with them; sing with them; and when night comes, you can pray with them with a result you little dreamed of. If they can always have more pleasure with you than anybody else you will always know where they are. Did you ever notice how the older animals play with their young? It looks funny you will admit. We have often laughed at an old stiff-legged horse playing with a colt, and what a queer game of "tag," it was; the baby horse beat every time, but the little one always kept close to its mother. Parents, take a lesson and it will be possible to know where the "wandering boys are to-night."

HOME HINTS

Many young men eschew matrimony because of the "failures" which come to their notice, some because of the alleged expense, and more because of the selfishness of their natures. The latter class prefer the grosser enjoyments of life and care not for the spiritual and mental companionship which only a pure woman can give, and the delights which center about the sacred name of home.

Life is like a chamber with one great door having a universal lock. Every man holds a different key, yet each key will open the door if it be rightly used. Some of us are so drunk with the night that we cannot find the lock or we lose the key. Some of us find the way to the door and locate the lock, but we fumble the key. A very few of us throw the latch and go in but are we satisfied? It is against the rules of the game to tell what is behind the door.

One of the things that should be taught early in childhood is the proper use of money. Children should be taught to earn money in the right way and to save it. They should not be allowed to ask for money except from the people of their own home, neither should they be taught to be so saving as to be stingy, but that money should be saved so as to be more useful in a larger sum and not merely to hoard it up for the sake of having it. That implies also that they should be taught to spend their money so as to get the best value for it not only to keep other people from cheating them, but to keep them from cheating themselves by spending their money for useless and harmful purposes.

Old Maids

All girls should marry when they can. There's naught more useful than a man. A husband has some faults, no doubt, and yet he's good to have about; and she who doesn't get a mate will wish she had one soon or late. That girl is off her base I fear, who plans to have a high career, who sidesteps vows and wedding rings to follow after abstract thoughts. I know so many ancient maids who in professions, arts, or trades have tried to cut a manlike swath, and old age finds them in the broth. A loneliness, as of the tomb, enshrouds the spinsters in its gloom; the jim crow honors they have won they'll sell at seven cents a ton. Their sun is sinking in the West, and they, unloved and uncaressed, must envy, as they bleakly roam, the girl with husband, hearth and home. Get married, then, Jimena dear; don't fiddle with a cheap career. Select a man who's true and good, whose head is not composed of wood, a man who's sound in wind and limb, then round him up and marry him. Oh, rush him to the altar rail, nor heed his protest or his wail. "This is," you'll say, when he's been won, "the best day's work I've ever done."

WALT MASON.

No Rest With Asthma. Asthma usually attacks at night, the one time when rest is needed most. Hence the loss of strength, the nervous debility, the loss of flesh and other evils which must be expected unless relief is secured. Fortunately relief is possible. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has proved its merit through years of service. A trial will surely convince you.

Her Name

Her parents called her Marguerite, And friends and kinsfolk said, "How sweet!"

But here I will relate to you What happened as she upward grew.

Her oldest sister called her Meg, Her teasing brother called her Peg, Her girlish chums to Daisy took, Plain Maggie satisfied the cook.

And Madge she was to her papa, And Margie to her fond mamma, And Peggie in her grandma's voice, And Maggie as her grandpa's choice.

With Margery her teacher's word, While Rita she herself preferred, Now, in this list with names replete, yPra what became of Marguerite?

Miller's Worm Powders are complete in themselves. They not only drive worms from the system, but repair the damage that worms cause and so invigorate the constitution that it speedily recovers from the disorders of the digestion that are the result of the work of these parasitic intruders. They do their work thoroughly and strength and soundness follow their use.
