How to Produce a Maximum Yield of Potatoes.

By A. C. BARROW.

Barrow New Yorker Prize Essay. I take the words "maximum yield" to refer only to marketable potatoes.

When to plant. In Ohio, and wherever the "blight" prevails, the potato must be made before the middle of August.

THE SOIL FOR POTATOES. The "maximum yield" can be obtained from a deep, rich, sandy loam.

THE CHOICE OF VARIETIES depends upon the demands of each person's market.

Like tends to produce like; plant therefore, such potatoes as you want to harvest.

PLANTING AND COVERING. Plant as close together as is consistent with the full development of each plant.

CELEBRATION should be constant and to the end. Begin with the barrow a few days after planting, and repeat at intervals of a few days.

INSULTS. There is no remedy for the white grub, except to dig him by planting the soil.

DISSING, STORING AND MARKETING. The best hand-digger is the digging-fork.

Literary conversation at a fashionable reception. Mr. Spidloe, having been introduced to Miss Zwigel, says:

'Very fine assemblage.'

'Very, and quite literary, too.'

'You are fond of literature, I presume?'

'Ah, very. I dole on it.'

'You like Shakespeare, I dare say.'

'Ah, very much. Do you?'

'Very fond of him; I like Burns, too.'

'Words I, very much indeed.'

'Do you like Goldsmith?'

'Very, very much. Do you like Byron?'

'Think he's grand. Do you like Pope?'

'Oh, very much. Do you like Shakspeare?'

'Oh, yes, he's good. Tell you a good writer.'

'Who? Milton?'

'Yes, he is very good, indeed.'

Afterwards Mr. Spidloe, in speaking of the young lady, says that she would not be looked up from his paper, 'I see here that Henry Bergh is in favor of the whipping post for husbands who beat their wives. I don't think though you would like to see me led to the whipping post.'

'No, Toopody, I would not. It might not be so severe on me to have you suffer to some extent. But I don't want to see you killed.'

'Killed, my dear? It doesn't kill a man to whip him at the post.'

'No, Toopody, not under ordinary circumstances; but if you had to go to the whipping post often for many years, and we have been friends with you, in case you attempted to beat me, I feel more than confident it would be a larger dose than your constitution could stand, and I would be left a widow; and I don't want to be left a widow until after the spring cleaning and my gardening are done. Toopody returns to his reading.—Merckel's Traveller.

HE DID NOT WANT TO BE PRESSED TOO HARD.—When Judge Tongue was on the bench in North Carolina, through his care, his wife was brought before him on a trifling charge. During the trial the prisoner said something that displeased his honor. 'Do you mean, sternly said the judge, 'to bring this court into contempt?' The prisoner smiled and said, 'Judge, you have known me for many years, and we have been friends have we not? That is a fact! said the judge. 'You would do me a favor within reason, even now, would you not?' 'Very likely,' responded his honor, all gracious and good humor, 'but what is it? Well, retorted the woman, 'do not give me a whipping stick at once.' 'Make My Will!' gasped the attorney. 'Yes, replied the doctor gently; it would be well, I think.' 'No,' the legal man said, shaking his head. 'I will never make a will. My family needs what little property I have got.'—Philadelphia Call.

A BURGLAR who has climbed up to a garret window on a ladder is arrested by a noise shouting, 'Hello, there, what do you want?' 'May I ask you for a glass of fresh water?'

A DEBATE DECIDED.—The question for debate to the Sewickley Colored Club last evening was: 'Which is the most benefit to man, the steam engine or the horse?'

The horse orator grew pale when his opponent asked, vehemently: 'What am I to do, anyway? Nuffin but a steam engine. Did my learned brother never see a horse on a cold day how steam comes out of his nose? Keep that steam inside and he'd soon be dead!'

'And when you come to die,' said the horse orator, 'how'd I look here? I'd be as cometary as a steam horse! That would be piffle!' 'dious!' This turned the tide and the horse side won.
