake, is one of the principal attractions to those who visit the Turkish metropolis. From the outside it is an immense stone edifice of Byzantine architecture and irregular form, surrounded by high grey walls and surmounted by hundreds of little cupolas covered with lead and perforated with holes to give light to the interior. Inside it is a labyrinth of arched streets, flanked by sculptured columns and pilasters; a real city, with its mosques, fountains, crossings and squares, dimly lighted, like a thick wood into which no ray of sunlight penetrates, and filled by a dense throng of people. Every street is a bazar, almost all leading out of one main street, with an arched roof of black and white stone, and decorated with arabesque like the nave of a mosque. In this dimly-lighted thoroughfare carriages, horsemen and camels are constantly passing, making a deafening noise. The bazar is ordered like a barrack. Every kind of goods has its particular quarter, its street, its corridor and its square or piazza. There are a hundred little bazars contained in one great one, and opening one into the other like the rooms of a vast apartment, and each bazar is at the same time a museum, a market and a theater, where you may look at all without buying anything, take coffee, enjoy the coolness, chatter in ten languages, and make eyes at the prettiest women in the Orient.

In Parliament.

Turcotte Whitewashed by the Tory Majority.

Strong Opposition to the Proposed $750,000 Steamship Subsidy—But the Bill Gets Its Second Reading.

(Special to the ADVERTISER.)

OTTAWA, July 13.—The motion to adopt the report of the committee on privileges and elections confirming A. J. Turcotte, member for Montmorency, in his seat, moved by Mr. Girouard, was opposed by Mr. Edgar, who moved an amendment declaring that Mr. Turcotte, by reason of contracting with the Government, had forfeited his seat. This was rejected by 84 to 54—a Government majority of 30. Messrs. McNeill, McCarthy, O'Brien and Weidon voted against the Government on this. The main motion was rejected by 82 to 53—a Government majority of 29. On this division Mr. Dickey joined his fellow-Conservatives, Weidon and McNeill, in the revolt.

There was a debate of the motion to adopt the report of the committee recommending the passage of the Dillon divorce bill. The amendment to refer the bill back to committee for further inquiry was carried by 64 to 61, a majority of 3.

Mr. Foster moved the second reading of the bill granting a subsidy of $750,000 for a fast Atlantic service.

Mr. McCarthy opposed the idea altogether. He saw nothing in it but sentimental reasons, and pointed to the fact that if trade justified the existing lines would have improved their service.

Mr. Campbell was against the scheme altogether. The people of Ontario, Manitoba and the Western States would continue to cross the Atlantic via New York, where there was a steamer every day instead of once a week. As to mail matter, it did not matter whether letters went over by way of New York or Montreal.

Sir Richard Cartwright characterized the project as a jump in the dark and unwarranted by the financial outlook. He saw nothing to justify the expenditure, in view, too, of the likelihood that they would be called on hereafter for a much larger subsidy.

The motion for the second reading was carried without division, and the House adjourned.
